STRIKE HEADQUARTERS—Striking Tamalpais High School students stand outside a Mill Valley home housing the headquarters of the Mill Valley Peace Coalition waiting to pick up petitions and receive area assignments to seek signatures from throughout the community. The petitions protest recent United States activities in Southeast Asia. The students were told today to report to the home at 550 Miller Avenue, about a block from the school, by strike leaders at an early morning meeting in the school's amphitheater.

Reagan War Chest Almost $1 Million

First Detailed Look Into State Political Financing

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Reagan's re-election campaign has received nearly $1 million in contributions even though Reagan has no opposition in the June 2 primary election.

Reports on file with Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan show the Reagan campaign has received $987,797 in contributions, mostly from the governor's wealthy supporters and blue chip California companies.

It was the state's first detailed look into bigtime campaign financing.

A new state law requires candidates to file a report before the primary election of all contributions of $500 or more and the name of the contributor. A similar report has to be filed after the election.

Up to this year, the candidate had only to list the name of the donor, never the amount. And it didn't have to be done until after the election.

The new law, authored by Assemblyman Jess Unruh, a Democratic candidate for governor, requires a filing by tonight. Neither Unruh's report nor that of Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, also a Democratic candidate for governor, had been received.

The next largest report was filed by Dist. Atty. Evelle Younger of Los Angeles, Republican candidate for attorney general, who listed $315,772.

Corporations are allowed to contribute to state political campaigns in California, although they can't help candidates for federal office.

Reagan's reports list $2,500 each contributions from these members of the governor's so-called kitchen cabinet of wealthy supporters and advisers: Leonard Firestone, the tire company executive; Henry Salvatori, oil exploration company chief; Holmes Tuttle, Los Angeles auto dealer; Taft Schreiber, Reagan's agent from his motion picture acting days; and Jaquelin Hume, San Francisco food company executive.

Another $2,500 contribution from Salvatori was listed on a second sheet. It could not immediately be determined if this was a duplication or a separate contribtuion.

Some of the largest contributions came from big firms and other individuals, including Jack L. Warner $2,500; Max Factor and Co. $2,500; Arthur Linkletter $1,000; Geraldine Ann Frawley, $3,000; Roy Disney $4,778, Mrs. Tom May $3,000; Twentieth Century Fox $2,500; Dr. Loyal Davis, Reagan's father in law, $1,000; Santa Fe International Co. $1,750; Pillsbury, Madison and Sutro $5,000; Crown Zellerbach $2,500;

Tam, Novato High Students Strike

Approximately 450 Tamalpais High School students boycotted their classes, and about 100 Novato High School students staged a sit-in in front of that school's cafetera today.

Both actions protested the expanding war in Indochina.

Striking students at Tamalpais High School said they were beginning a three-day strike to protest the war and what they called "social injustices" here at home.

The strikers, about one-fourth of the Tam student body of 1,700 ignored a gentle drizzle of rain and gathered in Mead Theatre, an open-air amphitheater at the school. They listened quietly as several student speakers explained the reasons for the boycott and discussed plans for community action to gain support for the strike. One student read a policy statement which said the students believe "that in order to effectively resist the escalation of the war . . .and the related problems of racism and repression, we must suspend academic acticitives . . .and devote our time and effort to a program of community and political action."

Other students labeled the Indochina war "a waste of human lives" and called for immediate halt to the war and the draft.

Jeff Einstein, Tam student body president, told the students the strike is also in support of Sidney F. Walton Jr., fired last week as principal of Sausalito's Martin Luther King School and drew scattered applause from those assembled.

The students plan to organize workshops during the next three days to bring the issues of the war and racial problems into the community, according to Chad Harding, a senior, and one of the strike's coordinators.

Students from a media workshop will contact local newspapers, radio and television to inform them of the students' position on the war, Harding said. Other students will prepare leaflets with information on the strike and the war and distribute them outside the school, he added.

The students also plan to raise the money necessary to finance leaflets and posters and go out into the community, on foot and by telephone, to discuss the war and related issues and circulate petitions protesting the recent U. S. invasion of Cambodia, according to Harding.

Harding said he plans to attend a faculty meeting later today and speak to teachers in an effort to enlist their support for the boycott.

Asst. Principal Henry A. Marshall said those students who do not bring notes from their parents will be penalized by receiving unexcused absences for the time they spent away from classes. "It's really between the students and their parents," he said, noting the school had not forbidden the strikers the use of the campus theater.

Regular classes were still being held at Tam today, ac-

Guard Busy At Schools; College Shut

COMBINED AP & UPI

National Guardsmen and police fought students Tuesday night at the University of South Carolina. Southern Illinois University was ordered closed after 20 per cent of the student body marched on the home of the school's president.

National Guardsmen, most with unloaded rifles, occupied the University of Denver campus today until a war protesters' shantytown was torn down for the second time since Monday.

There was no violence or confrontation during the 2½ hours Guardsmen remained on the campus. The approximately 200 overnight inhabitants of the commune, which they called "Woodstock Nation West," had evacuated a few minutes before Guardsmen arrived.

Trucks hauled away the 10 tons of rubble from the knocked-down village of shacks and lean-tos and street sweepers moved in as classes began on schedule at 8 a.m.

Police Chief George Seaton said anyone who tried to rebuild the commune will be arrested. "We're going to end this, once and for all," he said.

Several schools around the nation suffered firebombings but students returned to classes in other areas. On some campuses protest fragmented to side issues and silliness.

College Teacher Tells Of Strikers' Threats

A complaint of intimidation and rumblings of community discontent were heard today in the antiwar strike at College of Marin, but college spokesman said the strike today was quieter and lower-keyed than in the prior two days.

A teacher said today she had absented herself from the school yesterday and today in fear for her life.

Betty Anne Goris of Kentfield, who teaches Spanish at the college, said she was threatened by red armband-wearing dissidents who tried to shut the school down Monday.

"I gave up trying to go to school" as a result, she said.

The teacher reported that the arm band wearers — she doubted they actually are enrolled at the college — invaded her classroom Monday morning and demanded that she turn it over to them for talks against the government and the Indochina war. When she refused, and "pushed them out into the hall," she said she was told: "You'll get yours. . . It's all going to come down on you."

A second group wearing armbands invaded a noon class and shouted obscenities, but were prevented from entering by male students who blocked the doorway, she said.

"I was so upset that I really could not be effective as a teacher after that; so I didn't go yesterday and today," she added.

The door of a classroom where a German class was being held Monday was wedged shut by the dissidents to prevent the students from leaving, she said. Youths in the class finally managed to jar the wedge loose.

The door of another classroom was boarded shut by the dissidents who were roaming the halls trying to close the school, she reported.

College information officer Earlene Jones said today she had reports that two or three classes had been disrupted Monday, but no reports of disruption yesterday or this morning.

Reddish or purple armbands are worn by members of the Marin Liberation Front, largest of several splinter groups on campus, which is trying to keep the strike going and hopes to shut down the campus.

Sonic Booms Rock Marin

Sonic booms hit Marin and Southern Sonoma counties early this morning as a training exercise took place between the North American Air Defense Command and the Strategic Air Command, according to officials at Hamilton Air Force Base.

The sonic booms were reported about 4:30, 5 and 6:30 a.m. They were caused by high flying supersonic SS71 fighters from Beale Air Force Base, according to Hamilton officials.

The 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton was not involved in the exercise and Hamilton had not been notified of it. . . so no warning was given on the possibility of sonic booms, according to base officials.

Spilled Alum Kills 3,000 Creek Fish

An estimated 3,000 salmon and steelhead trout were killed yesterday when a chemical from a broken line poured into Lagunitas and Paper Mill creeks in Lagunitas and Samuel P. Taylor State Park. (See photo, page 21)

A few larger fish also were killed, reported state fish and game wardens Russell Ilds and Alfred F. Giddings.

The kill was believed the largest in Marin since 1951 when several thousand fish died from rotenone, a pesticide.

Yesterday, a Marin Municipal Water District line broke at about 5 a.m., pouring alum (aluminum sulfate) into a sump which eventually overflowed into Lagunitas Creek.

William R. Seeger, general manager of the water district, said the leak was found at 8 a.m. and 10,000 gallons of water pumped into the creek to dilute the chemical and prevent further killing.

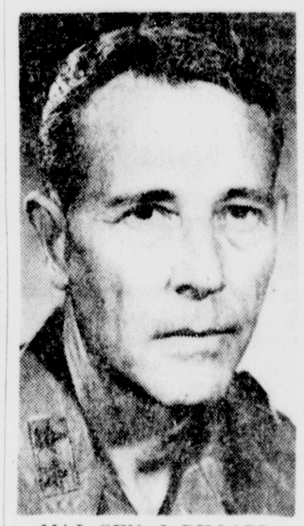

Ilds said most of the dead salmon were hatched this spring and were one to two inches long. Many of the steelhead were yearlings. The wardens also reported finding dead fish measuring 27, 21 and 19 inches long.

The kill area extended approximately two miles down-

MAJ. GEN. J. DILLARD

Cong Downs Copter, Kills Gen. Dillard

I-J Special Report

SAIGON — Major Gen. John A.B. Dillard, of Corte Madera, commander of the U.S. Army Engineer Command in Vietnam, was killed Tuesday when the helicopter in which he was flying was shot down by enemy gunners, the U.S. Command announced today.

He was the sixth American general killed in action in the Vietnam war and the second in a little more than a month.

Dillard, 50, and nine other Americans were aboard a UH1 Huey helicopter hit by enemy fire in the central highlands, 10 miles southwest of Pleiku and about 220 miles northeast of Saigon.

One American survived the crash but was seriously injured.

Dillard's family moved to Corte Madera three months ago from Southern California. He is survived by his wife, Betty, a son, Gerry, and a daughter, Revalee, of Corte Madera, a son, John A.B. Dillard III of Alexandria, Va. and his mother, Mrs. Frank Kulman of El Paso, Tex., and two sisters.

Dillard was assigned to Vietnam in November 1969 as the

I-J Sues Leaders On Pro-ITU Flier

The Independent-Journal yesterday sued three Marin Democratic Party leaders for $5,000,000 claiming that a pamphlet sent out by them last week in support of striking San Frascisco Typographical Union 21 contained "false and untrue statements."

The pamphlet was mailed to Democrats throughout the county by Roger Kent, former Democratic State Central Committee chairman; Nancy Swadesh, vice president of Americans for Democratic Action, and S. Robert Politzer, chairman of the Marin Democratic Central Committee.

The mailing asked Democrats to cancel their subscriptions to the paper and to boycott businessmen who continue to advertise in the I-J.

The suit said that this could cause a loss of revenue for the paper and asked damages.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday signed a temporary restraining order preventing the three Democrats from printing or distributing any more of the pamphlets pending a hearing on the matter.

Such a hearing was set for May 22 at 9 a.m. before Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

The suit filed by San Rafael attorney Albert Bianchi listed the 10 statements in the pamphlet which "the defendants knew or should have known were false and untrue."

As submitted to the court, the suit follows each statement with the publisher's reply, thus:

"1. Statement: 'The paper wants to destroy the union.'

"Truth: The I-J has no desire to destroy the union, and the history of negotiations clearly shows that the I-J has made every reasonable effort to find a course of agreement with the

Blackmun May Slow Down High Court Social Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Harry A. Blackmun's 94-0 confirmation by the Senate brings the Supreme Court up to full strength and probably bends it a little further toward the right.

For the first time in a year, since Abe Fortas was pressured to quit by allegations of ethical impropriety, the court has the nine members it needs to resolve close issues that split the justices 4 to 4.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, at the same time, now has at hand in Blackmun an old friend who is similarly middle-aged, Midwestern, white Protestant and of modest origins.

As a starter, then, Burger at least can hope the new man is of a like mind and available to help fulfill President Nixon and Burger's goal—slow down the court's drive for social reform.

The chief justice, by far the most conservative member of the court, put his philosophy best last weekend in New York when he said in a speech that the law is not geared for "giant leaps forward."

Burger said the high court is "hardly the body to be entrusted with the destinies of a free people." And he said judges should not confuse their jobs with those of legislators.

The judge's opinions give off hints here and there, in civil rights cases particularly, that Blackmun the man wanted to go further than Blackmun the judge would allow.

He could, on the highest court, possibly feel more motivated to give freer rein to his feelings. With some emotion he told the Senate Judiciary Committee what he had learned most since being nominated was that the Supreme Court is considered "a bastion of freedom" by ordinary Americans.

And yet Blackmun assured the senators he would try to keep his personal ideas and philosophies out of his decisions. For instance, he said despite personal qualms about the death penalty he thought reform should best be left to state legislatures and not the courts.

TORNADO TWISTS TRAFFIC

Damaged cars litter the downtown streets of Lubbock, Tex., as the city tries to clean up after Monday evening's disaster that left at least 20 dead and 500 injured. Estimates of damage today ranged up to 750 homes destroyed, leaving 4,800 persons homeless, and a total of up to $200 million loss. Antilooting patrols were set last night, and the city has been declared eligible for disaster loans.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Italian's Choice

ROME (AP) — A national poll of youth shows that, if they had their choice, more Italian children would rather be American than any other nationality.

As they grow older, to university age, fewer would choose the United States and more would prefer swinging Britain or uninhibited Scandinavia.

Although one adult Italian in every four votes Communist, not three in 100 of their children would like to be Russian.

The nationality choice was part of a national poll of students on their views and aspirations. They were asked: If you were not Italian, in what other country would you prefer to have been born?

Hijacker Killed

HIROSHIMA, Japan (UPI) — A police sharpshooter today shot and killed a young robbery suspect who had hijacked a ferry and forced it on a wandering 17-hour voyage on Japan's Inland Sea.

Police said Nobushisa Kawafuji, 20, was felled by a single bullet through the chest fired from 160 feet as he stood atop the deck of the ferry Prince Maru waving a rifle at police. He died an hour and 40 minutes later.

Kawafuji fired at least 20 shots into the air and waved his collection of stolen weapons in defiance of repeated appeals to surrender. A police officer then gave the fire order to a squad of selected marksmen.

The climax to the hijacking was televised live to Japanese viewers who also saw parts of the 83½-hour hijacking of a Japan Air Lines jetliner to North Korea last month on TV.

Finch For Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch has called for a presidential commission to probe campus violence and student unrest.

A "prestigious high-level group" is needed in the wake of the Kent State University deaths to probe campus violence, Finch said, because the Ohio legislature and American Civil Liberties Union plan separate reviews.

In an appearance Tuesday before a Senate Education subcommittee, the secretary said, "I would hope a presidential commission would preempt the field."

Malaysia Attack

IPOH, Malaysia (AP) — Two persons were reported killed and 11 injured in a knife attack against a predominantly Chinese village by Malays Tuesday night, the eve of the first anniversary of a bloody race riot.

Although police in the nearby city of Ipoh and in the Malaysian federal capital of Kuala Lumpur, 105 miles to the south, refused to confirm the killing, police sources said they took place.

Residents at the village of Kampong Tawan said the attack was launched by a gang of Malays armed with knives. They said a man and a woman, both Chinese, were killed. A spokesman at Ipoh general hospital said 11 Chinese were admitted for slash wounds.

Page Girls Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Page girls on the floors of Congress and television cameras in House committee rooms are included in a major and tradition-breaking congressional reorganization bill passed by a House committee.

The bill also authorizes a study on glassing in the House chamber and providing visitors in the galleries with a running explanation of the often confusing debate and procedures on the floor.

The measure was passed by the House Rules Committee Tuesday after a year of hearings and study.

Funds Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second straight year, the House has voted a whopping increase in antipollution funds sought by the Nixon administration.

The House Tuesday approved $500 million for water and sewer lines in the year beginning July 1, more than triple the administration's requested $150 million.

The funds were added to an omnibus appropriations bill which totals about $17.3 billion mainly for programs of the Housing and Urban Affairs Department, Veterans Administration, and National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Russ To Visit Cuba

MOSCOW (UPI)—A squadron of Soviet Navy vessels will visit the Cuban port of Cienfuegos for repairs and a courtesy call May 14, the news agency Tass said Tuesday. The squadron includes antisubmarine vessels, submarines and auxiliary ships and has been taking part in naval exercises in the Atlantic.

Jury Weighs Alioto-Look Libel Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The $12.5 million libel suit Mayor Joseph Alioto lodged against Look magazine is in the hands of an eight-woman, four-man jury today.

The jury received the case and deliberated five hours Tuesday the 16th day in court, without reaching a verdict.

U.S. District Judge Bruce R. Thompson instructed the jury that for Alioto to win it must find Look published last Sept. 23 a disputed article linking the mayor with the Mafia with reckless disregard for the truth.

The judge also ruled information from Tommy Lee Thomas, a major informant to the free lance co-authors Lance Brisson and Richard Carlson, was "all hearsay and incompetent."

In determining how much, if any, damages to award, the judge said the jury should consider possible loss of reputation, shame and humiliation to Alioto.

Under federal law, all 12 jurors must agree on a verdict.

Last January Alioto withdrew from contention for the Democratic nomination for governor, saying the lawsuit would consume too much time to allow him to campaign effectively.

Who's ROSENBERG?

Draft Chief Cites Youth Turn-Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr says a majority of the nation's students have turned against the Vietnam war and the Nixon administration because of the Cambodia intervention.

Tarr told an interviewer he supports President Nixon's policy of extricating the United States from Vietnam, but said, "We haven't sold the logic of this policy to a lot of the public."

Asked if he supported the decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia, Tarr hesitated a long time before answering:

"In military terms, we'll be able to defend it as a good policy. An unfortunate thing is the political effect it has had. The effective truce between the President and the young people was an uneasy one and it took only this incident to make young people turn out in great numbers.

"There is no question the campaign into Cambodia has made my job an awful lot tougher. It is hard to make much progress on the inequities of the draft when we have problems maintaining the operation of the system."

He said concern with Cambodia has also diminished the prospects for early consideration by Congress of draft reform.

Three students from New Jersey met with Tarr Tuesday and then told a newsman the draft official was considering resigning to protest administration policies. Tarr denied it.

"That's what they wanted me to do," he said.

He said he had agreed with them that resignation should be considered if an official felt he could not support his administration, but "I'm not thinking now about resigning. I want to make a success out of this thing.

"If I get into a situation where it is impossible to do the job, I wouldn't stay just to hold down my salary," he said. "But I don't foresee that."

In the later interview, Tarr said he met with three student groups this week.

"These people are thoughtful," he said. "They are alarmed. Many of these young people feel the uneasy truce between students and the government has been broken. They've lost what faith they may have had in the government.

"I'm convinced," Tarr continued, "that in the Moratorium (antiwar demonstration) in November, we got people who represented a fairly small segment of the student population. At least, they were a minority.

"I think the people who have been here the last few days represented a majority. A lot of them have been so called 'moderate' students who would not have been involved six months ago.

"I'll never forget one boy who sat over there on the couch," Tarr said. "He sat there and he said: 'I'm afraid of the government.' This is something we in government have to take into account."

"My real reservation with the war in Vietnam," Tarr said, is that it stands in the way of doing things in national defense that are much, much more important than the war in Southeast Asia.

"It is dissipating the good will people around the world have had for our armed forces. It is making it harder to purchase the sophisticated equipment we will need for our defense in the future."

Hong Kong Storm

HONG KONG (UPI)—Nearly nine inches of rain fell in less than 12 hours today in a storm that flooded parts of Hong Kong and brought landslides that collapsed houses. A 14-year-old girl drowned when she was swept into a stream. More than 200 persons were evacuated from lower parts of the British crown colony.

Cambodia Debate Near After Network Pleas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate stood ready today to begin a great debate on the war in Southeast Asia, a debate likely to continue for the announced duration of U.S. operations in Cambodia.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the opening round, set late today or Thursday, involves an amendment to cut off funds for U.S. operations in Cambodia effective June 30.

That is the deadline announced by President Nixon for withdrawal of the American forces he sent across the border to destroy Communist sanctuaries and supply depots.

In a preview of the long debate ahead, five critics of U.S. policy appealed in an unprecedented network television broadcast for public support of legislation to compel American withdrawal from South Vietnam.

That broadcast, and the Senate timetable designed by Mansfield, are part of a campaign, Democratic sources said, to gain votes for a phased cutoff of appropriations to finance U.S. military operations in Cambodia, then in Laos, then in South Vietnam itself.

Meantime, two Republican senators, GOP Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, and Robert J. Dole of Kansas, introduced proposals to put the Senate's stamp of approval on the U.S. thrust into Cambodia by authorizing such action to protect the lives of American forces in Vietnam.

The measures are designed to block the move aimed at barring future U.S. attacks into Cambodia. But a flap developed quickly over whether Scott's proposal had the Nixon administration's backing. Scott indicated it did, the White House indicated it didn't.

During the Tuesday night telecast, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said, "This is not a sense of the Congress resolution, it is not a debater's point. It is an act of law, which, if carried, will put an end to this war in a systematic way."

Two Democrats and two Republicans appeared with McGovern in the half-hour program.

Appearing on the television program with McGovern and Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, were Frank Church, D-Iowa, Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., and Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore.

"I think it's time that the American people recognize that the President doesn't have the power to declare war or to make war alone," said Goodell.

"How many more American men have to be heaped upon that funeral pyre of war to disprove a theory or a doctrine of military action that has been proven wrong each time that it's been acted upon," Hatfield said.

Said Church: "This war has done more to undermine America's moral leadership in the world than anything that's ever happened to us . . . ."

"How ironic it would be if at long last we succeeded in pacifying Southeast Asia, and couldn't pacify our own socie-ty," McGovern said.

Mansfield said debate on the amendment to cut off funds for U.S.-Cambodian action will be followed by action on a resolution to repeal the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution, used by Lyndon B. Johnson to send masses of U.S. armed forces into Southeast Asia.

Teen-Age Viet Red Troops Lose Gory Cambodia Fight

SAIGON (UPI) — Teen-aged North Vietnamese soldiers charging in a human wave broke through the barbed wire defense perimeter of a U.S. artillery base in Cambodia today in the first Communist counterattack of the Allied Cambodian offensive. They were thrown back with heavy losses.

Communist gunfire in South Vietnam shot down four U.S. helicopters Tuesday, killing 13 Americans including Maj. Gen. A.B. Dillard, 50, commander of U.S. Army engineers in Vietnam.

The Communist counterattack came as the U.S. Command reported the first withdrawal of American troops from Cambodia—3,000 in two groups Their pullback left 16,000 American and 23,000 South Vietnamese still in Cambodia.

Some of the South Vietnamese started home today with 9,000 Vietnamese refugees loaded aboard a flotilla of boats which sailed 100 miles up the Mekong River to Phnom Penh and beyond to rescue them from the threat of Cambodian persecution.

Military spokesmen said the American defenders of the Cambodian gunbase two miles inside Cambodia and 90 miles north of Saigon leveled their guns and blasted apart the charging Communists, killing 58 of them. American losses were put at one dead and eight wounded.

Official sources said 1,000 to 1,500 men of the 3rd Brigade, U.S. 9th Infantry Division withdrew Tuesday from the Parrot's Beak of Cambodia west of Saigon, leaving an estimated 17,000 Americans and 23,000 South Vietnamese still involved in the cross-border campaign.

Nixon had pledged last week some U.S. troops would be out of Cambodia by midweek, the bulk would be withdrawn by mid-June and all would be pulled out by July 1. Ninety-six GIs have died in the thrusts into Communist sanctuaries.

The withdrawal report followed two terror attacks in the capital early today. In one, a 15-pound bomb exploded next to the Louisiana U.S. officers' quarters near Tan Son Nhut Airport, wounding one American inside and four Vietnamese who lived next door —two women and two children.

Later in the city's Cholon section, terrorists opened fire with rifles on South Korean sailors riding to work in a truck. One of the 14 men aboard the truck was killed and four were wounded. The sailors said they held their fire for fear of hitting civilians walking nearby.

Allied ground troops pressed on with their sweeps through Cambodian sanctuaries on several fronts and were reported to have uncovered a total of about 9,000 weapons, 2,000 tons of rice and 163 vehicles, including trucks, that were used in the guerrilla supply network.

Field reports have claimed about 5,500 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed with Allied losses put at about 225 South Vietnamese dead and nearly 100 Americans slain.

Strawberry Panel Asks Nixon To Pull Out Troops

The board of directors of the Strawberry Recreation District has urged President Richard M. Nixon to withdraw United States troops from Southeast Asia.

The board last night passed a resolution declaring it is "unalterably opposed to the course of action taken by national administrators in Southeast Asia" and urging that "funding of the war be withheld and withdrawal from the area be accomplished as quickly as possible." according to Clerk Jeanne Heick.

The board ordered letters sent to California legislators in Washington and to the President informing them of the resolution, Mrs. Heick said.

stream from the Lagunitas treatment plant into the state park, where another stream joins Lagunitas Creek to form Paper Mill Creek, which flows into Tomales Bay.

Forest Knolls resident David Cavagnaro wrote Seeger questioning the need for a treatment plant beside the creek, charging the alum had killed the fish, most aquatic insects and inspired "considerable wrath" in the community.

Seeger said the broken alum line will be relocated so any future break would not drain into the creek. Cause of yesterday's break is not known, he said.

Alum is used in water treatment to remove sediments.

Bench Warrant Set In Theft, Marijuana

A bench warrant with bail set at $5,000 was issued yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Ralph Leonard Human, 18, of Portland, Ore., when he failed to appear for a preliminary hearing.

Human is accused of petty theft and possessing marijuana. He was arrested April 15 in a Mill Valley market for allegedly taking a package of bologna. Police said he had a small amount of suspected hashish in his pocket.

Two-hundred troops, bayonets fixed, dispersed the student gatherings as orders fired tear gas canisters from shotgun launchers. Police chased down the scattering students, arrested 86 they caught. Most of the students fled at the first volley of gas. The campus was reported calm this morning.

Between 4,000 and 6,000 of Southern Illinois University's students marched on the home of President Delyte Morris. Others occupied his nearby office. A witness said the crowd stretched "as far as the eye could see."

Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar announced the closing.

He said the decision "saved the fabric of the institution in terms of its physical buildings." MacVicar said he feared "there would have been massive destruction" if authorities had kept SIU open but, at the same time, "I am not sure that we have not wreaked a very great havoc on the institution. We now have a university deeply divided."

Police said the decision was greeted with "pandemonium." Students were reportedly dancing up and down in the business district, some in the nude.

Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken declared a state of emergency early today in Ypsilanti, where students staged a second night of protests. The declaration allowed state police to enforce a 10 p.m. curfew, which many students had ignored.

Curfews were in effect on several other campuses.

A firebomb did an estimated $122,000 damage Tuesday to an Ohio University cafeteria, two fires caused $100,000 damage at an Illinois Wesleyan University music building and two Molotov cocktails destroyed the police science building at Rutgers Livingston College in Edison, N.J.

More than 3,000 persons marched on the Portland, Ore., city hall Tuesday, demanding abolition of a police unit which clubbed demonstrators at Portland State college Monday.

Ohio State University announced Tuesday the faculty would be recalled today to prepare for the school's reopening. The 45,000 OSU students were turned out May 6 after campus disturbances led to a call for the National Guard.

Cornell University students rolled a cardboard tank up to an ROTC drill hall Tuesday, shot daffodils and a cloud of flour from its cannon and demanded the abolition of ROTC. The tank, constructed of cardboard over a small car, flew Viet Cong and Yippie flags.

Meanwhile, the determination of students to push their protests against the war was beginning to be matched in some cases by the desire of students, especially seniors, to finish the academic year.

"There is much confusion in the mind of students," said one spokesman at the University at Berkeley, "whether they are going to be able to finish out the quarter and get credit for doing it."

At Stanford's 11,000-student campus, picketing ended Tuesday at the administration building and an electronics laboratory after the administration invoked "campus judicial mechanisms" to remove them.

A four-hour rally occupied the hallways of the San Jose State administration building Tuesday, then dispersed before official closing time at 5 p.m.

At UC Santa Barbara, student pickets were out Tuesday but did not interfere with those wishing to attend classes.

At UC Davis, 50 students began a fast to last until 50,000 signatures are collected on an antiwar petition.

A fast began also at Humboldt State College, where 8,000 copies of an antiwar tabloid giving a history of Vietnam and American involvement was distributed through Arcata and nearby Eureka. Many older people asked for extra copies, students said.

COLLEGE

has been "inundated" with telephone calls, most of them from parents complaining that their children have been blocked from entering class buildings or went to class to find the teacher did not appear.

Grasham said the faculty must respond to the public and trustees to maintain the college program, and also must recognize students' concern over events on other campuses throughout the nation.

Students and teachers should be free to participate in activities on their own time, Grasham said, but such activities should not interfere with others who wish to attend their classes.

Grasham also told the Independent-Journal the strike appeared quieter today than Monday and yesterday, and said he had heard no complaints of interference with classes today.

Fewer students manned picket lines today, and damp weather apparently helped quiet the campus mood. No college official had an estimate of today's participation in the strike. Earlier estimates were that half the faculty was supporting the strike, while an undetermined but large number of students took part.

A faculty meeting was scheduled today, with many students expected to attend, to discuss the strike and when to resume normal classes. The strike originally was scheduled to end today, but some have advocated extending it.

Three hundred students and teachers attended a marathon session yesterday to discuss the strike, its future and its aims.

Soldier's Body Below Bridge

A 21-year-old Army man jumped to his death from the Golden Gate Bridge at about 10 a.m. yesterday.

The California Highway Patrol said the body of Edward Hickman, a soldier stationed at the Presidio in San Francisco, was recovered 35 minutes later and taken to Fort Point Coast Guard Station and transferred to the Letterman Morgue.

A witness told the highway patrol the man was walking across the bridge on the east walk with a companion when he jumped over the railing near the north tower. The companion kept on walking.

The patrol had no indication of motive.

Planners Uphold Safety Code On Plaza Shops

The Cotati Planning Commission last night approved a use permit for small shops to operate in the Plaza market, but agreed with the city council that safety codes must be met before occupancy.

John E. Nielsen, owner of the market at 8090 La Plaza Street, received approval to use the former market for retail and wholesale toys and sundries along with retail demonstration and sale of handcrafts and arts.

The commission agreed with the city council decision last Thursday that the substandard building be renovated to meet all safety codes before it can be occupied. Nielsen had requested 10 years to make the improvements.

The Cotati Planning Commission also:

LOT SPLIT — Approved the request of August Lovmark to divide his property at 128 to 190 Valparaiso Avenue into four lots.

Four Car Crash Injures Teener

An 18-year-old Mill Valley girl suffered a cut thumb in a four car accident on Waldo Grade, Highway 101, at 5:15 p.m. yesterday.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Ann Arbour of 32 Glen Drive, a passenger in a car driven by Lynjlin M. Reagan, 32, of the same address, said she would consult a private physician for minor injury.

Also driving cars involved in the accident were Joseph F. Palmier, 30, of Brooklyn, N.Y., Henry G. Brogiotti, 50, of 93 Rock Hill Drive, Belvedere, and Roland C. Williams, 46, of 253 Ricardo Road, Mill Valley.

The highway patrol said Palmier and Williams were stopped in traffic when Brogiotti's car piled into William's car, then Reagan's car hit Brogiotti's.

Two Injured On New Offramp

Two persons received minor injuries in a four-car pile-up at 5 p.m. yesterday on the Hetherton Street off-ramp from Highway 101 in San Rafael.

The California Highway Patrol said Paul H. Paulus, 54, of 830 B Street, San Rafael, suffered a cut lip and bloody nose, and Naomi B. Kirschner, 55, of 20 Oak Street, San Anselmo, complained of pain in her back and shoulders following the accident.

The highway patrol reported that Paulus' car hit the rear end of Naomi Kirschners' car and pushed it into a car driven by Keith Craven, 38, of 269 Scenic Road, Fairfax. Craven's car then hit a car driven by Nathaniel H. Howe, 58, of Oakland. The latter three cars were stopped at a red light.

Youth Bound Over In Quarry Theft

Gerald Clair Crane, 18, of Larkspur, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of twice burglarizing the Hutchinson Co. rock quarry in Greenbrae as well as possessing 100 pounds of dynamite of March 15.

He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Police said Crane led them to more hidden explosives after he was arrested outside the quarry and showed them dynamite in the trunk of his car.

Judge Candidates To Talk Tomorrow

Twelve contestants for Marin Municipal Court judge will talk with voters at a "candidates' fair tomorrow sponsored by the Central Marin League of Women Voters.

Instead of debating as at most league candidates' nights, the judge candidates will sit at separate tables to talk with voters and distribute campaign materials. The meeting will start at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium of Marin Catholic High School.

cording to the vice principal even though some of this morning's classes limped along with only four or five students in attendance.

Marshall had some kind words for the youngsters who are boycotting their classes. "We are trying to get students involved through education," he said. "We are always teaching involvement; then, when the students get involved, some people become upset.

"I support their involvement in activities they feel strongly about," Marshall added.

However, at Novato High School, Principal Stanley V. Onderdonk told the protesting students that they were only hurting themselves by cutting their classes.

The approximately 100 students boycotted classes after the 10 a.m. break and said they intended to remain in front of the cafeteria throughout the day.

The school has an enrollment of 1200 students.

"What's more important, education or killing people?" a protesting student shouted at Onderdonk when he tried to persuade them to end the sit-in.

"We are planning a peaceful rally next week with guest speakers, and this may kill that," he said. "If we don't get to hold that rally for the big majority of students, all hell will break loose."

Randy Schulman, one of three students who yesterday started gathering signatures on petitions protesting the Cambodian war, also unsuccessfully urged the students to disperse.

Onderdonk said he was going to contact the parents of the students and have them take their chilren home.

"I wish the parents could see what their children are doing," he said.

Tools Taken

A $165 sander, $96 drill and another $65 sander owned by Warren H. Hinkley of 111 Granlee Road, Santa Venetia, were stolen Sunday or Monday from an unoccupied duplex he was repairing at 527 Belle Avenue, according to San Rafael police.

Planning Dominates Discussion As McInnis, Zucker Square Off

Marin County has an obsolete government in a modern Civic Center, lacking in leadership and dominated by "development groups," charged Paul C. Zucker from a Santa Venetia podium last night.

Marin's problems cannot be solved "by a lot of political blather" by someone who "has never been confronted with solving problems other than on paper and in talk," retorted County Supervisor John F. McInnis from the same platform.

The two candidates for First District supervisor clashed in a debate sponsored by the Gallinas Village Improvement Association before an audience of about 80 in the Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church.

McInnis bore down heavily on the problem of juvenile crime — one that is of particular concern in Santa Venetia.

"You people have had bands of vigilantes out patrolling your own neighborhoods with guns" he decalred.

There were a few exclamations of "no!" but McInnis continued, "That's what I've been told, and I see some of you nodding your heads."

He said he has made the first step toward a sensible approach to handling of juvenile delinquents by getting judges, sheriff's and police juvenile officers, and probation workers together and winning their agreement to set up a single report form and a central place for records of juveniles so that each will know what the others are doing.

Zucker said the board of supervisors "Must have a different philosophy" to curb juvenile crime. "We're in serious trouble in social programs," he declared, yet when he proposed social planning, the supervisors told him, "We don't know what you're talking about."

Marin should do away with its elective sheriff to improve law enforcement, Zucker declared.

Much of the dispute was over planning.

McInnis said Marin's future "is completely unplanned because, although the board has demanded planning, there has been no delivery" by the county planning officer under Zucker as director.

"We have a general plan that meets state requirements," said Zucker. "What we have is 15 or 16 uncoordinated, unrelated plans," retorted McInnis.

Zucker charged the county has done nothing on mass transit, and blamed this largely on lack of leadership by McInnis during his two years as chairman of the Marin Transit District board.

"I propose that we immediately get into a bus sytem," he said. "If the Golden Gate Bridge District is unwilling to move, let's get rid of it."

McInnis said the county held back on starting its own bus system because that would require a subsidy of from $500,000 to $1,500,000 per year from the taxpayers. The bridge district is ready to go with buses, he said, and can underwrite the losses from bridge tolls.

Zucker said the multiplicity of governments in Marin "must be simplified." He called county budgeting "ridiculous . . .by methods abandoned by modern cities 10 or 15 years ago."

McInnis, accused by Zucker of being a "do-nothing" official, recited his own accomplishments as city councilman and mayor of San Rafael to prove the opposite.

Zucker, getting a last dig about planning, claimed that "there were nine planning directors in San Rafael during my opponent's 12 years on the city council."

"I think the county will have a change of planning director, too," interjected McInnis.

He said he had learned only recently that the Federal Housing Administration had held up home loan guarantees in Santa Venetia lowlands because they had been classified as a flood plain. Construction last year of a new force main by the Santa Venetia Flood Control District should make at least part of the area again eligible for loans, he said.

He explained difficulties under state law in expanding the flood control district to include uplands that are sources of flood water. Zucker, commenting on this, said, "change the law!"

The matter of annexation of Smith Ranch and Civic Center lands to San Rafael produced warm discussion near the end of the question period, with several persons saying Santa Venetia had been "short-changed" and "left an island" by the action

McInnis put in a plug for annexation of all of Santa Venetia to San Rafael, suggesting it would mean lower fire insurance rates and better fire and police protection which would more than compensate for having to pay city taxes.

Gallinas Village Improvement Club will present candidates for municipal judge at a forum in the same hall on May 25.

Pinned In Car For 15 Minutes

Thomas M. Hartsock, 22, of Two Rock Ranch Army Station, Petaluma, was treated at the post infirmary for cuts suffered in an accident at 12:45 a.m. yesterday in Rohnert Park.

Police said his car overturned at Commerce Boulevard at the Rohnert Park expressway, pinning him in the wreckage for 15 minutes.

Redwood Holds Asian Convocation

By LARRY MOWELL

Some of the frustrations of anti-war students at Redwood High School were let out yesterday as classes were canceled for a day-long convocation on the Southeast Asia situation.

About 60 per cent of the school's 2,400 students packed the school gymnasium to hear four professors give a background and theoretical information of American involvement in Asia.

"They (the professors) were very impartial. There was no pro and con. They layed down all aspects of the problem," said Asst. Principal Jack R. Baat.

About 200 returned after lunch to hear students and one teacher present their views on positive solutions to the war puzzle and then to form action groups to work for the solutions.

The student-sought convocation, organized under the direction of government teacher Raymond Jacques, stemmed from a disruptive march through the school by militant students Thursday, Jacques said.

He said a group of students met spontaneously in the hall on Friday and decided it would be better to keep protest within the school by having a convocation with speakers in the morning and discussion in the afternoon.

Jacques took the plan to the faculy and they endorsed it 82 to 11 Friday. Speakers were found over the weekend.

David Baker, instructor in Asian Studies at the University of California led off the teach-in at 8:30 a.m. with a speech on the historical background of Southeast Asia and American involvement there.

Sociology Professor Terry F. Lundsford of the University of California then explained the political aspects, zeroing in on what he called executive government.

Professor Raymond Miller, a social science teacher at San Francisco State College, picked up the theme of participation. He said power and national interest determine foreign policy and that the only way out of Asia is to convince America that it is not in our national interest to be there.

This will require well organized local work, not inflammatory speeches against the immorality and injustice of the war, he said.

Professor John E. Coons of Boalt Law School in Berkeley concluded the morning session by posing questions about the legality of America's Asian position and Massachusetts legislation forbidding the federal government to use its men in undeclared wars.

After mulling over during lunch what they had heard in the morning, the group heard 17 students and athletic director Robert J. Troppman express their views.

Action groups were formed at 2 p.m. and met until school adjourned.

Student Tracy Smale compared the Southeast Asia situation to a prune pit in the mouth that can not be disposed of gracefully. He said he would prefer staying in Vietnam to being embarrassed.

Richard Stoltze then called for nonviolent, but effective demonstrations before frustration sets in and students become ultra-radical.

Troppman suceeded him and told the group America can only be saved by getting back to fundamentals like faith, respect, loyalty, love, education and leadership.

He compared government to athletics and said America's losing streak could be ended by attention to fundamentals just as sports losing streaks are ended.

Normal classroom routine was resumed today and attendance was normal, school officials reported.

Pot Reported Found In Purse

A Mill Valley woman was booked at Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana and a dangerous drug after the substances were found while she was being booked on suspicion of shoplifting, Larkspur police reported today.

Joanne Rosalie Lucinian, 20, of 215 Hawthorne Avenue, posted $1,250 bail to appear at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said she was arrested at the Safeway grocery on Bon Air Road on suspicion of taking a bottle of rinse. When her purse was searched at Marin County Jail, a bag of suspected marijuana and a yellow pill were found, police said.

Sonoma State Quiet; Classes Filling Again

Sonoma State College campus appeared quiet today as some students abandoned the picket line for the classroom.

Attendance was reported as still down in most classes because of a vote taken yesterday to extend the class boycott until June. The Student Strike Committee said that strikers would not prevent others from attending classes and that each student "should do his own thing."

Students yesterday gave unenthusiastic approval to strike for the remainder of the semester in a toned-down convocation.

The meeting of nearly 2,000 students, faculty and staff members was orderly, quiet and at times bordered on fullness in comparison to the raucous convocation last week that melted into disorder with shouts and arguments.

The students yesterday saw the vote to extend the strike losing ground as the clear majority of strike voters counted last week lost number.

Speakers condemned the war in Southeast Asia, racisim, and repression and said the strike vote was necessary as a statement from the campus.

President Ambrose R. Nichols Jr. had said earlier that students have the option of discontinuing their academic work or substituting noncourse activities after making arrangements with their instructors. Some professors are allowing students to assume grades achieved before the strike or substituting letter grades for the pass-fail system.

Although no vote count was taken, those in favor of striking were asked to stand and approximately 70 per cent of the crowd did. The remaining 30 per cent rose to vote against the strike and a return to classes.

After voting to boycott classes, the students approved a resolution voting to boycott classes, the students approved a resolution that any classes that are resumed be asked to direct their disciplines towards solving the problems of war, racism, repression and the pollution of the environment.

Moderates spoke against the proposal, saying they could learn about the war off campus and wanted classes to pertain only to the subject matter.

The gathering also gave a half-hearted approval to the strike proposals set forth at San Jose State College over the weekend by the National Student Congress and California Student Offensive.

After the convocation, the students divided into work-action groups designed to take their antiwar views off campus and into communities in Marin, Sonoma and Napa counties.

Another convocation will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the field house to discuss plans formulated by the organizing committees.

Novato Students Campaign For Antiwar Signatures

Three Novato High School seniors yesterday started circulating anti-Cambodian invasion petitions on the school campus.

The students, Randy Schulman, Steven Doran and Ray Riley got between 300 and 400 signatures the first noon hour they circulated the petitions in front of the school cafeteria. They were to continue gathering signatures today during the lunch hour.

They plan to send the petitions to Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District and Sens. George Murphy and Alan Cranston.

Schulman said that they hope to organize an antiwar rally next week at the school, and have speakers both for and against the war. He said that the three of them will try to organize a house-to-house canvass of Novato to get signatures of adults on their petition.

Vice Principal Edward Kraft said that the school will work with the students if they can arrange speakers. He said that all parents would be notified and invited to hear the speakers if the rally is organized. It would be done on a minimum day, Kraft said.

The petition declares: "We the undersigned, as high school students in America, without a legal vote or voice in the government, wish to make our opinion known, since we will be called upon to fight and die in a war which we can't support. We recognize Nixon's invasion of Cambodia contrary to his avowed intentions of de-escalation of the war in Vietnam and such action as jeopardizing international peace. We demand immediate withdrawal from Cambodia."

New Larkspur Chamber Head

Olrich, formerly manager of the Wells-Fargo bank in Greenbrae, has been transferred, Mrs. Schaefer said.

The chamber directors also agreed to nominate a Larkspur citizen of the year to represent the chamber in the Fourth of July parade.

Fire Official Plans To Resign

Chairman Boyd F. Wells, a member of the Marinwood Fire Commission since January, 1969, has told the commission he plans to submit his resignation.

Wells told the commission at its meeting Tuesday that he was resigning because of business pressure, Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield reported.

Bonfield reported to the commission there had been 19 emergency calls, including 11 fires, during the last month.

Top Building Inspector To End Career

Hans J. Berge, the county's chief building inspector, announced today he will retire July 1 at age 65.

Berge has been building inspector in Marin since June 17, 1963. Before that, he worked for the Alameda County building inspection department for more than 13 years.

Berge explained he is retiring because of age and because his wife has been ill for several years and needs attention.

He denied that his recent run-in with Public Works Director Donald R. Frost had anything to do with his retirement. Berge has been resisting Frost's proposal to reorgainze the public works department so that the chief building inspector would be directly responsible to the public works chief instead of being a separate division.

Berge said he may eventually go into building design on his own, but for the immediate future, he intends to take life easy at his home in Oakland.

Clausen Wants Fishing Halted

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, has introduced legislation aimed at halting extensive commercial fishing by foreign governments off the U.S. coast.

The measure would prohibit foreign fleets from coming within 200 miles of the U.S. coastline. The present boundary is 12 miles out.

Clausen authored unsuccessful legislation last year which would have extended the limit to 50 miles.

The congressman said his new bill "was prompted by the conviction that foreign fishing fleets are systematically plundering the fishing grounds off the coast of the continental U.S." He referred to the fleets of the Soviet Union, Japan and South Korea.

Sausalito Rail Service To Continue, Agency Says

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The Interstate Commerce Commission has denied an appeal by Northwestern Pacific Railroad for reconsideration of the ICC's order prohibiting abandonment of service on the railroad's Sausalito spur.

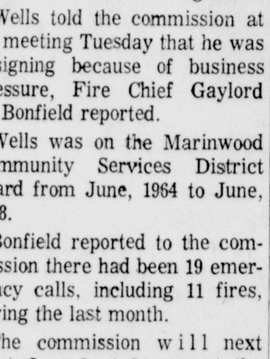

The commission had overruled its examiner last fall and rejected NWP's bid to halt service along the 7.5-mile branch from Corte Madera.

In denying the railroad's petition for reconsideration, the ICC, acting as an appellate division, ruled that "no showing has been made warranting" further deliberation.

The railroad had said service on the branch was losing money and that facilities were in need of repair that wouldn't be economical. The arguments were countered by several Sausalito industries using the tracks and by the City of Sausalito.

Accidental deaths involving sporting arms have dropped one-third over the last 30 years.

Ribicoff Decries 'Apartheid' Trend

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., called today for an immediate end to "Northern-style segregation."

"This nation is on the road to apartheid," Ribicoff said in remarks prepared for the convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

"It's being driven there by a President trying to develop a Southern accent, a Congress suffering political paralysis, and many of us here in this room," Ribicoff said.

He predicted that unless something is one to bring equality to all races, "the disturbances of the past will have only been the prologue for disasters of the future."

"There is no reason not to move against Northern-style segregation immediately," he said. "We don't have to wait for the Supreme Court or anyone else to supply us with our courage, although we'd better not count on much help from the President, his administration or Congress.

"The President's goal supposedly is to bring us together, but his actions seem designed to shatter the bonds of our society. He appeals to the middle American and the silent majority, not by meeting their needs, but by providing them with scapegoats for their frustration."

Ribicoff said he would soon introduce legislation which would require that plans be formulated now for ending segregation in all schools within 10 years.

Another speaker, Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel said the nation must redirect its priorities toward "the living of life rather than . . . the destruction and defense of life."

The reordering of American priorities—from war abroad to improvement of the physical and social environment at home—has been a major theme of young people opposed to the Vietnam war and to environmental pollution.

Hickel has been urging President Nixon since last week to listen to the nation's youth, most notably in a personal letter which was leaked to the press.

Hickel said he was "most grateful for the spirit in which the President received my views."

Hickel's letter had urged the President to meet privately more often with his Cabinet members.

Hickel was invited to the White House Tuesday afternoon for an hour-long meeting with presidential adviser John Erlichman. A spokesman said Hickel described the meeting as "warm, cordial and productive."

In the speech here, Hickel stood by his letter, which had also hinted that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew should moderate his criticism of young dissenters.

Hickel made no mention of Agnew in his speech, but he said, "Some think the crisis is on our campuses.

"But let me ask: Are student demonstrations the disease? Or are they the symptom?"

His remarks appeared to suggest a shift of resources from defense spending to investment in improving the quality of life.

"We must take stock of what are the priorities for man," Hickel said.

"... The globe—our earth—is endangered by man's environmental abuses, and also, and very clearly, by our current approach to living together in a way which will not assure our survival."

Prince Of Wales Breaks Tradition

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles disregarded royalty's traditional avoidance of public controversy Tuesday night and questioned the worth of the Concorde, the supersonic jet airplane the British and French are developing jointly.

The heir to the throne told fellow students before he delivered his maiden speech in a debate at the Cambridge University Union Society that he was in an awkward position because he was "not supposed to get involved in controversy of any sort."

"Sometimes I think I would like to go in it," Charles said of the plane. "But then if it is going to pollute us with noise, if it is going to knock down churches or shatter priceless windows when it tests its sonic boom—is this what we really want? Has it accomplished a great deal?"

Tea Tasters Get Jobs Reprieve

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The men who taste tea for the government, all three of them, can keep their jobs, according to a congressman.

President Nixon's budget eliminated their jobs and those of the seven members of the government's only official Board of Tea Experts, which sets standards for the 150 million pounds of tea imported each year.

But Rep. John S. Moagan, D-Conn., said he had received a letter from Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, acknowledging only Congress could eliminate the board. The tea tasters will continue to judge quality under the board's standards.

Biologist Calls Police Brutal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A biologist at American University says police brutality resulted in the deaths of eight laboratory mice.

Dr. Robert Strautz said the mice died from inhaling tear gas fired Monday night at student antiwar protesters gathered outside his laboratory window.

When he ran outside to protest the mouse killings, an officer hit him on the head with a nightstick and threw him into a police van, Strautz said.

The mice had been fattened for five years by injections and organ transplants for diabetes experiments. Strautz said he was charged with disorderly conduct and is "shaken and frightened by this ordeal."

Miami Students Ask Return To Dixie Days

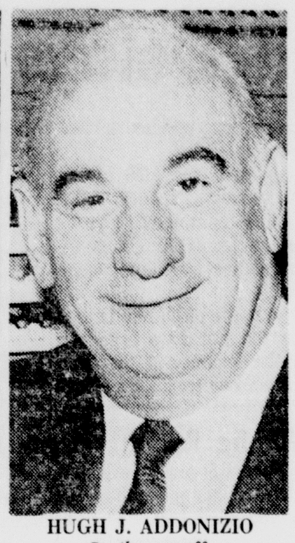

MIAMI (UPI) — White students boycotting South Dade High School are demanding that authorities reinstate "Dixie" as the school song, allow rebel flags to be flown at athletic events and authorize confederate uniforms for the school band.

Of the racially-troubled school's 1,000 white students, only 30 showed up for classes Tuesday, along with 584 blacks.

The Confederate theme was banned by the school board two years ago when black students complained.

Newark Negro Outpolls Five In Mayor Contest

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A Negro candidate outpolled five other men in an attempt to become the first black mayor of Newark, N.J., Tuesday, but failed to win enough votes to avoid a runoff election.

The Newark contest—with one of its candidates, incumbent Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio under indictment on extortion and tax evasion charges—was one of several elections across the country. Votes in Nebraska renominated veteran Sen. Roman L. Hruska, a Republican, to seek another term. In West Virginia, incumbent Sen. Robert C. Byrd, a Democrat, and the state's five U.S. Representatives, also Democrats, all won renomination.

Kenneth A. Gibson, 37, a city engineer in Newark, took 42 per cent of the vote but failed to win the absolute majority needed for victory. The result will be a June 16 runoff between Gibson and Addonizio, whose trial begins June 2.

West Virginia's Byrd, the No. 2 man in the Senate's Democratic hierarchy buried his opponent, political novice John G. McGovern, to take the Democratic senatorial nomination. He will seek a third tearm this fall against an as yet unnamed Republican.

Sam Huff, a middle linebacker for the Washington Redskins, lost by a 2 to 1 margin to incumbent Democratic Rep. Robert H. Mollohan. The state's four other congressmen, also Democratic, won and were considered in favored positions for the November elections.

In Nebraska, Hruska, in the Senate since 1954, won the right to seek another term by overwhelming Otis Glebe of Lincoln. In the Democratic senatorial primary, former three-term Gov. Frank B. Morrison of Omaha easily beat out two opponents, Wallace Peterson and David Thomas.

In the GOP gubernatorial race, incumbent Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann was holding a lead over state Sen. Clifton Batchelder of Omaha. In the Democratic primary for Governor, J. J. Exon of Lincoln was battling state Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton.

Two of Nebraska's three U.S. representatives, Reps. Robert Denney and Dave Martin, won renomination without opposition on the Republican ticket.

Rep. Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb., a 14-year House veteran, was trailing in incomplete returns.

Mrs. James Pinckney, wife of the first governor of Texas, spoke 18 languages fluently.

Speech Planned By Jack Blaine

Two receptions and a speech by Jack L. Baline, candidate for Marin County Municipal Court judge, have been scheduled by Blaine's campaign committee.

The speech will be Thursday at 8 p.m. at a meeting of the Zonta Club at the home of Mrs. Louis H. Carlson, 30 Via Belardo Street, Greenbrae.

Receptions have been set for Sunday at 4 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Marcus, 79 Twin Oaks Avenue, San Rafael, and May 26 at 2 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brown, 51 Manderly Road, San Rafael.

Governor Tells Editors He Backs Cambodia Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan told a convention of leading newspaper editors he supports President Nixon's moves into Cambodia and that college administrators ought to crack down on faculty members who support student disruptions.

Reagan appeared Tuesday in a question-and-answer session before the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

The Republican governor said Nixon's critics might be displaying "red faces" over the outcome of the Cambodian venture.

Also Tuesday, former U.S. Ambassador to Japan Edwin O. Reischauer said the American march into Cambodia had "validity" although he thought domestic and foreign outeries against the war expansion from Vietnam made it "a risk not worth taking."

The chancellor of the University of California at Santa Cruz, Dean E. McHenry, told the more than 450 editors the "blank check" of war declaration should be withdrawn from the President, and American soldiers brought home as soon as possible.

Reagan said some faculty members, as well as student radicals, are out to destroy "not only the university but this system of ours," and he called on college administration to put a stop to it.

On Cambodia and Vietnam, asked whether the United States should get out, Reagan replied "we should get out the way the President wants us out."

His interrogators dwelt on Reagan's attitude toward Vice President Spiro Agnew and the view by some that his words inflame campus problems.

Reagan characterized Agnew as a convenient scapegoat for campus revolutionaries who "arouse a kind of hatred" against him and because "it's easy to focus on an individual."

Reagan was asked whether Agnew got into a dispute Monday during President Nixon's White House briefing of governors.

Reagan denied that, saying Agnew "suggested one of the most serious problems (on campuses) was an anti-intellectual element that made it virtually impossible for public figures and others to communicate with students."

The governor said he subscribed to that view and that Agnew had displayed "great good sense about what must be done."

Of his relations with the press, Reagan shied away from direct criticism of the quality of reporting, but said with the onset "of interpretive reporting, we did not gain."

Prior to Reagan's appearance, ASNE President Norman Isaacs announced that he had refused a UC Berkeley strike committee permission to confront Reagan during the panel session.

Only society members are permitted to question guest speakers at meetings, he said.

Reischauer, whose speech was titled "Asia in the Seventies," said he couldn't resist commenting on the Cambodian situation, adding:

"On the whole, I think we have moved in the right direction," and although he was unhappy over the expansion he could understand the President's thinking.

Rock Band Must Go, Council Says

A contentious San Anselman got short shrift from the San Anselmo City Council last night and an order to seek a use permit or face abatement proceedings for rock bank rehearsals which have drawn complaints from neighbors.

House owner Ronald DeMasi didn't appear, but was represented by Sid Schwartz, who said he is a member of DeMasi's band and lives in the house at 1 Roger Avenue.

The council berated Schwartz because DeMasi has failed to apply for the use permit as ordered two weeks ago.

PERMIT

Unabashed, Schwartz said he didn't understand why a permit was needed and objected that the five musicians haven't the $30 application fee. "We question the fact a use permit is needed," he said, "because this is not a commercial venture . . . this is private property and is not used for a commercial purpose."

Last month, 21 neighbors complained that the band's rehearsing drowned the area in sound day and night.

"There's no need for the council to pussyfoot," said Councilman Warren R. Perry. ". . . amplified music is inconsistent with residential uses in the area. I observe the activity is unlawful in the R-1 zone with no use permit for a home occupation."

UNRELATED

Even that wouldn't be legal, City Atty. John G. Buresh said. When Schwartz said the musicians aren't related, Buresh said the city ordinance requires a home occupation to be run by members of the family and one nonfamily employee or none.

Schwartz dismissed the neighbors' complaints as prejudice, and asked what the $30 would be used for.

City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell explained it went for costs of processing the application.

"We've got complaints and we must stand by our guns," said Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro.

The council then passed Capurro's motion, ordering the police to abate the nuisance if DeMasi does not apply for a permit within five days.

The council also acted against a dog which officials said bit five people last year and recently has been roaming in the city again. The council gave owner James Barte 48 hours to get his Afghan hound, Simba, out of the city.

Barte insisted the dog was under maximum security, chained and penned, and only gets out for a few minutes at a time when he escapes the house at 256 Crescent Road.

LOCKED UP

Neighbors and state humane officer Charles V. Light said, however, that the dog was supposed to be locked up permanently after Barte got him from the pound following the last biting incident in December.

Humane Society records showed the dog bit a 23-year-old man last May 14 at Rancho Olompali, Novato, and then bit four children last fall on the Wade Thomas School playground.

Three boys, 8, 9, and 10 years old, were bitten Nov. 4, and John Skewes-Cox, 12, was severely bitten on the back Dec. 3.

John's mother, Mrs. Robin W. Skewes-Cox, said she did not want the dog destroyed, but did not want it in San Anselmo so her child would be in fear.

Another parent, John Liu, said his son had also been bitten by the dog, althought there was no written report of it.

Several Wade Thomas students testified in Simbas' behalf to no avail, saying the bitten children had given the dog cause to bite them.

Another applicant facing abatement had better luck. The council suspended an abatement order for two months against a damaged house at 59 Florence Avenue to give owner Harold Steinhauser time to combine the property into a single lot to prevent having more than one dwelling on the site. A fire-damaged garage on the property will be repaired.

Court Rules In Renters' Favor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The State Court of Appeal has ruled that landlords cannot evict Berkeley rent strikers without a court trial.

Justice John B. Molinari said Tuesday the state's eviction law is unfair despite amendments last year by the legislature.

The appeal had been filed by lawyer Robert Treuhaft, who represented the Berkeley Tenants Union, which refused to pay rent for two months, saying rents were too high and the apartments needed improvements.

The unanimous ruling said immediate eviction under the state's unlawful detainer law violates the tenant's constitutional rights to due process and, in case of the poor, equal protection of the law.

Party For Peevey Slated May 24

A fund-raising cocktail party scheduled May 24 for Michael R. Peevey, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Fourth District state senator, will include an auction of paintings donated by Marin artists and craftsmen.

State Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Alameda, will appear in Peevey's behalf at the party from 3 to 5 p.m. at the June O. Degnan residence, Ames Avenue and Shady Lane, Ross.

There will also be a swimming and diving exhibition by three girls led by Karen Hellman of San Rafael, according to Michael Anthony, co-chairman of Peevey's campaign.

Hub Council Delays Antiwar Talk

The San Anselmo City Council stuck to policy last night and declined to discuss a proposed antiwar letter to the President, but set a hearing on the protest for the May 26 meeting.

Jan Fairchild read the letter and asked the council to send it in their name, but Acting Mayor Kenneth L. Anderson said policy requires matters brought up from the audience not be discussed until placed on a future agenda.

Mrs. Fairchild's letter says the council views "with sorrow and dismay" the expanded war in Southeast Asia, and is "appalled at your apparent disregard" of the Constitution in failing to seek congressional advice on the war.

It also cited the $150 billion cost of the war as money which could have eliminated ghettos and poverty and brought pollution and other problems under control.

"In the name of human beings all over the world we urge you to end the insanity of this war . . . protect our troops by bringing them home from this tragic Southeast Asian conflict — now."

Another resident, Frank Moore, objected that the council could not legally act on such a matter, but Anderson ruled out discussion until the May 26 meeting.

Another antiwar leaflet was handed out at the council chamger door to the overflow crowd by Norman Leach, a student at San Francisco Theological Seminary.

Later in the meeting Jerry Suyderhoud, chairman of the youth commission, said the commission has passed a similar anti-war resolution for the President and asked the council to adopt a similar statement. The commission's proposal will also be taken up May 26, Anderson said.

Public Recital

Mrs. Forest Sorensen will present seven of her piano students in a public recital at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in her home at 241 Via Barranca, Greenbrae. Also performing will be a cellist, a student of Elizabeth Musser.

I-J Editorial In Boys' Life

An editorial that first appeared in the Independent-Journal on May 5, 1965, and was repeated by request last Sept. 17, was reprinted almost in full in the May issue of Boys' Life, official magazine of the Boy Scouts of America.

The editorial quoted what a judge in Grinnell, Iowa, told a youth being sentenced for auto theft.

War I Statue Will Be Moved

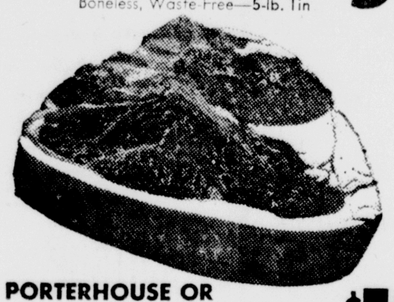

The World War I Doughboy statue, which stands in front of the abandoned courthouse building in downtown San Rafael, is assured of a place of honor at the Civic Center.

On a motion by Supervisor William A. Gnoss, the Marin County board of Supervisors voted unanimously yesterday to move the statue to the main entrance to the new Veterans Memorial Auditorium, near the main Civic Center Drive which passes infront of the lagoon.

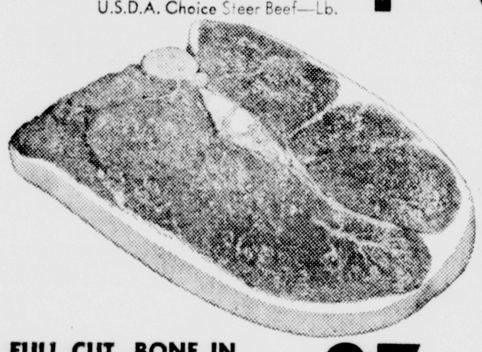

The statue will be placed on a pedestal at the entrance, in front of a dozen flag poles that will line the entrance to the auditorium.

Novato High School Gets Full Accreditation Term

Novato High School has received a full term of accreditation, running until June 30, 1975, from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

A six-man accreditation commission visited the school March 9 through 11 and its findings were given in a 14-page report released yesterday by Supt. James G. Bunker.

San Marin High School in Novato, which has not had a graduating class, received its interim accreditation until June 30, 1972, as reported Feb. 3 in the Independent-Journal.

The report praised the school for the discipline of students, the pride of administrators and teachers in the school, the fine rapport between faculty and students, the appearance of the school and grounds, and for the entire school's participation in "our own thing which demonstrated the school's activities to the community.

The report had specific recommendations for the school. Some of the general ones were to provide honor classes for students of high interest and ability, more effective utilization of audio-visual materials and broadening vocational offerings.

Other specific recommendations were:

Business Education — Business education teachers should assist in screening, placement and evaluation of work experience students.

English — Limiting composition classes to approximately 22 students and reducing the teacher-pupil ratios in all classes other than composition.

Foreign Languages — Teachers should attempt to individualize instruction by working with small groups of students. A reevaluation of the number of foreign languages offered in light of current enrollment.

Homemaking — Evaluation periodically of equipment replacement needs of the department and increasing storage space for the homemaking department.

Industrial Arts — Continued study of vocational aspects of industrial arts and evaluation of the facilities for space. A study should be made of the acoustical problem in the woodshop.

Mathematics — Provide a consumer mathematics course.

Music — Increasing the staff and number of classes in the music program and utilization of new music materials and ideas for concert programs.

Physical Education — Giving greater emphasis on recreational values in adult life. Explore greater student participation through intramural programs.

Social Studies — Reorganizing to provide greater choice of subject matter for students.

Supt. James G. Buner said that he could not argue with any of the recommendations, but added:

"They all take money which we do not have."

Inmates Punished

CAGLIARI, Sardinia (UPI)— A court gave prison sentences of from six months to four years Tuesday to 42 inmates who took part in a prison rebellion April 20 in demand of television sets and better food.

Low Bid Lower Than Estimate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A low bid for part of a subway was $1.1 million below current engineers' estimates, the Bay Area Rapid Transit System said Tuesday.

Furin-Colnon and Dravo Corp. of Hayward submitted a $10.9 million bid, compared with BART engineers' estimate of $12.1 million. The contract is for subway construction between the Van Ness Avenue subway station and Duboce Avenue.

The work had been budgeted in April 1969 at $9.4 million but the estimate was revised upward later.

Council Nominates 32 For Appointive Posts

A bumper crop of candidates for city appointive posts was nominated last night by the San Anselmo City Council, which then held the door open for more nominations until 5 p.m. next Tuesday.

Thirty-two persons were nominated for 14 seats on city boards and commission.

Twelve were nominated for four seats on the planning commission — incumbents Dennis T. Moore and Martin Stuart, losing council candidates Duane C. Ragan and Sarah Nome, and Cynthia Barrows, John H. Colteaux, Gerald A. De Vore, William C. Dill, Daniel H. Goltz, Steven K. Knox, Valmar A. Schaaf and David A. Strassman.

Seven were nominated for the design review board, which has three vacancies. They are incumbent A. C. Signorelli and Walter J. Anderson, Thomas Cagwin, David M. Lewis, James G. McDonald, Gordon R. Ashby and Fred Lancelotti.

Candidates for two seats on the human rights commission are Thomas R. Dahlgren, Louis Emis and James D. Kilty.

Five were nominated for two seats on the library board, incumbent Reuben W. Smith Jr. and John E. Hunk, Roy W. Fairchild, Jean Hill and Charles E. Monte.

a Candidates foor two parks and recreation commission posts are incumbent Jay C. Stovall and De Vore, John F. Fahy, Lawrence B. Gapinski and Thomas J. Peacock.

No one volunteered for single seats on the citizens advisory creek committee or the civil service board of review.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

FLOOD ALARM — Agreed to spend $500 for two flood alarms, to be installed at Fire Station 2 on Sleepy Hollow Creek and the Ongaro building on San Anselmo Avenue. The alarms will sound when water reaches a level threatening a flood, and police will then notify residents and merchants of the danger.

LAWSUIT — Agreed to hire the law firm of Hauerken, St. Clair, Zappettini and Hines to defend the city against a lawsuit filed by Norman T. Gilroy and others for loss of a house on Red Hill. The city burned the house last year after declaring it a hazard. Buresh will remain on the case to aid the firm.

REHABILITATION — Agreed to give Golden West Savings and Loan 90 days to renovate a house at 16 Ramona Way, previously declared a public nuisance by the council. Conditions for the work were spelled out by the city building inspector.

LIBRARY I Heard a recommendation from the youth commission that the city join the county library system.

LIBRARY — Heard a recom- six-month trial system of mailing council agenda free to citizens asking for them in whiting.

PARKING STRIP — Authorized James Mazzion 337 Greenfield Avenue, to pave the parking strip there between sidewalk and curb, but with material contrasting to the sidewalk, not concrete, asphalt or exposed aggregate.

STORMS — Heard proposals by Leitzell to improve flow in Sleepy Hollow Creek by rounding culvert entrances and having sewer lines removed where they run through culverts.

BRUST — Agreed there was no reason Norman D. Richards could not offer a brush chipper service in the city. The question had been raised whether this would infringe on the garbage company's franchise.

CREEK OBSTRUCTIONS — Took no action on a proposed county-wide uniform ordinance on keeping creeks clear of obstructions. Buresh said the ordinance was nearly identical to the present one but not as stiff.

DRAIN — Agreed to pay Ross $400 toward a $2,000 drainage project at the city-town line which drains Bolinas Avenue in both communities.

CLEANUP — Set a spring cleanup campaign for May 30 and 31. The cleanup last year ran nine days and councilmen complained non-residents dumped in the cleanup boxes. This year dumpers will be asked to show drivers' licenses with San Anselmo addresses.

POLES — Agreed to pay $112 to Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to remove four old wooden utility poles from tennis courts where metal poles are installed.

TOUR — Agreed to tour the city's recreational facilities with the park and recreation commission at 10 a.m. June 14.

Pot In Pot Spurs Suspect's Arrest

A 24-year-old San Rafael man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of cultivating marijuana and having marijuana in his possession.

Michael Dennis Giammarese, also known as Michael Dennis McLeod, of 49 Harbor Street, Apt. A, posted $315 bail and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

According to police, Patrolman Raymond L. Maynard on Saturday observed a possible marijuana plant growing in a clay pot in Gaimmarese's window. Police took photographs of the plant and yesterday obtained a search warrant to enter the apartment.

On entering the unoccupied apartment at 2:26 p.m. Officers Charles S. Brobeck and Donald Rose found the plant in a pot on a bathroom window sill and another possible marijuan plant growing in a coffee can. A box containing four smoking devices and a Turkish coffee pot holding cigarette butts and residue were found in the bedroom.

When Giammarese returned home a short time later the officers found a plastic bag full of possible marijuana in his jacket pocket.

Jets Duel Over Suez; Lebanon Raid Ends

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt and Israel sent their warplanes against each other's Suez Canal lines today and fought another fierce artillery duel along the waterway front. Tel Aviv said its task force had withdrawn from Lebanon after the biggest Middle East battle since 1967.

Official Israeli spokesmen said Egyptian planes renewed their attacks along the 102-mile Suez Canal this morning with raids at 7 a.m. and 10 a.m. The announcement said one of the raiders was hit by ground fire and that no Israeli troops were hurt.

Fighting also flared on the Israeli-Jordanian cease-fire line and a spokesman in Amman said there were two exchanges of rocket, mortar and machine-gun fire in the Mendassa and Umm-Nakhlah areas nine miles north of the Dead Sea. No casualties were reported.

There still was no official Israeli announcement on the number of prisoners taken in the foray into Lebanon but a spokesman said "tons" of supplies were captured including Russian-made Katyusha rockets, some of them aimed at the Israeli border setltement of Metulla.

The Israeli air force hit back with a 20-minute raid against Egyptian positions in the southern and central sectors of the canal during a stiff cross-canal artillery duel that wounded one Israeli soldier. All the Israeli planes were said to have returned safely.

Both Israel and Lebanese officials said the Israeli tank and troop task force that went into southern Lebanon Tuesday was withdrawing in compliance with a U.N. Security Council resolution. Arab guerrillas said the fighting continued.

Israeli Army spokesmen said the withdrawal had begun Tuesday night after the 14-hour search and destroy mission turned up "tons" of Arab guerrilla munitions on the slopes of Mount Hermon. But, they said, darkness delayed finishing the pullout until this morning.

The Security Council voted unanimously in an emergency meeting Tuesday to demand the withdrawal of Israeli troops. The Israeli ambassador Yosef Tekoah, told the 15-nation council the task force, estimated by Lebanon to number 100 tanks and 2,000 men, was on its way out.

I-J Files $5 Million Suit Over Demo Flier On Strike

union short of simply agreeing to every union proposal.

"2. Statement: 'Management's insistence on more than a $40 per week cut in pay for most workers.'

"Truth: At the time of the strike the I-J was already paying the proposed scale of wages and had agreed to further increases proposed by the union. The I-J has since proposed a further increase in wages for journeyman printers.

"3. Statement: 'Elimination of the apprenticeship training program (responsible for helping train minority youth).'

"Truth: The I-J proposes a true training program and has trained more people for composing room work since the strike than were trained under the apprenticeship program in the past five years. The union apprenticeship program is designed to restrict, not encourage, training. The I-J has always encouraged the training of minority workers, a record that the union cannot boast. Until 1968 the union had a record of no apprentices from the black race.

"4. Statement: 'The desire of the company to destroy seniority provisions.'

"Truth: All I-J proposals to the union incorporate seniority provisions.

"5. Statement: 'Rather than talk, the Independent-Journal has chosen to hire strikebreakers, paying them almost $1,000 per week, and putting over 40 private armed guards and police dogs on 24-hour watch. Forty-five members of the ITU and some 50 members of the stereotypers, photoengravers, web pressmen and teamsters unions are out, replaced by strikebreakers.'

"Truth: Skilled printers hired by the I-J have been paid the prevailing scale or below. No printer hired by the I-J has ever been paid an amount remotely approaching $1,000 per week.

"At no time have forty guards been assigned to the security of the I-J plant, and during most periods there have been no more than eight.

"Not more than 35 members of the ITU are out, and some 30 members of the stereotypers, photoengravers, web pressmen and teamsters union are out.

"Most replacements at the I-J were hired and trained in Marin. Some skilled, non-union printers were employed by the I-J. Some members of striking unions chose to remain at their work at the I-J.

"6. Statement: 'The Independent-Journal renewed its agreements with the web pressmen, stereotypers, photoengravers and teamsters, but it refused to do so with San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21.'

"Truth: The I-J negotiated collective bargaining agreements at the bargaining table with the above unions, but it was unable to do so with the San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 and was struck by the union.

"7. Statement: 'Searchlights were installed, windows boarded up more than a year before the strike.'

"Truth: Searchlights were installed in March of 1970, more than nine weeks after the beginning of the strike and after all the windows of the plant had been broken by vandals.

"8. Statement: 'Throughout the newspaper business, unions and publishers work in good faith under expired contracts while they negotiate a new one. But not the Independent-Journal.'

"Truth: The past agreement of the I-J with the union was canceled in writing by the union, effective Nov. 13, 1968, not by the I-J.

"9. Statement: 'Armed guards assaulted and abused the pickets.'

"Truth: Not one case of assault of abuse by I-J security personnel has been established.

"10. Statement: The I-J 'brushed off efforts of the federal mediation and conciliation service to get talks re-started. Its representatives had no authority to bargain.'

"Truth: The I-J twice met with the union under the auspices of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and its representatives were fully authorized to bargain. The union subsequently recognized this authority and has as of this date twice more met with the aforementioned representatives."

Voltmeter Gone

A $150 voltmeter was stolen April 1 from a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. truck parked at a construction area at Lincoln Avenue near Third and Fourth streets, San Rafael police reported today.

Dixie To Sell Bonds For Schools

The Dixie School District board last night authorized its superintendent to proceed with the sale of $530,000 worth of bonds for additional construction at Oak View School and Miller Creek School.

Supt. Clifford W. Campbell reported today the bonds will be sold at the 7 per cent maximum interest authorized by district voters at the April 14 election.

Campbell said the funds will be used to build additional classroom, administrative, and library space at Oak View School and construction of a multi-purpose gym at Miller Creek School.

The superintendent added that the board will now proceed with selecting an architect for the projects which will see about $300,000 spent at Oak View School.

"We are hopeful construction will begin by October 1970, with completion by September 1971," Campbell said.

District voters in April approved, 2,563 to 1,143, the conversion of $1,495,000 in previously authorized bonds to a new issue with a maximum of 7 per cent interest.

The trustees also discussed but failed to act on next year's proposed $4,034,000 budget, which is $1 less than the current budget.

The Dixie School District Board of Trustees also:

HIRING — Approved hiring 47 teachers for the district's five-week summer school program. Salaries range between $600 and $800.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Margaret McCue of Dixie School and Marilyn Lane of Bernard Hoffman School.

STUDENT TEACHING — Approved a student teaching contract with the San Francisco College for Women. The district will receive $100 and two student teachers.

No Teacher Reduction Necessary In Cotati

The Cotati School District Board said last night that enough teacher resignations had been received to permit new contracts to be offered to teachers whose jobs had been threatened in a lottery.

The board last night granted a leave of absence of Helen Mills of Thomas Page School to do graduate work and immediately agreed to offer a contract to Marjorie Bascherini, the remaining teacher on the lottery list to reduce the number of teachers.

Pat Hebert, who had also been on the lottery list and later was reinstated, told the board she questioned the legality of the lottery procedure to reduce the staff and requested a hearing.

The board said it would contact Thomas Hitchcock of the Sonoma County counsel's office to see if a hearing would be in order.

The board conducted a lottery among first-year teachers to determine the order in which teachers would be dismissed to cut operational costs.

The Cotati School District Board also:

LANDSCAPE — Received plans from the City of Rohnert Park to landscape park areas adjoining the John Reed and Waldo Rohnert schools. The plans will be reviewed again May 26.

CONTRACTS — Approved contracts with the Sonoma County Schools Office for audio-visual services at $1,325 per year and library services at $5,300 per year.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of school nurse Winefred Hogue for personal reasons.

HEARING — Said a public hearing will be held May 26 at 8 p.m. on plans to annex all of Rohnert Park to the school district.

Old Courthouse Filming Asked

A San Francisco film company wants to use the old San Rafael Courthouse for 10 days of filming in August.

John Hanson, production manager of American Zoetrope, 827 Folsom Street, San Francisco, wrote to the Marin County Board of Supervisors this week, asking for a chance to appear at a meeting of the supervisors to make a personal request.

Hanson said he will have about 25 to 30 people at the courthouse for about eight days of interior courtroom shots and two days of exterior filming. "Contrary to traditional Hollywood standards, our small crew and cast will insure a minimum of commotion," said Hanson.

American Zoetrope is the same company that used the Civic Center grounds and building last summer to film scenes for a space movie. Hanson did not indicate what the new film will be.

Car Missing

A black 1963 Plymouth with license TAK663 owned by Connie Marleen Murphy of 15 Pleasant Lane, San Rafael, and parked in the lot at the Mayfair Market at Third and Union streets was stolen yesterday around 8 p.m., San Rafael police reported today.

Planning Staff's Vacancies Argued

With four positions vacant in the Marin County Planning Department and the planning director on leave, two positions must be filled immediately, Acting Director Werner Von Gundell told the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

"We just don't have enough bodies to move around, and if we do, we'll have to drop projects," said Von Gundell.

County Administrator Alan Bruce has recommended cutting two of the four existing vacancies. Von Gundell said he would go along with that recommendation, but the other two vacancies — a senior planner and a secretary-stenographer — must be filled immediately to keep the department running.

Supervisors Louis HM Baar and William A. Gnoss wanted to defer action until the June budget hearings, but Supervisors Michael Wornum and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. urged the hiring of at least the senior planner.

Supervisors Louis H. Baar and William A. Gnoss wanted to defer action until the June budget hearings, but Supervisors Michael Wornum and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. urged the hiring of at least the senior planner.

On a suggestion of Chairman John F. McInnis, the supervisors agreed to delay decision for a week or two to give Von Gundell and the county administrator a chance to come up with some solution. McInnis said he would vote for a senior planner if Von Gundell can show specifically that the new man would work directly on zoning to implement various county general plans.

Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association, criticized the county's reduction-in-force policy, which will delete the position now held by planner Walter S. Horchler.

Horchler, who is park planner in the planning department, has worked for the county for six years. He will be released on June 30.

An employee who has worked for the county for six years should be considered for any vacancies to be filled, declared Prevo.

"Here we're hiring new employees and firing old ones; it just doesn't mlse,

"He (Horchler) is a park planner," replied Von Gundell. "We are no longer doing park planning." Von Gundell explained he needs an all-round senior planner, not a specialist in park planning.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

FEE SCHEDULE — Approved unanimously fee schedules for use of the county's fairgrounds, and the establishment of a list of complimentary users. Noncommercial users in 1970 will pay $50 a day, while commercial users will pay about $75 a day.

ENDORSEMENT I Approved unanimously a League of Women Voters request for endorsement of constitutional revision measures that will appear on the June 2 ballot as Propositions 2, 3, 4, and 5.

AUDITORIUM LIGHTING — Asked County Administrator Alan Bruce to negotiate a compromise with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. for installing 75 lights in the Veterans Memorial Auditorium parking area. PG&E had agreed to install the lights for $13,790 in March of 1969, but rising cost of labor and material has increased total cost to $17,683, a spokesman for PG&E reported yesterday.

PILING REMOVAL — Decided to table the proposed removal of pilings and a sunken barge at the end of George Kappas' pier because the property is still under condemnation and not yet owned by the county. Cost of removal is about $9,000.

NOVATO FLOOD CONTROL — Commended William K. Mayo for his long service on the Novato Flood Control Advisory Board and appointed William Q. Wright Jr. of Black John Road, Novato, as successor.

RESERVE FUND — Heard from Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell that the county reserve fund for this fiscal year rose from $388 last week to $748 because only $140 was spent out of $500 allocated for cleanup of a compromise agreement with Marin Hospital District whereby the county and the district would split the $1,387 medical bill which it has not been possible to collect from Richard Krug of Solano County, treated at Marin General Hospital in 1966 as a medical indigent.

BAY FRONT PARK I Decided not to start condemnation proceedings for 31 acres to be added to McNear's Beach Park until after Marin is assured of funds from the 1964 State Bond Act.

Water Company Granted Hike

A 73 per cent water rate increase for the Inverness Water Company in Inverness was approved by the State Public Utilities Commission yesterday.

The boost means typical residential customers will pay $20.20 every two months instead of the current $11.70. The company had asked for a hike to $21.90.

The increase was the highest approved by a 4-1 decision of the commission. It will be effective June 5.

Other increases ranged from 16 per cent to 67 per cent for three other companies.

In dissenting Commissioner A. W. Gatov of eKntfield labeled the charges "unfair, unreasonable, improper and not supported by the record."

He also claimed better service will not result.

Blaine Slated More Meetings

Three more campaign meetings have been scheduled by Jack L. Blaine, candidate for Marin Municipal Court judge in the June 2 election.

A coffee and reception will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday at the home of Warren Marcus, 79 Twin Oaks Avenue, San Rafael.

Blaine will address the Zonta Club at 8 p.m. May 21 at the home of Mrs. Louis H. Carlson, 30 Via Belardo, Greenbrae.

Tideland Development Controls Ironed Out

A new county ordinance to control development of county tidelands was approved yesterday by Marin County supervisors after they lifted some requirements it would have placed on the small property developer.

Conducting their second hearing on the Tidal Waterways Ordinance, the supervisors agreed that developers of small parcels need not provide public access as a reqquirement for county approval of tideland development. Rather, the county must first establish that such an access is necessary for the public.

However, the county may still demand access over property which is larger than 2.5 acres and has more than 250 feet of shoreline.

The ordinance is aimed at preventing indiscriminate filling and construction along the tidelands, and to insure development does not block the public's right to use tidewaters, beaches and shorelines.

Approval of the measure came after six months of study by the board of supervisors, which heard bitter complaints from Tomales and Point Reyes Station residents during the ordinance's first hearing March 24 at Point Reyes Station.

Seaside property owners claimed the county would be taking property without just compensation if it forced an owner to provide a public easement in return for the privilege of filling or developing property.

The new ordinance will affect all salt marshes, beaches, shorelines, waterways and tidelands below 7.5 feet mean lower low water and 100 feet inland from that point.

It requires that any fill or excavation covering less than one acre be approved by a county fill committee composed of the county directors for planning, public works and parks and recreation. The planning commission will approve development of areas larger than one acre.

Family Service Agency Elects

Ivy Z. Wellington of San Rafael has been elected president for 1970 of the Family Service Agency of Marin.

Other officers elected were Barbara Benson, vice president, and Ben Solomon, treasurer.

The agency is a counseling service for families, and is supported by United Crusade.

Newsday Editor Moyers Resigns

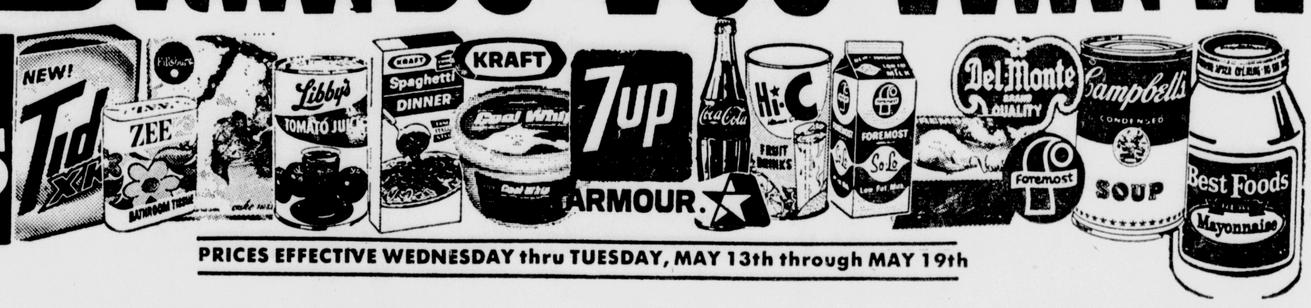

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Former presidential press secretary Bill Moyers has resigned as publisher of Newsday, largest suburban paper in the country and winners of two Pulitzer Prizes this year.

After three years as publisher, Moyers, 36, announced his resignation Tuesday in a letter posted on the city-room bulletin board.

His move was not wholly unexpected since the Long Island paper was purchased earlier this month by the Times-Mirror Company, publishers of The Los Angeles Times.

Sausalito May Hike Taxes To Give Employees Raises

The Sausalito City Council began plowing through a weighty 171-page $1,415,488 city budget last night, but hit a snag on the first furrow — employee salaries.

Members of the city's fire, police and public works departments appeared to ask for more money than former City Mg. George M. Patterson has recommended in his budget report, and Fire Chief Charles E. Masten told the council it should consider a hike in the city tax rate "if necessary."

"Since I have been with the city (five years) I have seen the council recommend a tax increase for many things, including buying property," Masten said, "but I have never seen the city consider an increase for its employees' benefit."

Acting City Manager H. Eric Borgwardt concurred with the chief. Saying the current city tax rate of $1.31 per $100 of assessed valuation was not "a sacred cow," Borgwardt said the city is now in the situation of training its employees "so that they are qualified to go on to other, better-paying positions in other communities.

"I am not suggesting the council indiscriminately raise the tax rate," the acting city manager said, "but I feel it should consider such a move so our employees can be given a just rate of compensation.

"A satisfied employee is a good employee," Borgwardt continued. A dissatisfied employee will not do a good job — or will seek other employment" The last increase in the city's tax rate was four years ago, he added.

Firemen are asking for a 12.5 per cent salary increase, more than the 7.5 per cent increase recommended by Patterson. Policemen are seeking a 15 per cent hike, as compared to the 10 per cent suggested by the former city manager.

Members of the city's public works department are asking for 10 per cent salary increases. Patterson had recommended 7.5 per cent for most public works employees.

Salary range for firemen is now $678 to $821 a month. The employees recommendations would bring the range to $763 to 927. Police officers now make between $693 and $841 a month and would like to see that increased to a range of $801 to 974.

The police and firemen also are asking for a dental insurance program and less limitation on the distance from Sausalito they can live.

Firemen are seeking a shorter work week, from 72 to 63 hours, and public works employees are asking for overtime pay for times when they are called out at night to help in a storm.

The council took no action on the requests, but agreed to consider them in greater detail at its May 21 budget session.

Also to be consdered at that time will be a request from Police Chief James D. Wright for three additional policemen for a downtown foot patrol. Patterson had recommended only two men be hired, but Wright last night told the council he could not provide a seven-day-a-week foot patrol without at least three more men.

The chief said he would not approve a foot patrol of less than two men "in the interests of the safety of my men." He indicated the addition of two men would probably enable his department to have a foot patrol about three days a week.

A recommendation by Patterson that business license taxes be raised 50 per cent (a yield of $7,500) to help pay the cost of the foot patrol also will be considered at that meeting.

Police Fracas To Superior Court

Bernardo Groves, 19, of San Anselmo, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of battery against a police officer. He is to appear in court May 25 for arraignment.

Groves was arrested after a fracas with a police officer Feb. 27 in San Anselmo. San Anselmo police said that Groves started to drive his car away after an officer stopped to ask why he had no license plates.

Groves, who wears leg braces and walks with crutches, reportedly hit Patrolman David Oliva in the face. A companion, Gail Lysle Maclise, 33, also of San Anselmo, is accused of grabbing the officer's badge and exhorting a crowd which had gathered. She is awaiting trial in municipal court on a charge of interfering with an officer.

Film Cans, Film Taken At Theater

Two film cans containing the film 'Paddy' were reported stolen Thursday from the Marin The ater, Pine and Caledonia Streets, Sausalito police said yesterday.

The film and cans, worth approximately $250, were taken Wednesday between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m., police said, adding that a door to the theater may have been left unlocked.

Fairfax Blood Drive

The first Fairfax community blood drive will be sponsored by the Fairfax Lions Club from 2 to 7 p.m. May 26. Donations will be collected by the mobile unit of the Marin Blood Center at the Fairfax Women's Culb, 46 Park Road. Donors may make appointments through Paul Mills of P.O. Box 203, Fairfax.

Education Board Hears Peace Plan

The Petaluma Board of Education last night heard a delegation of Sonoma State College students present plans to involve the community in antiwar activities.

The three freshmen, Larry Jordan, Chris Rossi and Howard Ortman, said a group of students has been assigned to gather support in Petaluma for the peace movement.

They told the school board that no organizers will appear on any high school campuses to bring about a student strike, but wanted information about the war issues to be made available to the students.

The students also recapped recent convocations at the college and explained that many students would not be attending classes for the remainder of the semester to devote time to antiwar activities.

The board said it appreciated receiving information about the movement and advised the students to work through school administrators to make information available to students.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

SCHOOL PLANS — Heard a report from architect Don Jensen that exterior plans for the new junior-senior high school on South Ely Boulevard calls for unstained redwood siding with sandblasted concrete. He said the siding would give a village atmosphere and be nearly maintenance-free.

RESOLUTIONS — Adopted resolutions supporting proposition seven on the June 2 ballot to increase interest rates on existing school bonds from 5 to 7 per cent and Proposition Eight which would require the state to provide 50 per cent of school costs.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired and set salaries for six teachers for the 1970-71 school year including Kenneth Fichera, $7,290; Alana Goetzinger, $8,404; Heather Meyer, $6,344; Thomas Milburn, $7,764; Richard Tuck, $7,764; and Charlene White, $7,764.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of teacher James Withers, who resigned to study.

Bike Hits Car, Woman Injured

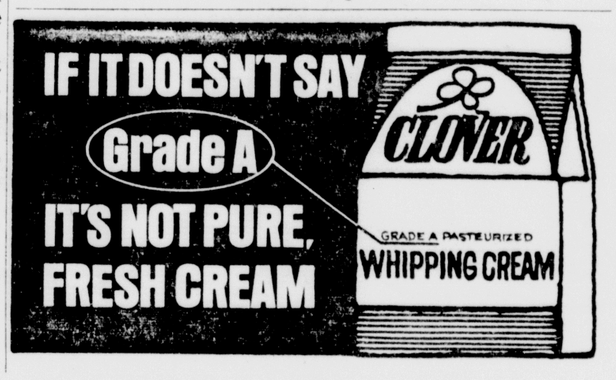

Christine MacDonald, 19, of 22 Camino De Herra, San Anselmo, was treated at Marin General Hospital Friday for bruises and sprains suffered when her bicycle was struck by a car, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The accident occurred at 9:51 a.m. at the intersection of Fifth Avenue and G Street when the girl's bike was struck by a car driven by Giuseppe Luigi Mezzetta, 77, of 40 Bayview Avenue, Larkspur, police said.

Mezzetta was cited for failing to yield the right-of-way, police said.

Cycle Missing

A red and wihte 1968 Honda motorcycle, license 754171, was stolen between 4:30 p.m. Thursday and 7:10 p.m. Sunday from Lester B. Marshall of 55 Forest Avenue, San Anselmo police said yesterday. The machine was taken from Marshall's garage.

Beef Shortribs With Artichokes

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

Two couples can dine sumptuously on beef shortribs and artichokes. This dish takes a little doing but it can be prepared the day before serving.

One tip: when the recipe directs you to cover the roasting pan and the baking-and-serving dish before they go in the oven, you can use foil. To cover during refrigeration, use foil or transparent plastic wrap.

BEEF SHORTRIBS WITH ARTICHOKES

4 pounds beef shortribs, cut into serving-size pieces
¼ cup prepared mustard
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon chili powder
¼ cup lemon juice
1-3rd cup salad oil
1 clove garlic, crushed
¼ pound mushrooms sliced and cooked in 1½ tablespoons butter
Prepared Artichokes, see recipe below
1½ tablespoons flour

Place shortribs in a large shallow container. Stir together mustard, salt, sugar, chili powder, lemon juice, oil and garlic; spoon over ribs. Marinate in refrigerator for several hours.

Arrange ribs on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Reserve marinade. Roast ribs, uncovered, in a preheated 425-degree oven until browned—about 30 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 350 degrees. Discard fat in roasting pan and place ribs in pan without rack; spoon reserved marinade over ribs. Bake, covered, until tender one and a half to two hours.

Arrange shortribs in the center of a a large shallow baking-and-serving dish and top with mushrooms. Arrange Prepared Artichokes, cavity side up, around meat. Cover and refrigerate.

Pour drippings in roasting pan into a small bowl; cover and chill so fat will come to top and harden.

Before serving, let meat, mushrooms and artichokes stand at room temperature. Discard all except about one tablespoon of hardened fat from drippings. Turn drippings and reserved fat into a two-cup measure; add enough boiling water to make 1½ cups; pour into a saucepan.

Mix the flour with ¼ cup cold water until smooth; add to drippings in saucepan; cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened and boiling; pour over meat, mushrooms and artichokes; cover tightly. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until hot—30 to 40 minutes.

Makes four servings.

PREPARED ARTICHOKES

With a sharp heavy knife cut off, straight across, 1 inch from tops of four medium artichokes. Cut off stems. With kitchen scissors clip off thorny tips of leaves. Cut artichokes into quarters. Cook, covered, in boiling salted water to cover until tender—15 to 20 minutes; drain. With a teaspoon remove chokes (thistle portions) and discard. Use as directed in Beef Shortribs with Artichokes recipe.

ALTHOUGH ITALY is most famous for pasta cookery, Polish cooks, among others, have delicious ways with noodles, macaroni and spaghetti. Here is the Polish noodles and cabbage dish.

First Take A Can Of Beans...

Not too many recipes start with the advice, "Take a can of beans." However, many household chefs do exactly that. With a touch of ingenuity — a dash of inventiveness and daring, you can change that simple can of beans into a dish which will have fine cooks begging for your secret recipe. For instance: take a can of garbanzo beans, and add to it a sauce made by combining an egg yolk, a little curry powder and some cream. Set this dish beside a skewer of lamb kabobs and a green salad. There is a meal of balance and tantalizing flavor.

Oven baked beans team with fruit and ham of pork. Chili or barbecue beans with an outdoor dinner, and those handsome, iron-rich, red kidney beans are a natural with hamburgers or cold-cuts.

GARBANZO BEANS
Serves approx. 3-4

1 egg yolk
1 tsp. curry powder
¼ cup cream
1 15½ oz. can (approx. 1¾ cups) garbanzo beans, drained and rinsed in cold water, (save 2 Tbsp. of liquid)
salt, to taste

Put egg yolk into top of double boiler and break up with fork. Add curry powder cream and liquid from beans. Heat over water until slightly thickened.

KIDNEY BEANS
Serves approx. 3-4

6-8 slices Italian sausage (linguica)
2 Tbsp. onion, chopped
3 Tbsp. tomato catsup
1 15¼ oz. can (approx. 1¾ cups) kidney beans, drained and rinsed in cold water.

Place sausage in saucepan and cook thoroughly.

BARBECUE BEANS
Serves approx. 3-4

1 15½ oz. can (approx. 1¾ cups) barbecue beans
6-8 French fried onion rings

Place beans in casserole.

OVEN BAKED BEANS
Serves approx. 3-4

1 16 oz. can (approx. 2 cups) oven baked beans
1 1 lb. 1 oz. can apricot, peach or pear halves, drained

Fill cavity of fruit with beans and place in baking dish.

CHILI BEANS
Serves approx. 3-4

1 15½ oz. can (approx. 1¾ cups) chili beans
6-8 Stuffed Manzanilla olives, sliced
1 hard boiled egg, finely chopped

Here's A Souffle To Serve For Dinner Before Pay Day

No matter how much of a magician you are with the household money, you probably run into those days when there's an awkward gap between the end of your food budget and the beginning of the next pay check.

Next time it happens, fill in with a Puffy Tuna Cheese Strata — it's light and yet satisfying enough for the most robust appetite. No ordinary tuna casserole, this splendid dish bakes up proud as a souffle, and is full of good nutrition as well, made with milk and lots of cheddar cheese.

Chances are you already have all the makings for Puffy Tuna Cheese Strata right there on your pantry shelf. All you need is one can of tuna, several slices of bread (enough to make one quart of bread cubes), seasonings, fresh eggs and milk from your refrigerator, and the cheddar cheese. Simply layer these ingredients in the sequence indicated in a lightly buttered baking dish. The mixture then bakes slowly for about an hour to give all the ingredients a chance to meld into a delightfully different taste treat -- an unexpected flavor balance that seems more like an elegant company entree rather than a dollar-stretching meal for the family.

PUFFY TUNA CHEESE STRATA

1 quart soft bread cubes
2 cups grated cheddar cheese
1 can tuna (6½ or 7 oz. size)
4 eggs
2½ cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
¼ teaspoon pepper

Layer bread, cheese and drained tuna in a lightly buttered 1½ quart baking dish. Beat eggs; add milk, salt, mustard, onion and pepper. Pour over contents of baking dish. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325o F.) about 1 hour, until set. Serve from baking dish. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

This is a quick and easy casserole dish. It can be put together early in the day, covered and then refrigerated. When ready to bake, remove and let stand for about ½ hour or, add another 15 minutes baking time if taken directly from the refrigerator to the oven.

Do-It-Yourself Bread Mix Saves Some Money

NEW YORK (UPI)—Home made mixes for quick breads, corn bread and puddings save both money and time for households on a tight budget.

All but one of the following recipes were prepared originally by the New York State Department of Social Welfare and released by the New York City Department of Social Services. Most of the ingredients are surplus commodities. The recipes were created for families using U.S. Department of Agriculture-donated foods.

The quick bread mix can be used for muffins, pancakes, and drop biscuits. To make about 8 cups of mix, sift together three times 6 cups of sifted flour, 1 cup of dry milk, ½ cup of sugar, 2 tablespoons of double acting baking powder and 2 teaspoons of salt.

Cut or rub in ¾ cup of lard until thoroughly mixed. Spoon lightly into glass jars or cans. Do not pack down. Keep tightly closed in cool place. Use within one month.

FOR MUFFINS, stir 1 cup of quick bread mix with one-third cup of water and 1 beaten egg just until blended; batter will be slightly lumpy. Grease 6 medium muffin tins and fill each two-third full. Bake about 20 minutes in preheated 425 degree oven. The same amount of batter can be baked about 30 minutes in an 8-by-8-inch loaf pan in a preheated 400-degree oven, to make 6 squares of bread.

For pancakes, stir 1 cup of quick bread mix with 1 cup of water and 1 beaten egg in a bowl just until batter is blended. Drop by spoonfuls onto a hot greased griddle. Cook slowly until surface is covered with bubbles. Turn and brown other side. Makes 6 pancakes.

Drop biscuit are the easiest of all. Stir one-third cup of water into 1 cup of quick bread mix. Drop by tablespoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake about 15 minutes in preheated 450-degree oven. Makes 12 to 15 biscuits.

FOR CORN bread mix, sift together three times 3 cups of corn meal, 5 cups of sifted flour, 1 cup each of sugar and dry milk, 2½ tablespoons of double acting baking powder, and 4 teaspoons of salt. Cut or rub in 1½ cups of lard until thoroughly mixed. Spoon lightly into glass jars or cans. Do not pack down. Keep tightly closed in cool place. Use within a month.

To make cornbread, stir 1 cup of water and 1 lightly beaten egg into 2 cups of the mix. Pour into an 8-by-8-inch greased baking pan and bake 25 to 30 minutes in preheated 425-degree oven. Makes 6 servings.

CHOCOLATE AND butterscotch pudding mixes take only minutes to make. For the chocolate, sift together three times 1½ cups of cocoa, 2½ cups of flour, 3 cups of sugar, 5 cups of dry milk and ½ teaspoon of salt. Spoon lightly into glass jars or cans; do not pack down. Keep tightly closed in cool place.

For the butterscotch mix, omit the cocoa and substitute 3 cups of brown sugar, packed, for the granulated white sugar. Other ingredients and method are the same.

To make 4 servings of either pudding mix, stir 2 cups of water into two-thirds cup of mix in a saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring, until mixture comes to boil and thickens. Remove from heat, stir in 2 tablespoons of butter and ½ teaspoon of vanilla. Cool before serving.

Peanut butter quick bread isn't made from a mix, but it's easy, uses some surplus foods and makes a hit with children. The recipe is from the New York City Health Department's Bureau of Nutrition.

Sift together 2 cups of sifted flour, one-third cup each of nonfat dry milk and sugar, 1 teaspoon of salt and 2 teaspoons of baking powder. Blend in ¾ cup of peanut butter with a fork. Stir in 1 cup of water. Spoon into greased loaf pan. Bake 45 to 50 minutes in preheated 350-degree oven.

Evolution Of Your Teapot

The gleaming teapot on your range today is the result of a reluctant success over 60 years ago.

The first aluminum cooking utensil to penetrate the household market was a tea kettle. When the general public still was unfamiliar with aluminum, a manufacturer agreed to make an aluminum kettle instead of the traditional cast iron one, but only if someone else took the risk of manufacturing them. Two thousand of the lightweight, quick-heating kettles sold immediately and the manufacturer found himself a pioneer in a new industry. Today more than half the cookwear sold in this country is made from this even-heating material.

Having Fun With Different Pasta

If you are the kind of cook who loves to experiment, pasta should be your dish; noodles also. Pasta, an Italian word meaning "paste," includes macaroni and spaghetti and comes in several hundred decorative shapes — conchigliette, fusilli, ziti, tortiglioni — large, small, plain or fancy. Whether or not pasta was invented in Italy (some historians say China), Italy has every right to claim the honor because they do so many creative things with these flour and water variations.

Pasta is entirely bland so it needs the excitement of good spicing, ripe cheeses, olive oil and what-have-you to arouse the tastebuds. Onion, garlic and pepper sing right out in an Italian pasta dish. Nutmeg is a favorite, especially when pasta is dressed with melted butter and rich cheese. Herbs give delightful aroma; basil, oregano, parsley, rosemary, marjoram and or sage are used in many sauces for pasta. (The American cook can also simplify the spicing if she has a container of Italian Seasoning which blends these herb aromas.)

Noodles differ from macaroni and spaghetti in that they are made with eggs and come in plain ribbons of different widths. Noodles are of German origin and especially popular in that country and Middle Europe generally.

Home economists give us the following recipe for Noodles with Cabbage, Polish Style, spiced with caraway seed, pepper and instant minced onion. Pasta Giardiniera teams pasta with vegetables and is seasoned in Italian fashion.

POLISH NOODLES AND CABBAGE

¼ cup instant minced onion
¼ cup water
1 small head cabbage
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon caraway seeds
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 box (8 oz.) broad egg noodles

Rehydrate onion in water for 10 minutes. Meanwhile, shred cabbage (makes about 6 cups). In a large skillet heat butter. Add rehydrated onion; saute 2 minutes. Add cabbage, caraway, salt and black pepper and saute 5 to 8 minutes longer or until cabbage is tender, stirring occasionally. Meanwhile, cook noodles in boiling salted water following package directions; drain. Turn into serving dish. Add cabbage mixture; toss well. Serve with meat, poultry or fish.

Yield: 6 to 8 portions

PASTA GIARDINIERA
(Garden Macaroni)

½ cup instant minced onion
½ teaspoon instant minced garlic
½ cup water
pound bacon, finely diced
2 medium carrots, finely diced
½ cup parsley flakes
2 tablespoons basil leaves
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 can (1 lb.) tomatoes, broken up
1 chicken bouillon cube
2½ cups shredded cabbage
2 medium zucchini, coarsely chopped
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 can (1 lb. 4 oz.) white kidney beans
1 pound rigatoni, marcaroni or spaghetti
¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Rehydrate minced onion and garlic in water for 10 minutes. Combine rehydrated vegetables with bacon, carrots, parsley flakes and basil; mix well. In a Dutch oven or large heavy saucepot heat oil. Add onion mixture and saute 5 minutes, stiring frequently. Add tomatoes, bouillon cube, cabbage, zucchini, salt and black pepper; mix well. Cover and cook over low heat 12 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring occasionally. Stir in beans and simmer 10 minutes longer. Meanwhile, cook macaroni in boiling salted water according to package directions; drain. Add butter and cheese to macaroni; toss. Turn into serving bowl. Spoon vegetable sauce mixture over macaroni; mix thoroughly. Serve with additional grated cheese if desired. Serve as a luncheon dish or accompaniment to meat.

Yield: 6 to 10 portions

Try Spicy Apple Cookies

These cookies are filled with bits of tart apple and walnuts and they have an enticing flavor that makes them different and delicious.

SPICY APPLE COOKIES

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking sode
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon ground cloves
1½ cups pared, cored and chopped apples
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup seedless raisins
1 package (6-oz.) butterscotch pieces
1¼ cups firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup softened butter or margarine
2 eggs
¼ cup apple juice

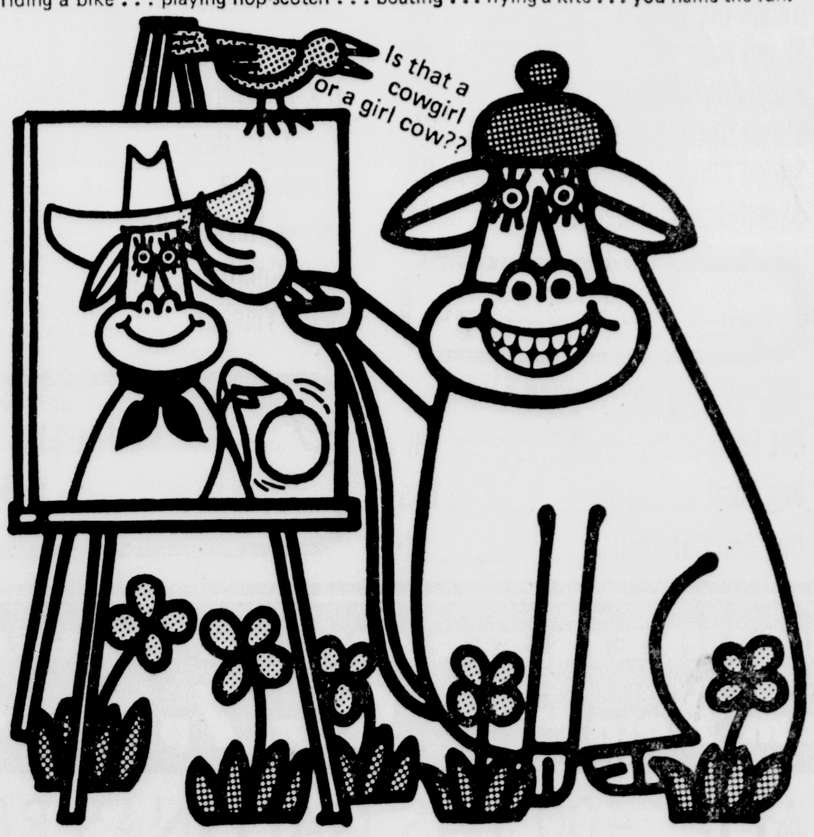

Mix and sift flour, baking soda, salt and spices. Stir in apples, walnuts, raisins and butterscotch pieces. Combine brown sugar and butter. Beat until creamy. Add eggs and apple juice to sugar-butter mixture. Beat until blended. Gradually stir in flour mixture. Drop by tablespoonfuls on well-greased cookie sheets. Bake at 400°F for 8 to 10 minutes. Remove cookies from sheets immediately. Cool on wire racks. Makes 5 dozen.

FIRST PRIZE for the funniest hat at the Novato Garden Club meeting was awarded to Mrs. Keith Cowan, left. Mrs. Fiedler Nordstrom, center, wore a hat, judged the prettiest, made of huge gold and yellow paper flowers with butterflies, frogs and caterpillars. The most original hat, according to judges, was worn by Mrs. Robert Hood, right. In support of "Our Future Parks, We Hope," the hat was a miniature park with tiny hanging baskets filled with fuchsias from her garden and tiny flower gardens placed on a styrofoam background.

CRAZY HATS

Mrs. George Barnes, left, wore the tiniest hat yesterday when the Novato Garden Club met at the Community House in Novato. Hats had themes relating to the club's flower show to be held June 6. On her tiny chapeau Mrs. Barnes fashioned individual geraniums with a chameleon for an adornment. Mrs. Kate Laufer, right, made her hat from a plastic bleach bottle, added a band of blue gingham and decorated it with plastic garden implements. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

Special Registration For Occupational Therapists

An estimated 2,000 occupational therapists, previously registered but not currently qualified by formal registration for employment, will hopefully be brought back into the critically depleted professional labor market in 1970.

Mrs. Violet Huerta, president of the Northern California Occupational Therapy Association, announces that the American Occupational Therapy Association is mounting a national recruitment effort to bring a large group of occupational therapists inactive by marriage and family responsibility (for periods exceeding the allowed 5-year lapse registration policy) back into professional practice.

In answer to urgent needs for professional manpower the American Occupational Therapy Association will offer the ex-therapist the opportunity to become reinstated as a registered member without reexamination during an amnesty period to Dec. 31. During 1970 only, by payment of a fee and by showing evidence of prior qualification, occupational therapists may again become active registered members of the AOTA. Local continuing education possibilities will be offered to the prospective returnees to help them up-date their professional skill.

A SERIOUS shortage of occupational therapists exists throughout the country. The reactivation program is expected to bring potentially qualified occupational therapists back to full-time or part-time careers in rehabilitation.

New professional roles have developed which are compatible with the married woman's family responsibilities. Occupational therapists are needed to participate in medical and educational services now being extended to more and more mentally, emotionally and physically handicapped children. Similarly, the growth of geriatric convalescent care centers in conjunction with Medicare and other aid programs has created a need for consultancy services from the occupational therapy profession.

Former registered occupational therapists are urged to contact their local reinstatement committee through Mrs. Evelyn Goddard, 1575 Wedgewood Drive, Hillsborough.

Personal Travel Kits Are Handy For Trips Abroad

In travel it's the little things you'll always remember — especially if you check into a hotel late at night and then discover there isn't any soap.

One of the nicest things you can give yourself or a friend is a small travel kit for that trip abroad. All it takes is a bit of thought and a trip to the nearest general merchandise store.

First buy an assortment of plastic containers. These can safely hold everything from mouthwash and medicines to astringent and hand lotion.

A large plastic cosmetic case will fit into your carry-on-tote, and in addition to the filled plastic containers it should contain:

A sewing kit with scissors and safety pins (A lovely day could be shattered without a safety pin.)

Bandages. (One now could save a blister later.)

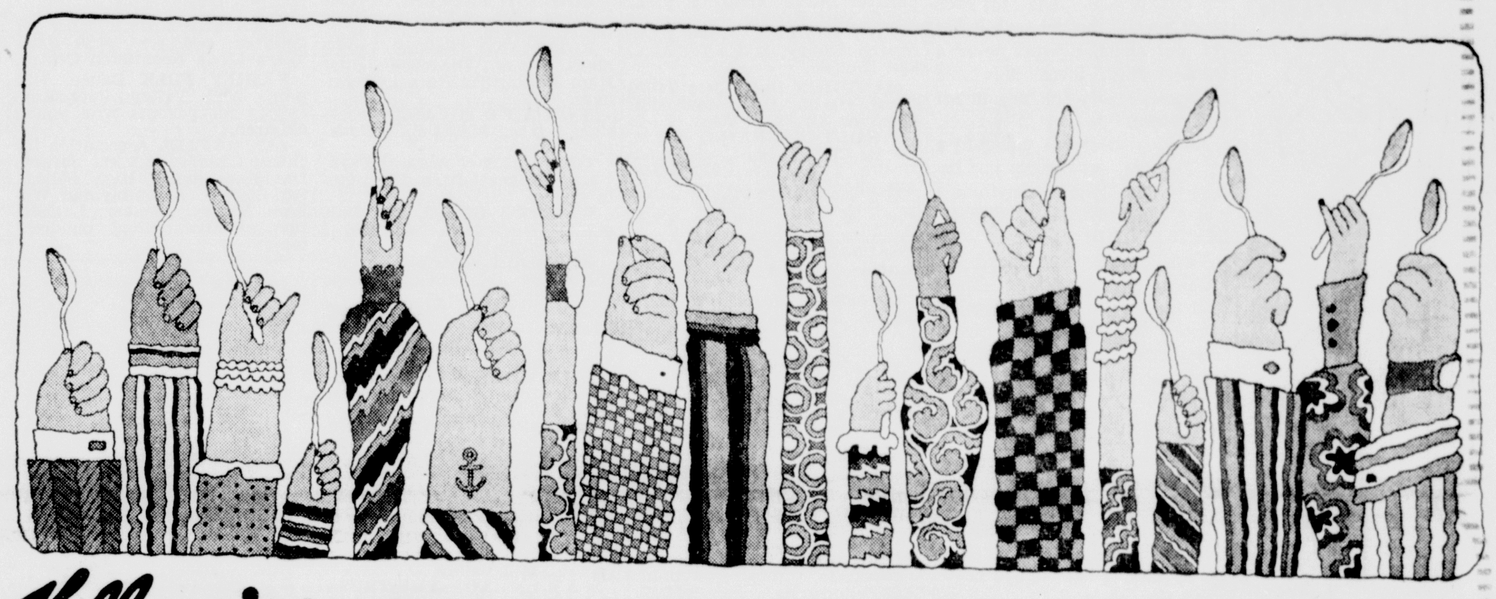

A small notebook, address book and ballpoint pen are mighty handy when you want to jot down the name of that charming boutique or friendly couple. And a scarf comes in handy for cathedral visits or windy mornings.

Veteran travelers carry a small collection of energy boosters. When room service is closed or there's another hour on the bus tour, a chocolate bar, plain cookies or hard candies are a handy solution.

Only imagination, foresight and wallet limit what can go into a personal travel kit, since most of these items weigh very little and take up little room.

Extra stockings. Clear nail polish. A small-change purse for those foreign coins you will want as souvenirs. Foreign-language phrase books. A small flashlight. Individual packages of tissues.

Careful thinking now can mean a carefree trip later.

Attractive Divorcee Is Just Too Eager To Run The Club

DEAR HELEN:

My husband and I are charter members of a small country club which started up last year. We have a friendly, sociable group. However, one of the members is a very attractive divorcee who is just too eager to run things. She calls it helping out.

She is trying to dominate our social functions, members, management and employees, and she expects special privileges.

Helen, how do we women tell her we liked the atmosphere of our club before she got pushy? We don't want to make her mad. — UPSET

DEAR UPSET:

And you don't get much help from your men, right?

If both males and females agree this gal is too pushy, she'd soon lose her pull — one person can't dominate unless she has followers. So prove to your husbands that she is more managing than ravishing and perhaps she'll stop being a menace. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You recommended tolerance for the homosexual who doesn't bother anybody. No matter how secretive he is, he bothers us normal people. Read your Bible, Romans 1:27-32, among other chapters, and then dare to say "tolerance is on the way" for these depraved and loathsome creatures. — GOING BY THE BIBLE

DEAR GOING:

In reading the passage you suggested, I came across another which I recommended to folks like you: Matthew 7:1. 'Judge not that ye be judged." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have recently learned that my younger brother is a homosexual. He called me and told me, and I promised not to tell our parents, but I'm going crazy wondering how I can help when he lives over 100 miles away.

He is on the dean's list at college besides holding down a full time job. He is the perfect picture of young manhood, though more gentle and kind than most. I always thought this was an extra quality that made him even more special, but he says it has set him apart. He was never a troublemaker, loves kids and animals, is very talented in art and music.

He tells me he is going to a psychiatrist, but the guy just listens to him. Is there anything I can do? — MARRIED SISTER

DEAR SISTER:

Your brother has faced his problem and is seeking expert help. From you, he needs tolerance, friendship, hope, assurance that you'll stand by. I know you won't let him down. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My wife's snoring is unbelievable. When I mention it to her she says she can't help it. Even if I slept in the other bedroom I'd hear it. No amount of poking, or making her change positions helps for long.

How can I get a little sleep? — A. S.

DEAR A.:

Your letter will fetch snore cures by the dozen, but none will be quite so effective as ear plugs — especially if you wear them in the other bedroom and manage to fall asleep before your wife buzzes off. — H.

New Chairman For Nursery School

Mrs. Kent O. Sims, this year's fund-raising chairman for the Mill Valley Nursery School, has been elected president for the next school year.

The president-elect says an important project will be the major revision of the school's playground area incorporating modern equipment and the most recent philosophies about outdoor play. Much of the actual work will be done by fathers of the group.

Jeannette and her husband, and economist for the Federal Reserve Bank in San Francisco, were newcomers to Marin a year ago. They have been living in Larkspur but are busy with a new home they are having built on Summit Avenue in Mill Valley. They have two children, Marketa, 5, and Adam, 3.

MRS. KENT O. SIMS

Jeanette holds a B.S. degree in journalism from Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., and an M.A. in political science from the University of Colorado in Boulder, Colo. She has been employed as a newspaper reporter on metropolitan dailies in Houston, Tex., as a girl Friday with an advertising agency in Boulder and as a member of the public relations staff of the Coca-Cola Export Corporation in New York.

She is also active in the Marin Conservation League.

Elected to serve with Mrs. Sims were Mmes. Ronald Supinski, vice president; Ernest Conway, treasurer; Astyanax Cassimatis, Day program; Floyd Heckman, membership; Jeppe Larsen, maintenance; Ron Stewart, purchasing; Ken Pace and James Scatena, fund-raising; and Maurice Wahlgren and Kurt Levi, council representatives.

The Pill Is 10 Years Old

It was just a decade ago, in 1960, that the United States approved the first oral birth control tablet. Today about 30 varieties of the Pill are made by eight pharmaceutical companies and used by some eight million American women.

That averages out to about a million women per manufacturer, and the companies are now spread from coast to coast.

But in the place where the Pill was first used — Puerto Rico — none are manufactured. In light of the recent scare stories about oral contraceptives, it is interesting to note that among the Puerto Ricans, who have used the Pill the longest, it is more popular than ever.

"Island Study Disproves Pill's Dangerous Effect" said a recent frontpage headline in the San Juan Star. The report went on to state how an eight-year study on more than 9,000 women had shown that "oral contraceptives can serve as life savers" because the Pill's danger is so small compared to the dangers of pregnancy and childbirth in that country.

Health officials in Puerto Rico reported that in their many years experience they have seen no proof that oral contraceptives are guilty of all the complications that have been blamed upon them. And the doctors announced that Puerto Rico will start a bigger than ever program of birth control there this summer.

Christian Women's Club Has A New President

Mrs. Harold Mickens of San Rafael has been installed as president of the Christian Women's Club of Marin. During seven years as a member she has served as special feature chairman, hostess, advisor and secretary.

The purpose of the organization, according to Barbara Mickens, is to reach women for Christ in American cities and to help send trained Christian leadership to neglected areas of rural America.

"We have inspiring speakers and unusual special features at our meetings, which are open to all women," Mrs. Mickens says. "There is no membership, and the organization is interdenominational."

Mrs. Mickens is also a member of the Stephens College Alumnae, the Daughters of the American Revolution and the San Rafael Parent-Teacher Association Council. She is a volunteer for Guide Dogs for the Blind and the Christian Children's Fund and belongs to a neighborhood group which sponsors a child in Hong Kong.

A native of Seattle, Wash., and a graduate of Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., Mrs. Mickens has lived in Marin nine years. She and her husband, director of Agencies Insurance Company, have a 13-year-old son, Steven.

Mrs. Mickens is interested in the stury of birds and animals. Her hobbies include bird collecting, knitting, stitcher, gourmet cooking and bicycle riding with her family.

Other officers are Mmes. Alan Cansfield and Lyn Parker, advisors; Clayton Harrop, music; Thomas Maddy, telephone; Howard Annin, hostess; Luis Otanez, decorations; Henry Cluette, treasurer; Denya Patrick, financial secretary; and Curtis Klein, corresponding secretary.

Public Is Benefiting From Changes In Life Insurance

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The general public is beginning to benefit from extensive changes occurring within the tradition-bound life insurance industry. Among the more significant ones are:

— A growing disenchantment with the traditional method of computing costs to policyholders by deducting premiums paid over the years from the total of dividends and cash values.

One prestigious industry committee is about to issue a report suggesting a new method that would come closer to actual costs by including such vital factors as interest and policy lapses.

—An increasing activity in mail-order life insurance. Among the companies profiting from this trend are Gerber Life Insurance Co. of New York City, a subsidiary of Gerber Baby Foods; Old American Insurance Co. of Kansas City and Great Lakes Insurance Co. of Elgin, Ill.

BY AVOIDING sales commissions, these firms can offer very low rates. For example, Gerber sells a 20-year renewable term at age 30 for only $60.50 a year for $10,000 of insurance.

— An increasing acceptance of group life insurance because of rates well below those for individual policies.

— A growing number of brokers offering a combination of term insurance and regular monthly payments into a mutual fund.

For breadwinners with dependents, of course, life insurance is virtually a necessity. But few take out enough, either through neglect, ignorance or lack of funds. The various alternatives are often confusing and are not always explained adequately by agents or brokers.

For most people, especially in the younger half of life, renewable term is the least expensive form of life insurance. But agents have generally emphasized cash-value insurance because it brings more in sales commissions.

Such agents argue, with some validity, that not many people will save regularly unless forced to do so by an insurance payment plan. Admittedly, the return is low, they say, but it may be more certain in the long run than some common stocks.

WHAT CONFUSES many people is the combination of insurance with investment factors, two different things, in one cash-value policy. It boils down to a simple point: If you want insurance, the cheapest form is usually term; if you want an investment, put your money in something other than cash-value life insurance for the best return.

Shopping around can also save money. Rates of some companies are more than double those of competitors.

This requires talking with more than one agent, particularly if he represents only one company. You are more likely to get a full picture of alternatives from a person who deals with several companies.

To be sure of getting the best deal, ask for a comparison of 20-year costs of term and cash-value insurance. Then ask for a comparison of returns you could get from the cash-value insurance and from investing the difference in premiums in some other form of investment.

Only then will you be able to make a wise decision, for only then will you have the full range of alternatives available to you.

Today is Wednesday, May 13, the 133rd day of 1970 with 232 to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter. The morning stars are Saturn and Mercury. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1607 English colonists landed near the James River in Virginia to establish their first permanent residence in the New World. They called it Jamestown.

In 1846 the United States declared war on Mexico.

In 1956 seventy-three Indonesians were killed when a pleasure craft capsized in the Java Sea.

In 1968 the U.S. and North Vietnam began preliminary peace talks in Paris.

A thought for the day: American poet Ralph Waldo Emerson said: "Nature and books belong to the eyes that see them."

Pacheco Ranch Outing For Baptiste Backers

A Correct Way To Choose Opening Bid – Just Listen

The old-fashioned bridge books are full of tables and lists, and no such book would be complete without a list of "desirable" opening leads. These lists are very useful if you happen to be deaf. But if you have the use of your ears, you should choose your opening lead by listening to the biddging.

Opening lead — ◇ Q

READY WITH LEAD

West was ready with his opening lead before the bidding had ended. After all, he had the queen-jack-ten-nine of the unbid suit, and any book would tell you that the queen of such a suit is a perfectly delicious lead.

Declarer took the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds and tried a finesse with the queen of hearts. West won with the king of hearts and returned a trump, but he was too late.

TRUMP RETURN

South won the trump return, cashed the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart in dummy. Declarer then cashed the ace of clubs, ruffed a club, drew the rest of the trumps and gave up a heart trick.

South still had a trump to regain the lead, and he lost only one diamond and two hearts. He was lucky to find the trumps evely divided, but it wasn't fantastic luck. He had, after all, run into a bad break in hearts.

OBVIOUS DEFENSE

Of course you've already seen the killing defense. West should open a trump rather than the queen of diamonds. South obviously has two long suits, and dummy is sure to show up with only two hearts at most. West should lead a trump to reduce dummy's ruffing power and thus protect his heart tricks.

CALLS FOR TRUMPS

When West gets in with the king of hearts he should lead another trump. South will be unable to ruff any hearts in dummy and will surely go down.

It always pays to consider a trump openisg lead when you have length and strength in declarer's long side suit.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ — 7 6 4
♥ — K J 10 6
♦ — Q J 10 9
♣ — 10 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1-no-trump.

There is no need to raise partner's major suit with three small trumps when you have balanced distribution. If you had only one club, you would raise to two spades rather than bid no-trump.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Hadrian VII' Provides A Rare Treat

By GARY TISCHLER

SAN FRANCISCO — The American Conservatory Theater is not given to excessive curtain calls or noisy standing ovations so that there are usually no physical signs to show that one of those rare moments of theater in which everything meshes and soars has occurred.

But I would say without any hesitation at all that that sort of thing happened last night at the Geary Theater when ACT unveiled its production of Peter Luke's Broadway success, "Hadrian VII."

One lady in the opening night audience did stand up and applaud continuously for five minutes, God bless her. I think there will be many more.

The play deals with one Frederick William Rolfe, a starving, bitter and emotionally dry writer who all his life has aspired to the priesthood. By chance, in the wintry recesses of his mind or in actuality, if you prefer, he becomes pope.

If Rolfe's ambition and dream is a sort of fleshed-out fantasy, as the play strongly suggests, it is nevertheless a real, touching and funny flight, the meandering of a soul longing for a spark of life.

BARBS AT CHURCH

That's the plot, for those who like plots. What happens when he does become pope is a good part of the meat of the play and succeeds in sticking some scathing barbs into the image of a church that is all too secular.

Rolfe is no saint, but in effect, he becomes one. Rolfe, the writer, is embittered, nervous, full of an icy hate and contempt for mankind, but his fantasy refuses to let him stay that way.

Much of the credit of the play's success goes to Peter Donat, surely on the company's most underrated performers.

Donat's Rolfe is a marvelous creation as he flits and walks in a state of constant trembling, a withered, chain-smoking human being who becomes something else as he fleshes out his version of "If I Were King."

It is almost done sleight-of-hand for Donat succeeds in humanizing both the bitter failure and the pope.

For the fantasy, after all, is the kind of dream we have all dreamed, if not for a lifetime then for a moment, and not nearly as well.

CAST PRAISED

The rest of the cast, which is large, is almost equally as rich. The vast array of cardinals, bishops and church menagerie is peopled by memorable, pompous faces and figures, shrouded in the sumptious vestiges of the church. Most effective are Philip Kerr as George Arthur Rose, a would-be-priest and recluse from men, and Jay Doyle in an understated and pious performance as the Bishop of Caerleon. His exchange with Rolfe during a confession is one of the low key, but funniest moments in recent theater.

I'd also like to single out Fanny Lubritsky as Agnes, Rolfe's loving caretaker. It would be easy to say that she's excessive, but with her whining, tremulous squeaks that sounds so much like an aging chicken on the verge of constipation, she is at first annoying the maudlin, but finally, totally disarming.

POMP ON STAGE

The production mixes pomp and spectacle, including an incense-filled procession that is climaxed by the crowning of Rolfe as pope, with quiet moments of simplicity and laughter. The highly flexible and impressive sets are the work of Robert Fletcher.

The opening night audience did not comprise a packed house, an error in judgment which should be corrected. In a time where things are becoming less beautiful every day, two beautiful hours or so shouldn't be missed.

CHEMICAL INVADES CREEK

Milky patches blotch Lagunitas Creek where alum spilled into the creek from a broken pipe. (See story, page 1) The chemical, used by Marin Municipal Water District in its treatment of water, killed thousands of fingerling steelhead trout and silver salmon when the pipeline at the district pumping station in Lagunitas broke. Planners Approve Apartment Over Objections Of Neighbors

San Rafael Planning commissioners last night approved a six-unit apartment building at 22 Park Street over the objections of neighbors who complained that the building would compound the street's parking, sewage and drainage problems.

The commissioners unanimously approved the plans for the building owned by Otto Albright after Commissioner Jorgen V. Lunding pointed out that the building complied with the city's zoning requirements.

Ernest J. Cavestri of 24 Park Street cited the narrowness of the street and complained that eight or 12 cars were parked in front of his home all the time. He said the congestion was caused by San Rafael High School students parking there and said "I can't get to my house."

Senior Planner Charles J. Linthicum noted that nine stalls had been provided for parking in the plans for the six units and that this met the ordinance requirement.

The street's inadequate sewage facilities were cited by Mrs. Fay Scovill of 9 Park Street who said every winter raw sewage overflowed from the street onto her property.

City Engineer Ely Caillouette Jr. said the sewage problem would soon be solved. He said the San Rafael Sanitation District had approved and funded a new sewer for the area that would be completed this year.

Caillouette wryly commented that the Park Street residents with their first-hand knowledge of the city's sewage problems should help promote the bond issue to install new sewers in the city.

The difference between the commissioners and Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner over the commission's approving on April 28 a conditional use permit and architectural approval for the construction of an office and warehouse building at 517 Jacoby Street surfaced again last night when Lunding asked that the minutes of the meeting be amended to include more detail.

Last month, the commission ignored Hotcher's recommendation that owner, Dino Ghilotti, dedicate a strip of land, up to 30 feet, at the rear of the property facing a proposed street.

Hotchner has appealed the commission's action and the matter will be brought before the San Rafael City Council Monday at 8 p.m. in city hall.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

POLICY — Adopted a policy on the painting of concrete or concrete block buildings requiring that definite painting proposals be submitted to the commission. They stated they preferred wood or earthtone colors and that applications deviating from the policy must include statements supporting the deviation.

DESIGN — Accepted the basic approach of a proposed design review amendment to the zoning ordinance stipulating that copies of the amendment be sent out or made available in the San Rafael Planning Department office for interested persons to examine and comment on during next 45 days before scheduling a final revision.

DECK — Held over until the May 26 meeting at 7:30 p.m. in city hall a request for a variance for an open deck encroachment into a rear yard at a residence of Norman Lew at 351 Knight Drive to determine if the deck comes under the category of a patio.

FILL — Granted a use permit for the placing of about 500 cubic yards of clean fill over rear portion of property owned by Ceccotti and Sons of Marin, Inc. at 2027 Francisco Boulevard.

SHOP—Granted a use permit for a machine shop for engineering, design and manufacture of food processing machinery on land owned by C. W. Rosenbaum at 28 Paul Drive.

BUILDING — Approved plans for a 30,000-square-foot research, manufacturing and administrative building owned and operated by Dohemann and Co. at 4340 Redwood Highway.

SIGNS — Approved plans for a three row, unilluminated, flush mounted sign spanning 18.3 feet on a building owned by Holiday Magic Inc. at 49 Larkspur Street.

WAREHOUSE — Approved plans for a 20,000-square-foot warehouse on land owned by Herbert Crocker at 55— 75 Lovell Avenue. This was held over from June 24, 1969, pending the exchange of property for right-of-way realignment of Lovell Avenue that has been accomplished.

ADDITION —Approved plans for an 1,800-square-foot addition to be added to an automotive garage owned by Fred Lancelotti at 4212 Redwood Highway.

ENFORCEMENT — Heard a report from Hotchner that in the future the building inspection department will see that applicants follow architectural design requirements stipulated by the planning commission before issuing building permits and that occupancy permits will not be issued by the planning department unless all requirements have been complied with.

MEETING — Adjourned meeting to May 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the City Hall to discuss the pros and cons of allowing mobile homes in the city.

Shopping Center Issue Shelved For Report

The hot potato of the Sutter Hills shopping center which has split the Novato City Council and planning commission for months, last night was put on ice until after the downtown study is completed.

The council, by a 5-0 vote, agreed to continue the item on downzoning the property from commercial to multiple residential at South Novato Boulevard and Diablo Avenue, and evoking the use permit, until its Aug. 18 meeting.

Council action amounted to acceptance of an offer by attorney Leland H. Jordan, representing both the owners of the land and Sutter Hills Development Co.

"The council, property owners and Sutter Hills Development Co. are heading on a collision course," Jordan told the council.

He gave the council a letter in which his clients agreed not to apply for a building permit or to do anything further with the property until the council had received and studied the Sedway and Cooke downtown study report. This report is due July 15.

Councilman George C. Quesada asked Jordan if his clients would waive their property rights in event the recommended zoning went against them.

Jordan said that it was not a government procedure to ask property owners to waive their property rights.

City Attorney Clark M. Palmer Jr. agreed with Jordan and said that the added time on the question of the shopping center would be to the advantage of both the city and the developer and owners.

Monday night the planning commission by a split 3-2 vote recommended downzoning the property. It unanimously voted to revoke the use permit, but this needed council ratification which was not given last night.

Novato Council Votes Nod To Tentative Pay Raises

Pay increases ranging from 2.5 to 17.5 per cent last night were tentatively approved by the Novato City Council for fiscal 1970-71.

The approval was given so that City Mgr. Charles A. Brown could go ahead with preparation of the budget. The raises will be reviewed again when the council goes over the budget.

The total cost of the increases was estimated at $75,550 for next year. This year, the city budget allocated $818,445 for salaries, Brown said.

The Novato City Employees Association had prepared a comparison of jobs and salaries with other cities, and association president John Perry said the association agreed with the recommendations made by Brown.

The council tentatively agreed to some changes in the fringe benefits. These too will be reviewed at budget time.

Positions and recommended salary increases were: Planning technician, 2.5 per cent; accounting clerks and engineers, 7.5 per cent; maintenance men and police officers, 12.5 per cent; police sergeants, 15 per cent and police lieutenant, 17.5 per cent.

The council created a 'Y' classification for departmental secretaries who have reached the top of the scale. They will get a 7.5 per cent increase.

Department heads also were recommended for percentage increases: Planning director, 7.5 per cent, public works director, and parks and recreation director, 10 per cent; chief of police, 12.5 per cent and director of finance, 15 per cent. Brown made no recommendation on his own salary.

Fringe benefits included increasing vacations from 10 to 12 days after three years; 15 days for four and five years and 18 days after that. The employees would get 11 instead of the present 10 holidays, but which holiday was not decided. Increasing overtime from 1.15 per cent to 1.5 per cent for police officers was approved or they could take compensatory time off.

The Novato City Council Also:

LEASES — Approved leasing the upstairs of the community house at $504 per year to the Novato Community Players and renewed for five years the of Lions park at no cost.

FREEWAY — Continued until 8 p.m. May 26 consideration of the formal agreement with the state Division of Highways on the San Marin-Atherton Avenue interchange and the Reichert Avenue improvements.

AUDIT—Authorized Sleezer and Eckhoff of San Rafael to make the annual audit at a cost of $2,000.

PARKING—Approved two-hour limit on parking on portions of Front Street.

NURSERY SCHOOL — After hearing a protest from Florence McCoy of 241 Grande Vista and 20 neighbors against a proposed nursery school in the county at Eucalyptus Avenue and Novato Boulevard voted to oppose it before the Marin County Planning Commission.

CITIZENSHIP—Granted honorary citizenship to the eight foreign exchange students attending Novato's two high schools.

CONTINUED—Continued until 8 p.m. May 26 a use permit for a pizza hut on Highway 101 south of Grant Avenue; rezoning of San Marin East at Highway 101 and San Marin Drive and the Crossroads shopping center at Highway 101 and South Novato Boulevard.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. May 26 at the Novato community house.

Brown Act Extension Supported

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — An Oakland housewife, accusing the Oakland City Council of conducting important business in small groups behind closed doors, yesterday supported broadening of the provisions of the Ralph M. Brown Act, the state's antisecrecy law.

In a statement to the Senate Local Government Committee, Mrs. Dan Jones endorsed passage of a bill by Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, that would extend the act to meetings of all committees and subcommittees of local governing bodies.

At present the act prohibits governing bodies from meeting in private.

Mrs. Jones, who said she had been an observer of Oakland city affairs for eight years, told the committee: "Important city business, of concern to every citizen in Oakland, is being discussed in a manner specifically designed to circumvent the Brown Act as it is presently written."

She then quoted from a newspaper story about a recent city council decision: "(The agreement) came during behind-the-doors meetings yesterday between councilmen who carefully met in small groups in City Mgr. Jerome Keithley's office and at private dinners."

Mrs. Jones said that no public notice is given of the committee meetings. She said no citizen has attempted to enter the sessions but that's "something the public will have to do sometime in the future."

She said a reporter has tried to enter but been "told she's not welcome."

Mrs. Jones was the sole speaker on the bill (SB 874) and Marks asked for a vote next Tuesday.

In a separate development, the Assembly has approved and passed to the Senate an amended version of a bill (AB 981) by Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Oakland, that would permit the chairman of a state or local body to halt a disorderly meeting and continue in open session with only the news media present.

The bill as originally introduced would have permitted adjournment of a disrupted meeting into closed session.

McInnis Reception

There will be a reception for Supervisor John F. McInnis at 8 p.m. Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Gaumer at 28 Millstone Terrace, Marinwood, sponsored by the committee backing reelection of McInnis.

A question and answer period will be held, Mr. Bocchetti said.

Co-Eds Accused To Taking Car

Two teen-aged San Anselmo girls were booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall on suspicion of car theft after a witness told police they stole a car at Sir Francis Drake High School yesterday, San Anselmo police reported.

Arrested were Pamela Barni, 15, of 1586 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Apt. 6, and Patricia Ann Walsh, 15, of 15 Ramona Way.

Police said Robert Eberhart of 115 Sunnyside Avenue reported his car missing at 3:30 p.m. from the lot. Police found it, the keys in the ignition, at 5:15 p.m. on Oak Knoll Avenue and Eberhart recovered it.

A little later, a witness told police that he had seen the two girls drive the car out of the lot, and they were arrested at 7:30 p.m. at the Walsh residence.

The five evening lectures will be held from 7 to 9 o'clock each day at a College of Marin location not yet fixed. The course, developed by two university professors, was offered here and in 59 other areas last year.

Jewelry Suspect Case Bound Over

David James Robertson, 22, of South Berlin, Mass., yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of burglarizing a Sausalito jewelry store on April 14. He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Robertson was arrested after he was found hiding under a small desk in the store, police said. Another man, identified as Augustus Anton III, about 25, of Ann Arbor, Mich., was shot by officers as he fled the store.

His body plummeted 10 feet into the bay behind the Dubin and Dubin store at 658 Bridgeway. A body believed to be his surfaced on May 1, and the coroner's office said there was jewelry taken from the store in a pocket.

Morgenthau Quits Governor's Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Former U.S. Atty. Robert Morgenthau, who resigned as deputy mayor to seek the Democratic nomination for governor, has withdrawn from the race.

Morgenthau's action Tuesday came soon after the Liberal party endorsed Arthur Goldberg, former Supreme Court justice and secretary of labor, to run in November against Nelson A. Rockefeller, the Republican incumbent.

A KEY CALL

No Homer, Says Ump

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants can thank owner Horace Stoneham for the fact that catcher Dick Dietz already has driven in as many runs this spring, 35, as he did all last season.

Dietz, who is tied with Atlanta's Henry Aaron for the National League RBI lead, feels his total should be 36. He was deprived of what he thought should have been a homer, instead of a triple, here Tuesday night when San Diego nipped the Giants, 6-5.

ROBERTSON

The three-game series will be up for grabs Wednesday night when the Giants send Rich Robertson, 2-2, to the mound against lefthander Danny Coombs, 2-1.

The Giants had the bases loaded in the fifth inning when Dietz hit the top of the left centerfield fence with a liner. The ball bounced high in the air and came back into the playing field.

The Giants argued that the ball caromed off the top of the wall and struck a railing and that it should have been a homer—but they couldn't convince umpire Shag Crawford.

"If it's a homer, and I thought it was, then we go into extra innings, said the 28-year-old veteran.

It was a momentary disappointment for the man who has given the Giants one of their few pleasant surprises this season. The 6-1, 185-pounder is averaging .382 and has hit eight homers in the Giants' first 33 games.

Never before in his first four seasons with the Giants did Dietz average better than .272, hit more than 11 homers or drive in more than 38 runs. That's partly because he had to divide catching duties with people such as Bob Barton, Jack Hiatt and several others.

Stoneham, who wanted Dietz to catch regularly, traded Barton to San Diego last winter and sold Hiatt to Montreal last month.

However, his heavy hitting this spring hasn't overcome San Francisco's problems with its pitching. Three errors and two bases-loaded walks were enough to ruin the Giants Tuesday night as the Padres piled up a 6-1 lead in the first four innings and chased rookie Miguel Puente, now 1-1.

The Giants fought back, only to be shut out in the final two and one-third innings by the relief work of Tom Dukes, who saved the victory for starter Mike Corkins, 2-3. Corkins gave up a run-scoring double to Ron Hunt, a three-run triple to Dietz and Willie McCovey's 10th homer of the season.

Ironically, three former Giants played important roles in San Diego's ninth victory in its last 14 games. Barton knocked in two runs with two singles, Ollie Brown singled home a run, made one spectacular catch and threw out a runner at second.

Bando's Homer Wins It

OAKLAND (AP) — Manager John McNamara of the Oakland A's played for one run in the 11th inning Tuesday night, but Sal Bando got him two.

Bando hammered a homer with Rick Monday on base to give the Athletics a 5-3 victory over the Washington Senators.

BACKFIRED

Manager Ted Williams of Washington had his strategy backfire when he brought in left hander George Brunet to pitch the eleventh inning. Williams figured that the first two Oakland batters were left-handed and Brunet should get them out.

But Monday singled and moved to second on a sacrifice by Reggie Jackson.

Now it was Williams' turn to make another move. He could call in a right handed pitcher to face Bando or have Brunet walk the Oakland slugger.

Or he could let Brunet pitch to Bando.

He took the third choice and it was the wrong one.

SCUFFLE

The defeat was the sixth in a row for Washington, but the Senators did get the best of a sixth inning scuffle between Mike Epstein and Oakland catcher Dave Duncan. Epstein, a 220-pound ex-college football star, barreled into Duncan on a play at the plate and the pair exchanged swings in a brief scuffle.

Both benches emptied, but a full scale brawl was averted when Frank Howard, the 6-7 270-pount Washington outfielder, acted as a peacemaker.

He grabbed Oakland's Joe Rudi and two other A's and kept them away from the center of the fight.

Said Rudi: "When that man (Howard) said stop, I stopped." Epstein's version of the incident was that Duncan left him nowhere to slide.

BLOCKING PLATE

"He was blocking the plate and I had nowhere to go," he said. "He made a big deal out of it. The important thing is that we lost the game and that's what Im' mad about."

The A's and Senators play again tonight with Jim Shellenback, 0-0, pitching for Washington and John Odom, 2-2, on the mound for Oakland.

Reaching Kids

George Starn, chairman of the physical education department at Terra Linda High School, has been named the outstanding physical educator in Marin county for the school year 1969-70 by the Marin unit of the California Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

George Graham, president of the Marin unit of CAHPER, announced that Starn will be honored at an awards dinner tonight at Nero's restaurant, Ignacio.

MODEL PROGRAM

The selection of Starn as outstanding physical educator was based on the contributions he has made to the profession since he came to Terra Linda in 1962.

"The physical education department at Terra Linda is regarded by many as a model program," said Graham. "Yet George is not content. He continues to work diligently to improve the program."

Starn, who is a product of Richmond High School and San Francisco State College (he graduated in 1953), where he played basketball, soccer and led the golf team as a four-year varsity letterman, has said, "The high school physical education teacher has the toughest and most important job in physical education, not the college instructor. For this reason I intend to remain on the high school level."

Starn got his first teaching job at San Rafael High School in 1958, where he taught mathematics and health education, and coached the varsity swimming team. After four years he moved to Terra Linda as varsity basketball coach, and in 1967 was named department chairman.

He does not regret the fact that he no longer coaches. "More kids can be reached through physical education and recreation than through coaching," he says. "Therefore coaching is not my primary interest."

EXPERIMENTS

Presently his department is experimenting with ability grouping, team teaching, new curriculum ideas, audio-visual devices and an elective program.

Regarding the program, he says he hopes to continue the high standards that have been built in the past four years, and also to individualize the program to a greater extent.

PREP ROUNDUP

Drake Nine Breaks The Spell

The Drake High School Pirates combined the timely hitting of Dave MacAusland with Glen Pfaff's clutch pitching to turn back Terra Linda, 4-1 yesterday for their first Marin County Athletic League win of the season.

Archie Speak's run-scoring single in the bottom of the eighth gave Novato a 3-2 victory over Tamalpais and moved the Hornets into a tie for third place with Terra Linda.

San Rafael's Charlie Gray spun a two hitter as the Bulldogs knocked off Marin Catholic, 3-2 amidst a steady drizzle at Albert Park.

Drake scored thrice in the fourth inning in support of Pfaff's three-hit pitching as the Pirates broke their 10-game losing string. Two of those runs came on a triple by MacAusland, who also singled in the first Pirate run in the second inning.

Pfaff struck out eight and evened his league record at a win and a loss.

Novato, which like Terra Linda has 7 wins and 4 losses, came back to win after Tam had tied the game in the seventh on pitcher Bill Secor's single that scored Clifford Hall. Dave Judnick, who along with Hornet shortstop John Kidder had three hits, opened the eighth with a bloop single. Steve Pond walked and Randy Jackson sacrificed to set the stage for Speak's game winning hit.

Tam left 12 men on base, but sparkled on defense with three double plays.

Larry Brazda broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning when he singled home Bruce Maglione and Dirk Gansloser as San Rafael downed Marin Catholic for the Bulldogs' third win of the season against eight losses.

Gray, who has two of those wins, pitched heroically, keeping the Wildcats offstride all afternoon.

25th Straight Win

San Rafael's Nolan Wilson lined three straight hits and Mill Valley's Greg Schaefer added two more last night to lead Paul Koss Supply to its 25th consecutive San Francisco A League softball win, a 10-2 bombing of Half Note Club. Wilson and Schaefer each drove in a pair of runs.

Money Problems Also Hit Sacramento Track

Sears Point International Raceway, which closed yesterday indefinitely because of financial difficulties, is not the only Northern California motorsports facility feeling the money hunger pangs.

Sacramento International Raceways, an ambitious project spearheaded by Marin County sportsmen and scheduled to open this year, has been temporarily shelved due to lack of financing. The project was scheduled to go public but, failing there, the promoters, led by Kentfield's Jim Coleman, now are seeking private financing.

Hey, I've got an idea for defunct race tracks: Turn them into road courses for Edsels.

There are some who still think Sears Point could make a go of it by staging weekly events at low prices, catering to the little guy. SPIR's schedule was geared to the big time with big time ticket prices, overhead, etc.

San Rafael Hikes Stadium Fee

SPEAKING OF high financing, San Rafael City Schools discovered it has been renting out its football stadium at a loss to taxpayers and has hiked rental fees from $200 to $400 for daytime use and $250 to $438 for nighttime use.

The Tamalpais High School District already has applied for six dates at the San Rafael stadium, only night football facility in Marin.

If you're curious about why a field costs $438 to rent, here is the breakdown provided by San Rafael City Schools business manager Charles L. Condrotte: Field preparation, $60; Game supervisor, $25; Electrician, $26; San Rafael Police security, $90; Custodian, $22; Use of scoreboard, $10; Lights, $36; Cleanup, $44; On-going field maintenance, $100; Miscellaneous, $25.

Trout Fishing Can Be Easy

SOME MARIN anglers are bemoaning the dearth of trout this early in the season but attorney Chuck Best worked a little stream near his Sleepy Hollow home for about an hour last week, taking a limit of native trout to 12 inches. Chuck used to fish Corte Madera Creek in his days at College of Marin where students now quip they no longer even see the dead ones.

LEROY GEVING of Petaluma and Phil Pedlar of Novato, two of the area's better known modified hardtop racers, are engaged in a spirited battle for first place in the Bay Area Racing Association standings at Vallejo Speedway these days. Last weekend Pedlar took over the lead with 247 points to 241.

Reason first place is more valuable is that the driver and owner of the car leading the standings on May 23 will be treated to an all-expenses paid trip to the Indianapolis 500-mile race, so the next two Saturday night races at Vallejo should be Katy-bar-the-door affairs as far as Pedlar and Geving are concerned.

Happiness In Denver, Montreal

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Two North American cities—Montreal and Denver—have been selected as sites for the 1976 Olympics.

The International Olympic Committee, in an unexpected move, picked Montreal Tuesday over Moscow and Los Angeles for the 1976 Summer Games. Denver got the nod for the Winter Olympics.

100TH YEAR

There was elation, naturally, from Montreal and mile-high Denver, which will celebrate the 100th year of Colorado statehood as the entire United States marks its 200th anniversary. From the losers, however, there were expressions of bitterness.

The Soviet Union claimed Montreal's selection was "contrary to logic and common sense . . . a blow at the Olympic movement and its ideals."

"We were the victims of the Cold War," said Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles. "The committee apparently didn't want to take sides between the United States and Russia and took the easy way out."

The Olympic Games have never been held in a Communist country and the decision against Moscow was obviously a blow to Soviet national pride. Tass, the official Soviet news agency, fumed and fussed about the vote, but there were no indications from Tass that the Russians would boycott the Olympics.

Yorty, in expressing unhappiness, said he considered the decision even more of a shock to the Russians. "They probably hardly dare to go home."

Moscow led on first ballot but did not have the required majority. That vote was 28 for the Russian capital, 24 for Montreal and 17 for Los Angeles. On the second ballot, with Los Angeles eliminated, Montreal got 41 votes and Moscow 28 with one vote voided.

THIRD BALLOT

Denver won the Winter Games on the third ballot, defeating Sion, Switzerland 39-30. Other cities bidding for the Winter Olympics of 1976 were Vancouver, British Columbia, and Tampere, Finland. Vancouver had been the pre-meeting favorite but, since no nation has ever been the site for Winter and Summer games in the same Olympic year since 1936, lost out when Montreal surprisingly won the Summer Olympics.

The IOC usually picks the sites some six years in advance. The 1972 Summer Olympics will be staged at Munich, Germany. Sappora, Japan will be the site for the 1972 Winter Games.

Giants Bring Up Two Players From Phoenix

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In a roster shuffle necessitated by surgery for relief pitcher Don McMahon, the San Francisco Giants have brought up two players from Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League and sent one down.

They also signed their No. 1 choice in the first phase of last January's free agent draft — 6-foot-5, 210-pound catcher Steve Faria of Ohlone Junior College in Fremont, Calif.

McMahon, 40, entered Chapman Hospital in San Diego Tuesday for an operation to remove hemorrhoids. He will be on the disabled list for at least 21 days, the Giants announced.

McMahon, in his 14th major league season, was 2-1 with two saves in 10 appearances and an earned run average of 6.23.

The Giants sent outfielder Steve Whittaker to Phoenix for reliever Bill Faul and outfielder-infielder Frank Johnson.

Faul, 30, former Chicago Cubs hurler, appeared in seven games this year for Phoenix and recorded five saves with a 2.57 ERA for 10 innings.

Johnson, who played third base and outfield in a reserve role with the Giants the past three seasons, was hitting .353 after 29 games for Phoenix, where he played first base.

Faria, a right-handed slugger, will report to Great Falls, Mont. of the Class A Pioneer League after the school term is over, the Giants said.

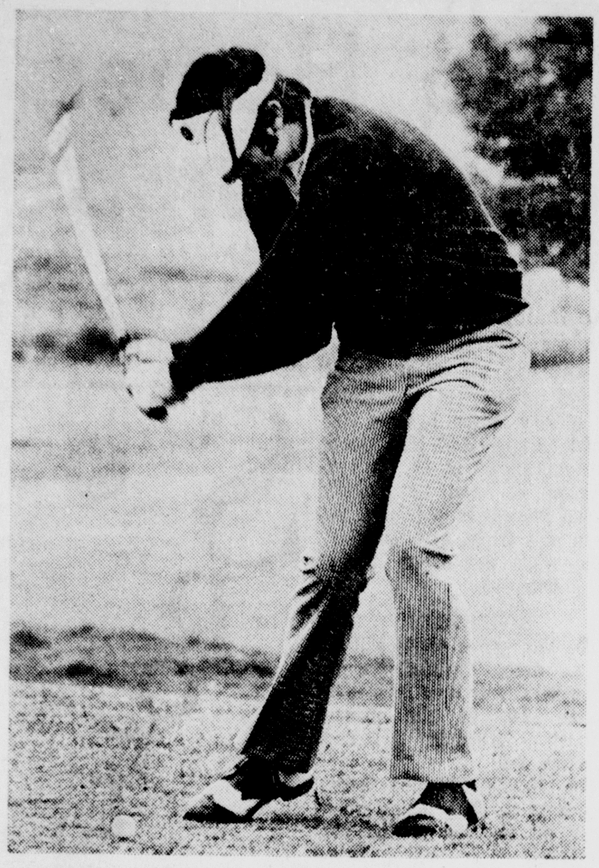

Lee Goes Five Innings In Red Sox Defeat

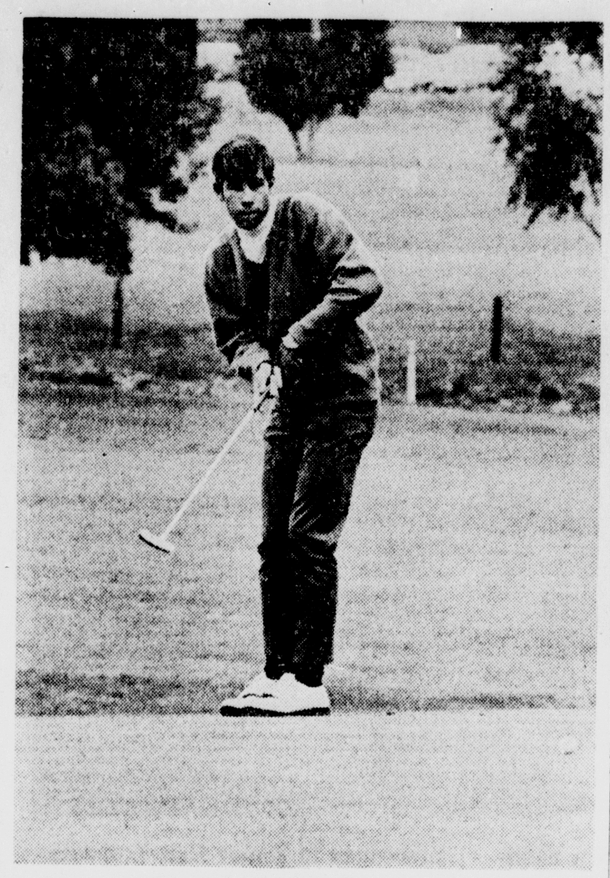

Bill Lee, one time pitching ace at Terra Linda High School, went five plus innings for the Boston Red Sox last night before the American League's Western Division leading California Angels drove him off the mound.

Lee, who started the game with a record of a win and a loss, left in the sixth inning with Boston ahead, 3-2 and runners on first and second with none out. Red Sox reliever Ray Jarvis came to Lee's rescue by retiring the Angels in order, but California went on to win, 6-5.

Petaluma Nine Wins A Thriller

A thundering last inning collission at home plate saved a thrill-packed 5-4 decision for the Petaluma High School Trojans yesterday at Napa and kept their hopes alive for a share of the North Bay League I baseball crown.

Coach Roy Lattimore's Trojans scored twice in the top of the seventh when Lou Neve and Kurt Jastro hammered back to back triples and Kevin Gillmore squeezed Jastro home. It gave the Trojans a 5-4 lead.

Napa's Indians came rattling back; however; in the bottom of the same inning. Warren Brewster walked, Dave Mann singled and Jim Buckner hit an infield chopper. Brewster scored when Steve Hing threw high to the plate, but when Mann also tried to score, Neve met him three feet from home plate in a resounding crash. It ended the threat.

The victory gave Petaluma a 9-2 record against Napa's 9-1 in league play.

Although Dust Commander's five-length victory in the Derby was a surprise; Hart said he was impressed by the performance and felt the public reaction was similar and would carry over to the betting on the 13-horse Preakness field.

My Dad George, runnerup in the Derby, made the second choice by Hart at 4-1.

Gridders At Cal Return

BERKELEY (AP) — Football players have returned to spring practice, but wrestling, tennis and track teams at the University of California are advertising their opposition to the war in Indochina.

The tennis team said Tuesday it would compete in Los Angeles this weekend wearing shirts inscribed with the peace symbol.

The track team said it would war black armbands in the Pacific-8 championships in Los Angeles this weekend. The wrestling team said it would boycott a Greco-Roman tournament in Los Angeles, although the event had not been on Cal's official schedule.

Steve Sawin and Jack Sanford, football team spokesmen, said the "overwhelming majority" of football players voted to return to spring practice, which ends Saturday.

Monday's practice session was called off when athletes held their first meetings to form "Unified Athletes of the University of California."

The 200 member athletes announced Tuesday. "We condemn U.S. activity in Southeast Asia and call for unilateral withdrawal of all forces . . . Furthermore, we call for a reconstitution of American universities as centers against the war.

"Let it be clearly understood that we are not voicing our protest in opposition to athletics but to the immoral policy of our government," they said.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

New Plateau For Banks; Allen Reaching For Sky

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The 39-year-old Banks banged out his 500th career homer Tuesday in helping the Chicago Cubs edge the Atlanta Braves 4-3 in 11 innings.

"I don't know about distance and all that," said Allen the once-unhappy Phillie, "but I will say there's nothing too good for the fans of St. Louis."

In other National League games Cincinnati topped Pittsburgh 5-3, San Diego edged San Francisco 6-5, Houston downed Los Angeles 8-3 and New York beat Montreal 8-4.

Baltimore nipped Minnesota 5-4, Chicago upended Detroit 7-2, New York ripped Milwaukee 9-5, California edged Boston 6-5 and Oakland defeated Washington 5-3 in 11 innings in American League action.

Allen, whose blast came with a man aboard in the fifth, the Cards a 6-5 lead after they had trailed 5-1. Joe Hague and Allen drove in four runs apiece while Lou Brock collected four hits in backing up Chuck Taylor's four-hit relief pitching through seven innings.

Banks' homer came in the second inning off Pat Jarvis for his third of the season, putting him with eight others in the 500-club, headed by Babe Ruth's 714.

He admitted that the pressure to hit No. 500 was getting to him "I was thinking about it on and off the field almost all the time," said the man who socked his first homer on Sept. 20, 1953 against Gerry Staley in St. Louis.

Ron Santo's scratch single with the bases loaded in the 11th pulled the Cubs past Atlanta. Billy Williams hit his 12th homer of the year to send the game into extra innings. The Braves' Rico Carty extended his hit skein to 30, seven short of Tommy Holmes' league mark.

Cincinnati's Jim Merritt pitched a four-hitter against Pittsburgh to become the majors' first seven-game winner this year. Lee May belted a tie-breaking homer in the seventh and Johnny Bench delivered a two-run shot in the ninth.

Don Wilson of the Astros, sidelined by arm trouble all spring, made his first appearance and limited the Dodgers to seven hits in 8 2-3 innings. Fred Gladding bailed him out of a bases loaded jam in the ninth.

Denis Menke pounded out four hits and drove home four runs and Doug Rader's seventh homer for Houston broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh.

Art Shamsky hit a two-run blast and Dave Marshall collected three doubles in leading the Mets past the Expos. Adolfo Phillips homered for Montreal, whose pitchers gave up 14 walks. Ray Sadecki picked up his first win as a Met.

Hogan Is Sentimental Favorite In Colonial

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Ben Hogan returns Thursday to "Hogan's Alley," site of his last professional triumph, and will be at least a sentimental favorite to capture his sixth Colonial National Invitation golf championship.

But the legendary Texas Hawk, who played his first tournament in almost three years last week, said he is not a threat for the title in the $125,000 event.

"I shouldn't even be playing," the 57-year-old master said.

"I've practiced too much recently and I'm tired. And I really don't know the course anymore. I haven't played it in three-four years and they've changed it since then."

The site of the Silver Anniversary of the tourney that Hogan won five times is the plush, 7,143-yard par 70 Colonial Country Club course, nicknamed Hogan's Alley.

It was on this course that he won his last event, the 1959 Colonial.

Two holes were rebuilt from tee to green last year because of a flood-control project and less drastic changes were made on seven others.

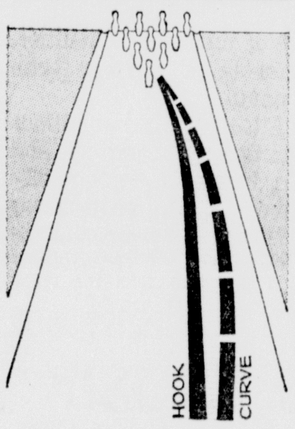

But Hogan demonstrated in Houston last week, that despite his age, absence from the game and an ailing left knee, he still is a force to be reckoned with. He managed a final-round 70, one-under-par, and finished in the top, just five strokes off the pace at the Champions International Tournament.

He announced then he would play in the Colonial but added, "I have no plans beyond that."

The favorite's role, however, will probably go to Jack Nicklaus, the Ohio strongman who won his last start and has finished lower than eighth only once in his last eleven tournaments.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Should your ball curve much more than 10 boards under average lane conditions, you'll probably have trouble adjusting to various lanes. As a result you'll find many spares are very difficult to convert. A big hook knocks down NO more pins than a small one. Therefore, concentrate on perfecting a tight hook.

Meet Peacock Gap's Golf Champion

By RALPH CHATOIAN

It didn't take Jack M. Sterley, a relative newcome to Marin County, too long to make his name known in Peacock Gap golf circles.

Sterley, 46, won the Peacock Gap Golf Club championship in his first try and will be representing that club next August in the Marin County Tournament of Champions at Mill Valley Municipal course.

A six-handicapper, Sterley moved from southern California to the Peacock Gap area of San Rafael three years ago and has been a member of the golf club there the past two years. The 1969 tourney was his first club championship tourney, however.

SELLS ALUMINUM

A district sales manager for Reynolds Aluminum, packaging division, Sterley has been playing golf for 25 years, since his college days at Lawrence College in Wisconsin and Northwestern in Chicago. He has been with Reynolds Aluminum for 14 years, now working in the San Francisco office after his transfer from Los Angeles.

Sterley, who defeated Bob Bond in a tight final match to win the Peacock Gap title, plays golf once a week. "I'll usually get in a round Saturday or Sunday," he said. "I don't have the time to play on weekdays, just weekends."

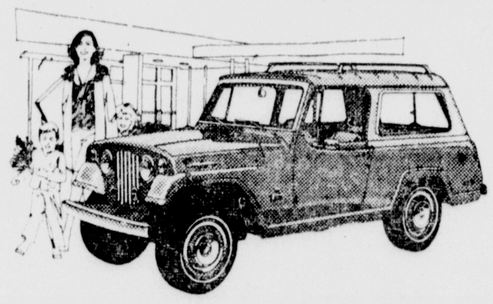

Uusually playing his golf at Peacock Gap, Sterley said he has never played on the Mill Valley course, but expects to get in some practice prior to the tourney of champs.

Sterley's wife, Doranne, a teacher at MacPhail School in San Rafael, also plays golf in the Peacock club. They have two sons, Jeff, a freshman at University of California at Santa Barbara, and Scott, a junior at San Rafael High School.

Broadway-Hale Stores, Emporium Plan Merger

Directors of Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc. and The Emporium Capwell have announced agreement in principle on a merger of the two companies on the basis of issuance of 1.125 shares of Emporium Capwell stock for each share of common stock of Broadway-Hale.

Emporium Capwell would be the surviving corporation, but its name would be changed to Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc. Each Emporium Capwell shareholder would retain his present shares, and each Broadway-Hale shareholder would receive 1.125 shares of Emporium Capwell stock for each present share of Broadway-Hale stock.

Prentis C. Hale would serve as chairman of the board and Edward W. Carter as president and chief executive officer of the merged corporation. The Emporium Capwell stores would be operated under their present management, headed by A. R. Batchelder, as an autonomous division of the parent corporation.

It is expected that an annual dividend rate of $1 per share will be established for the shares of the combined company.

Broadway-Hale presently owns 50.3 per cent of the outstanding Emporium Capwell stock.

The two companies last October authorized their respective officers to investigate the feasibility of a merger, and discussions between the two groups have proceeded since that time.

All terms of the merger will be subject to approval of stockholders of both companies.

Bank Reduces Loan Points

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bank of America has reduced the points it charges on FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed loans from four to two.

One point equals 1 per cent of the amount loaned and is usually paid by the seller. On a $20,000 mortgage, each point costs $200.

C. J. Medberry, executive vice president-loans, said the action should help stimulate the California housing market.

Wall Street Falls Below 700 Level

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was off sharply early this afternoon with the Dow Jones average several points below the 700 level. Trading was moderate.

A very steep early decline which sent the Dow average plunging more than 10 points in the first hour of trading had apparently eased by early afternoon.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 11.15 to 693.44. The last time the average closed below this level was July 29, 1963, when it ended at 690.71.

The present downswing was due to the same economic and political factors that have been depressing the market for months, analysts said. They cited high interest rates, inflation, poor company earnings, and the Asian war.

Big Board prices included Burlington Industries, off 1⅛ to 36¾; Eastman Kodak, off 2⅛ to 66⅝; IBM, off 6¾ to 275¾; Penn Central, up ½ to 15¾; and University Computing, off 1⅞ to 27⅛.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices included Milgo Electronics, off ½ to 27¼; Ketchum, off 3½ to 8½; Potter Instruments, off 2 to 27¾; Equity Funding, off ⅞ to 18½; and Automatic Data Processing, off 1⅛ to 26⅜.

National Product Is A Convenient Scale

By ROGER SPEAR

Q. Maybe I'm stupid but I'm not sure that I clearly understand what GNP (gross national product) means. Why is it played up by the papers? — D.D.

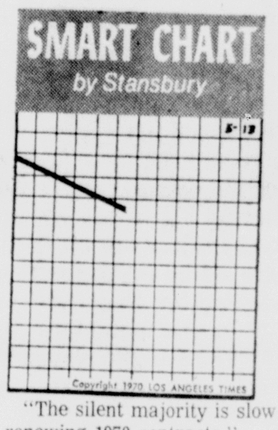

A. We Americans like to put complex ideas into oversimplified forms for easy expression and GNP illustrates this national characteristic. It attempts to measure for each quarter over the year the country's economic growth, using for this purpose the data pouring into the U.S. Department of Commerce from every section of the country. Interpreting and processing this information is a gigantic and complex undertaking.

Emerging therefrom, GNP is simply defined as the total value in dollars of all the goods produced and services rendered in the United States during a specified period of time.

The GNP concept is also used by other countries, leading to the ranking of the industrialized nations of the world and encouraging news stories about their economic progress and rivalries. Early this year, for example, the news was released that Japan's GNP showed a growth rate of 13 per cent for 1969 (in real yen) vs. 3 per cent in the United States. Estimated increases for 1970 are 11 per cent and 2 per cent respectively.

Because GNP is expressed in current dollars, it's necessary to remember that part of the annual increase has been due to inflation. The 1969 GNP of $932 billion was 7.7 per cent ahead of 1968 but only about one-third came from real economic growth. In constant dollars of 1958, GNP for 1969 was $727.5 billion, up 2.8 per cent year-to-year (U.S. Dept. of Commerce figures).

At best, GNP is a handy approximation of a nation's economic drive, permitting government officials and business leaders to get a general view of where the national economy is headed, quarter by quarter. The press plays it up because it has some significance for large numbers of corporate executives, financial analysts and professional economists. Experts now anticipate a 1970 GNP of over a trillion dollars, fueled by continuing inflation.

Packaging Business Often Zany, But Plenty Crucial

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the country's most interesting and zany businesses, contract packaging, is believed to have started in the Civil War when small firms sprang up in thousands of barns and lofts to pack bandage rolls and rifle ammunition.

Contract packaging, which today embraces at least 250 firms, some fairly big, is zany in the same way that show business is zany. It deals mainly in special packaging problems for big customers and no two special packaging jobs are alike.

For example, we find ourselves "backstage" in Bay 23 of a large contract packaging plant where the drama of a rush job is about to unfold. The task is to pack soap bars in a "self-selling, standup blister" containing a plastic boat for children as the eye-catching premium.

The special conveyor line and Rube Goldberg type machines designed specifically for the job, are set up.

The show may go on for several weeks, perhaps running day and night if the client is in a big enough hurry. Then, like the stagehands at the Metropolitan Opera, men in coveralls move in and dismantle the whole setup, and the crew of workers moves on to the next job.

Knowledgeable contract packaging people in the United States estimate the industry as a half a billion dollar enterprise which is growing rapidly. Some big manufacturers like the Mennen Co. take on other people's special packaging problems but most in the business are pure packagers and most specialize to some extent.

One of the most diversified is Asbury Packaging Co. of Passaic, N.J., and Chicago, whose 43 year old president, Richard L. Diether, boasts that it can handle packaging problems from live goldfish to volatile gases.

But most leading firms specialize. Paket Corp. of Chicago will solve any problem involving metal containers or collapsible tubes. If it's an aerosol you want to be distinctive try G. Barr Co. of Niles, Ill., or Aerosol Techniques, Inc., of Milford, Conn.

Stalfort, Inc., of Baltimore and Ames Bag and Packaging Corp. of Marion, Ala., are packaging leaders for powders, liquids and pastes in pressure containers. Brockton Contract Packaging Co. of Brockton, Mass., does flexible heat sealing for toiletries and pharmaceuticals. Kolmar Laboratories, Inc., of Port Jervis, N.Y., can tackle any kind of cosmetic packaging.

The contract packager's big reason for existence, says Diether of Asbury, is the intense competition in packaging. If a commodity doesn't have a self-selling package, it perishes swiftly on the shelves of the supermarkets and discount stores. This creates huge specialty tailored packaging orders that sometimes have to be executed on a crash basis.

Stores Make Merger Plans

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The directors of Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc., and the Emporium Capwell Co. have announced agreement in principle on a merger of the two companies on the basis of issuance of 1-1/8 shares of Emporium Capwell stock for each share of common stock of Broadway-Hale.

Emporium Capwell would be the surviving corporation, but its name would be changed to Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc.

Realty Competition

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Dayton Hudson Corp. has combined its real estate subsidiaries, which operate six shopping centers in the Minneapolis and Detroit areas into a single firm. The firm intends to open two more shopping centers this year.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Three Proposed Changes Would Improve Constituion

Propositions 2, 3 and 4 on the June 2 ballot are proposed revisions of the California Constitution — part of the package that was turned down when it was offered as a single proposition two years ago.

Proposition 2 revises the constitutional provisions for county and city government. In general, it is the same as that offered as part of the previous package — and to which the Independent-Journal found objections. However, the part concerning charter cities and counties is instead the same language already in the constitution. The legislature rejected a simplification of this portion, and restored the existing language.

THE CONSTITUTION now says that the legislature must provide for election or appointment of county officials. The proposed revision makes election of supervisors mandatory.

A provision for a two-thirds vote of the legislature to limit the amount of property taxes a county can levy would be deleted, leaving this under control by majority vote.

One change definitely for the better would put salaries of district attorney and county auditor under control of the board of supervisors instead of having these set by the legislature while salaries of other county officials are set by the supervisors. Salaries of supervisors themselves would still be set by the legislature.

The provisions regarding cities are little changed except for new provisions on how city charters may be enacted. Also as to charters, a provision that supervisors in charter counties must be elected by county-wide vote would be elimnated.

We would have preferred to see written into the constitution a list of those county officals other than supervisors who must be elective. It is not in the present constitution, however — only in the statutes.

In sum, the proposed revision appears to be an improvement over the existing language and deserves a "yes" vote.

PROPOSITION 3 deals with constitutional provisions for control of corporations and public utilities.

It permits the legislature to increase the membership of the California Public Utilities Commission beyond the present limit of five — which may be advantageous in such a large state. It also gives the legislature authority to increase the powers of the PUC.

Most importantly, we think, it authorizes the PUC itself to fix just compensation for property taken by a utility under eminent domain proceedings, if asked to do so by both parties to the transaction. This should eliminate many court suits.

We see no major objection to a "yes" vote on Proposition 3.

PROPOSITION 4 is a simple one. It deletes from the constitution sections relating to state institutions, public buildings, land, and homestead exemption and moves to another part of the basic law the section on convict labor.

All the matters deleted are covered by statute and there seems no reason they should remain in the constitution. Proposition 4 therefore goes along with the original purpose of the Constitutional Revision Commission: to eliminate excess wordage and unneeded parts of California's bulky basic law. It deserves a "yes" vote.

The Graceful Tern

Marin's maythorn or hawthorn bushes and trees bloomed about two weeks early this year in mid-April, about par for this year's spring.

For once in 25 years we will not have to see them wilted in their prime by two or three days of May heat. They reached their prime the third week in April.

These lovely trees produce clusters of small, roselike, red, pink or white blossoms. Then in the summer and autumn they produce loose bunches of red berries that are a favorite treat of the cedar waxwings and other seed-eating birds.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Terrorism Of Agricultural Workers By Union Alleged

By HENRY C. MACARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The Coachella Valley, in Riverside County, is rightly famous for the fine quality of the grapefruit it produces, delightfully sweet, juicy and fragrant, a breakfast delicacy of the greatest desirability.

Now, however, the Coachella valley is famous for something else, something not nearly so desirable and enticing as its delicious grapefruit.

State Sen. Gordon Cologne, R-Indio, says that the element of fear among farm workers in the valley is the newest thing which is making the valley famous.

WORKERS ARE AFRAID almost to come out into the open because of the threats and intimidations of forces supporting Caesar Chavez and his agricultural union's attempts to organize workers who don't want to be organized, Senator Cologne declared.

Cologne challenges "those who are supporting Chavez and his grape boycott to come to Coachella Valley and actually see that the workers themselves are being intimidated."

Cologne's statements were brought about by visits from a group of 75 women in the valley, who have banded together to encourage fearful workers to resist threats from union organizers.

MEMBERS of the group appeared before the state Board of Agriculture and Mrs. Beverly Sfungi, leader of the group, told the board of an incident that started with an organizer's barbecue.

"We never have known such fear in our desert community as that following the night of April 5," she said, "starting with a barbecue at the Coachella City Park."

"The Chavez people mobbed the police station following a couple of arrests. Tear gas dispersed the mob; after which windows were smashed and homes of the mayor and a policeman were set afire."

THE WOMEN sought out workers in the fields, spoke to them in Spanish.

"The workers were deathly afraid of us at first," she said, "but when we spoke to them in Spanish, they came out of hiding and thanked us for support.

"They told of threatening phone calls in the middle of the night, and of their auto tires being slashed because they did not want to join the union.

"Caesar Chavez claims he is nonviolent," Mrs. Sfungi said, "but wherever he goes, there is violence. I only wish that some of the officials who support the grape boycott could answer why these Mexicans have their tires slashed."

How grapefruit got mixed upwith these comments we don't know, except that if they can boycott one farm product, they can boycott another.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Hospital Action Needs Explanation

Recently your newspaper carried a story concerning the fact that Marin General Hospital had decided to forsake their master plan and develop a new one.

Both as a Marin resident and as a professional hospital consultant, I find this an astounding set of circumstances. I think that they require, on the part of the District, more extensive explanation, which I hope the Independent-Journal will seek and make public.

I am not just concerned with the thousands of dollars of professional time that would have had to be spent to obtain any relevant and effective master plan (and which may now have been wasted). I am more concerned with the fact that the board has spent (on behalf of the people) millions of dollars following a master plan which has now turned out to be inadequate.

When is sensible planning going to come to Marin General Hospital? Isn't it about time that there was a more complete public discussion of the way our money is spent and the way the public trust at Marin General is being conserved?

Public School Week Publicity Helpful

On behalf of the Marin County Superintendent of Schools Office, I should like to express our thanks for your interest and generosity in giving space in your newspaper to provide the public with information on Public Schools Week and the daily schedules of various activities and open houses in Marin County. A positive relationship between the public and their school districts is certainly necessary if our children are to have a top education program.

We certainly appreciate your dedication in helping us get our story across to the public.

America Turned Into Tragedy

AMERICA is a seven letter word which should be spelled "TRAGEDY". Our great governor (who is known for putting his foot in his mouth) stated there would be a blood bath on the campuses. Well he was right wasn't he? Look at Kent State. Four dead and what can justify that? Then there's our great President Nixon, who wants to make it perfectly clear. It looks like he's got a solution to over-population. That's an eight letter word spelled "CAMBODIA" or break it down even more, to a three letter word spelled "WAR".

Face it people we better wake up and fast. Our youth is trying but it's stacked against them. They didn't make the country what it is. We, the older generation, made it for them. I, in the over 30 group can only say one thing. What a hell of a legacy to hand down.

Love of country has nothing to do with flag waving, and patriotism. America the beautiful has turned into to quote "the American Tragedy".

Fairfax Resident Defends BCDC

The Independent-Journal of April 28 quotes Mr. Raymond H. Shone, candidate for the Republican nomination for the state Senate, as saying that the Bay Conservation and Development Commission is "thwarting the will of the people." On the contrary, the BCDC is doing everything within its power to preserve this valuable bird sanctuary.

We all see the results of the "economic reality" Mr. Shone is talking about in the news item. All over the country hillsides are being leveled, our meadows are covered with concrete, our open space is fast disappearing.

Due to the hard work of the BCDC and other conservation agencies, people can still come to live or visit Marin County in order to escape the congested and polluted urban life.At this time, it is vitally necessary that we have legislators in Sacramento who will fight to preserve our lakes, our rivers, our forest and our shorelines. Our very existence depends on the preservation of our environment.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A young lady in Texas abruptly closed her account in the local bank, and the president of same, very much on the job, wrote to ask if the service had proved unsatisfactory. "You couldn't have been nicer or more efficient," she assured him by return mail. "It's just that I've married Account Number 565-219.

"A student at a college post office was approached by an elderly character who requested, "Will you do me the favor of addressing this post card for me, and write on the front, 'Thinking of you and loving you every minute?' "

The student willingly obliged, then asked, "Is there anything else I can do for you?" The elderly one looked at the card dubiously, then said, "You can! Add at the end, 'Please excuse the terrible handwriting.' "

THE DRUMMONDS

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

SANTA FE — On a cross-country reporting trip we ran into a highly speculative but highly intriguing 1972 Democratic presidential ticket.

It facinates Democrats who are looking everywhere for a winning combination. It worries Republicans who would rather see President Nixon run against a known political quantity. The professional politicians we have talked with do not by any means dismiss it out of hand. It's this:

For President — Sargent Shriver of Maryland.

For Vice President—Mayor John Lindsay of New York.

THE ARGUMENTS that such a ticket is improbable if not unattainable are instantly visible. Shriver has never run for elective office. He has not yet even announced his candidacy for governor of Maryland. He would have to defeat incumbent Gov. Marvin Mandel in the primary. And so forth.

But the advocates of a Shriver-Lindsay ticket really light up when they argue the other side.

They say that Shriver has proved himself a man of creative and administrative ability as shown in a leading role in the Kennedy campaign of 1960, in making the Peace Corps one of the most esteemed operations of the government and in administering the war on poverty under Lyndon Johnson.

He is an exciting and animate speaker. He stirs and pleases audiences as is evident in his sounding-out appearances in Maryland recently. He honorably stuck to his post as ambassador to France while Robert Kennedy was campaigning for the Democratic nomination in 1968.

He is near enough to the Kennedys to have their support without being so near as to alienate other Democrats. On broad policy he appears to be about at the liberal center where he would have the best chance of uniting his badly splintered party.

THE LINDSAY thesis is that he has demonstrated appeal to independent voters and would add expertise on city problems where his experience has been concentrated.

But is a Shriver-Lindsay combination just a dreamed-up ticket or even a nightmare ticket whose sponsors would find on waking up that it was not made of real stuff?

Not necessarily so and for two reasons.

It has happened before. In 1940 Wendell Willkie, who was far less experienced in public affairs than Shriver, won the Republican presidential nomination.

The second reason is that other claimants for the 1972 nomination are slipping. To many Democrats Hubert Humphrey seems dated and shop-worn. Sen. Edmund Muskie doesn't appear to be catching on. And Sen. Edward Kennedy, whom the new Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien sought recently to put back into contention, has been greviously hurt politically and personally by the adverse judgment of Judge James A. Boyle.

KENNEDY HIMSELF has been saying all along that he would not be a candidate for the presidential nomination in 1972, but some Democratic professionals were coming to believe that events would make his nomination inescapable. Now they incline to think that events have made his nomination unattainable.

Kennedy's present problem is not whether he could get the 1972 nomination even if he wanted it, but whether his 1964 Massachusetts election majority of more than a million votes will be so reduced this fall as to deny him any chance of re-entering the presidential picture in 1976.

THERE ARE FACTORS which make the speculative future of Shriver reasonably serious. If he had to compete against a refurbished Humphrey or a Muskie who could recapture the sparkle of his 1968 vice presidential candidacy or against an undamaged Kennedy, this Shriver talk might be no more than talk.

The hurdles are very high but even an outsider like Willkie was able to take the GOP nomination away from Taft and Dewey. If Shriver becomes governor of Maryland, he won't be an outsider.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Air Force Withdrawal Depends On Many 'Ifs'

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON, — The Air Force, engaged in a rapid build-up of its South Vietnamese counterpart, has told Congress that it plans, eventually, to reduce its own force in Vietnam to a modest "advisory level."

That is the preview of air-war Vietnamization which has been presented behind closed doors to congressional committees. It rejects the idea that a sizeable U.S. Air Force support complement must be kept in Vietnam indefinitely.

No timetable has been provided. The chief of staff, Gen. John D. Ryan, says only that a "significant" Southeast Asia commitment will be required for a "considerable" period.

In one executive committee session, Ryan was asked whether sizeable numbers of U.S. airmen will have to stay in Vietnam on a more or less permanent basis.

"No," said Ryan in his prepared reply, "plans are to reduce Air Force personnel there to modest-size advisory level. Just how long USAF personnel will be necessary is dependent on many variables and difficult to determine at this time."

THE VIETNAMESE air force now is carrying out about 30 per cent of the air attack missions inside Vietnam. Ryan's assessment is that its combat effectiveness is "very creditable."

Details of the Vietnamization plan are secret, but unclassified statements of Air Force brass indicate that the current goal is to double the size of the present 20-squadron South Vietnamese air force. More than 175 planes, to be purchased under the pending Air Force budget, are earmarked for the South Vietnamese.

THERE ARE questions for the Air Force, as there are for the other services, with respect to Vietnamizing the war. Most importantly, when can the modest "advisory level" be reached?

Air Force Secy. Robert C. Seamans Jr. looks to a time when South Vietnam has 1.2 million of its 18 million population under arms and says the U.S. air presence will be "minimal" at that time. He gives no date, however.

The date may depend on another question — when (and whether) the South Vietnamese air force can do the full job — close support, air defense and interdiction of infiltration on the Ho Chi Minh trail (and in Cambodia, if air operations are continued there beyond President Nixon's ground withdrawal deadline).

Censored Air Force testimony given Congress indicates that even when doubled the Vietnamese air force will not be able to do all of those jobs.

In one bit of closed-door testimony, Seamans made this highly significant comment:

"It won't work unless — at the same time we draw down — pacification progress continues, the North Vietnamese do not escalate their efforts and the RVNAF (South Vietnamese Air Force) improves as programmed."

Your Child's Report Card Now A Campaign Issue

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The old, familiar report card has fallen so low that it has become a political campaign issue.

Julian Nava, Los Angeles Board of Education member who is one of the three principal candidates for state superintendent of public instruction, has a campaign platform plank calling for elimination of compulsory report card grading from California elementary schools.

Max Rafferty, the incumbent state superintendent seeking his third term, is strictly a report card man. In his book, "What They Are Doing To Your Children," he wrote: "Subject-matter report cards graded A-B-C-D-F or a reasonable facsimile thereof are a must. Parent-teacher conferences are fine, but they cannot and should not take the place of report cards.

The third major candidate for state superintendent, Rafferty's deputy-on-leave Wilson C. Riles, has taken a sort of middle-of-the-road position. He has said that parents are entitled to an accounting of how their children are doing in school, and if they prefer report cards for that purpose, they should have them.

MOST PARENTS prefer report cards, graded in the traditional manner to show whether a student's progress is excellent, above average, average, below average, or failing. In a survey made by the Gallup Poll in 1968 for the Charles F. Kettering Foundation, 83 per cent of parents questioned were opposed to substituting pass-fail for such a grading system.

Many in education, however, believe report cards are not only unnecessary but downright bad.

Typical of these is Sidney B. Simon, as associate professor in the college of education at Temple University, Philadelphia, who wrote last year in Today's Education (the National Education Association magazine) a piece beginning: "One of the ugliest words you hear in school is that conglomerate 'Whadjaget?' " Simon declared: "The grading system is the most destructive, demeaning, and pointless thing in education."

He, like some others who oppose grading, held that students learn to "play the game" to get good grades, rather than learning the subject matter.

Another reason some teachers oppose report cards is belief that they contribute to pressuring of students by parents. The National Education Association in a poll of teachers in 1966 found nearly 50 per cent believe parents put too much pressure on their children to excel in school.

SO FAR, the drive to abolish report cards does not seem to have succeeded very widely. Last year, an NEA poll found that letter grades were given by 77 per cent of teachers, corresponding number grades by nine per cent, and percentage grades by six per cent. This does not leave many giving pass-fail marks or relying entirely on parent-teacher conferences.

There are a few teachers who, while required to give grades, have reduced them to an absurdity. For example, it was reported at an April meeting of the University of California Board of Regents that an anthropology professor at UC Santa Barbara had given more than 1,200 A's for the winter quarter and only a handful of B's and C's. (Perhaps it is more coincidence that decision not to rehire that professor was reported as one of the causes for the UC Santa Barbara riots.)

ONE REASON for keeping grades in the public schools was cited in a Wall Street Journal report some months ago:

"Newton Center High School, located in a Boston suburb, tried a program in which students weren't graded but were evaluated carefully by teachers in written reports. Last spring 65 of the students applied to colleges. 'Only one made it to the college of his choice without a rank in class,' recalled William D. Geer, principal. 'For the rest we had to go back and come up with a rank.' "

This indicates what seems fairly obvious: In most cases, teachers really grade the students, whether or not they send the grades home on report cards. If it's not "whadjaget?" in the halls, it may be "whadjagive?" in the faculty lounge.

Accreditation Reports On High Schools

SAN RAFAEL

San Rafael High School is providing educational programs not found in many high schools, but must continue to improve.

So reports a six-member accreditation team from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges, which recently visited the school.

"Today's educational program is still not good enough for tomorrow's challenges," the committee said in its report presented to the San Rafael Board of Education last night.

The committee recommended that the school and the San Rafael High School District increase its interrelationship with feeder schools.

It also called for giving high priority to a long range building repair and maintenance program, and establishing a counseling program for students who aren't going to college.

As in its report on Terra Linda High School, the committee made several recommendations toward improving the industrial arts program.

The industrial arts department should study ways to involve more students in the industrial arts curriculum, and the physical plant of the department should be improved, the committee recommended.

It commended the school for the high morale of the staff and students, the variety and depth of course offerings, the work toward finding jobs for industrial arts students, the excellence of the mathematics program, and community support for the music program.

The school should check its curriculum to see if it is meeting the needs of students who aren't going to college, the committee recommended.

The school also should consider major renovation of the music facilities, it reported.

Committee recommendations for various departments were that:

The business education department should have more modern business machines of the type currently used in business.

The English Department should consider decreasing the class load in senior sections; have closer relationship with feeder schools; and give more adequate planning to the needs of noncoliege students.

The home economics department should have more audiovisual materialsa nd a systematic equipment replacement program.

The mathematics department should consider if its program is adequately meeting the needs of noncollege students.

There should be more funds for instrument repair and a plan should be developed for instrument replacement in the music department.

In the physical education department there should be a study toward modifying the demerit system for boys with more emphasis on the positive accomplishments of students.

The science department should make an effort toward closer coordination of its instruction program with that of feeder schools.

The social studies department and the counseling staff should destablish better communication between them regarding student problems.

In the field of special education for educationally handicapped and educable mentally retarded; there should be an effort to increase vocational training and work experience, and there should be consideration to establishing a special education department.

The committee also recommended involvment of teachers in budget planning, and improvement in communication between the school staff and the district office.

TERRA LINDA

Terra Linda High School should consider expanding its courses to meet the needs of students who aren't going to college.

This was one of the recommendations of an accreditation team from the Western Association of Schools and College presented last night to the San Rafael oBard of Education.

The six-member team said the industrial arts department handicapped by limited facilities, should make every effort to provide training in skills needed by students not going to college.

The counseling office should determine the job market in Marin and the Bay Area to help students in their planning, the committee said.

There should be an effort to provide additional facilities for the industrial arts department, the report recommended.

Committee members commended the staff for its dedication, the students for active community service and concluded the campus was friendly and well planned.

They pointed out the building needs on the campus and said the community should "seriously consider urgent the need for additional financial support."

They recommended construction of an additional gymnasium and suggested that some community civic and community functions now held in the gymnasium be switched to other facilities to "ease the heavy use."

One of the highest priorities, according to the committee should be the remodeling of the science facilities.

Overall there should be adequate funds for maintenance of buildings and a study toward completing the school plant, the committee recommended.

Some of the other general recommendations were that:

Audio-visual matrial be maintained so it can provide continuous service; thought be given toward allowing faculty participation in budget and expenditure matters; administrators provide leadership to develop a statement of the school's philosophy; there be a study to determine the most effective use of counselor time; a study to find ways to evaluate new and continuing course; a study of the advantages of greater parent participation in school matters.

The committee also offered recommendations for individual departments as follows:

There should be a separate facility for the art department so noise from arts, crafts, and ceramics classes wouldn't interfere with other classes.

The business education department should have periodic meetings with the counseling staff to increase mutual support and understanding, and keep in touch with contemporary business education programs offered in other schools.

There should be consideration given to establishing a remedial reading laboratory in the English department.

There should be consideration of renocating or replacing inoperative language laboratory facilities in the foreign language department.

The home economics department should have a program for maintenance or replacement of equipment.

The mathematics department should continue moving toward computer training and consider establishing a mathematics resource library.

The music department, which was commended for having an excellent program, should find ways so that even more students can participate.

In physical education there should be thought toward providing additional funds for girls' competitive sports.

The science department programs should "be made more interesting and meaningful to the students," and there should be thought of establishing a program of earth science in the curriculum.

The social studies department should consider improving the interrelationship with feeder schools and consider the suitability of greater involvement by parents in curriculum development.

There should be more suitable quarters for the special education program for educationally handicapped students.

Accreditation 'Eyewash' Criticized

San Rafael Board of Education wasn't overly impressed last night by accreditation reports covering Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools.

The schools were commended in respects in the reports compiled by visiting educators, but board members felt they were of limited value.

Board Member Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. said he was disturbed that the reports were organized in an "extremely pedestrian" manner.

Alan W. Ellsberg, San Rafael High School principal, said there weren't any recommendations concerning the school's relationship with parents and the community.

Frank B. Wells, Terra Linda High School history teacher, said "much of the report is eyewash." A three-day visit by a six-man committee which doesn't get in touch with the community or students isn't a real evaluation, he said.

Supt. John F. Plank commented that the visiting team followed a format devised by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

If a matter such as community relationships isn't presented to the committee by the schools "as a concern, it would escape their attention," Plank explained.

Frank A. Stocking, Terra Linda High School principal, pointing out the recommendations concerning work experience and occupational training, spoke of community emphasis on going to college.

"We need to work on vocational education," he said. "The whole society and we as parents have convinced young people to believe that by not going to college you are a failure. We have to make sure they don't feel they are failures."

Stocking also asserted that young people and the business and professional people of the community should be brought together. "They don't know and understand each other. We don't get them together."

Ellsberg said some of the recommendations would require funds to carry out, but others could be accomplished by time and effort, and staff members greed to study the reports and make corrections where possible.

Guard Claims Weapons On Kent Campus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — New indications of possible sniper fire in the Kent State University shootings which killed four students has been reported by the Ohio National Guard.

Guard spokesmen, who contended that troops opened fire during a confrontation with anti-war demonstrators after a sniper began shooting, said Tuesday a .32 caliber pistol had been fished from a river and that four weapons—two handguns and two rifles—had been taken from persons arrested the day of the shootings.

The finding of the weapons was reported by Lt. Col. J. E. P. McCann, an administrative aide to Adj. Gen. S. T. Del Corso, Ohio Guard commander.

Union Chief Lies In State In Michigan

DETROIT (UPI) — The bodies of Walter P. Reuther and his wife were carried from two blue hearses through a fine, cold rain into the Veterans Memorial Building today where a group of about 20 waited to pay last respects to the United Auto Workers president.

The closed oak caskets were roped off in the lobby of the new, white building on Detroit's riverfront, and the few people who had waited under the red and white awning at the entrance began to file by on the left—Reuther's side.

The Reuthers and four others were killed Saturday night when their plane crashed in a northern Michigan forest near Pellston.

Funeral services were scheduled Friday and some workers were reportedly dissatisfied with the three-minute work stoppage scheduled in Reuther's honor. Although top UAW officials insisted "That's the way Walter would have wanted it," some members prepared to take either a day or half-day off.

Education Board Axes Six Staff Positions

San Rafael Board of Education last night cut the schools staff by six, including a district administrator, because of cutbacks and uncertainty of federal funding.

Those cut included Jack Kirby, director of administrative services, because of "district reduction in program."

William Carr, high school counselor; Kathy Bryan, elementary teacher, and Betty Long, high school librarian were cut because of uncertainty of funding; Judy Lipschutz, teacher of educable mentally retarded in the high school district, because of program reduction; and Sherry Rossi, girls' physical education and English teacher, because of "overstaffing."

Supt. John F. Plank said those concerned were notified March 12, that their rehiring was dependent upon available funds.

Lee Archbold, journalism teacher at San Rafael High School, wasn't rehired because he failed to qualify for a teaching credential, Plank reported.

Board members also heard a report from Phil W. McAtee, work experience coordinator, on a follow-up study of 1967 and 1968 graduates of Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools.

There was a 72 per cent response from the 1967 graduates which showed that 62 per cent were attending school, 18 per cent at work, 8 per cent in the armed services, 7 per cent housewives, and 5 per cent in other categories.

From the classes of 1968 there was a 69 per cent response showing 69 per cent at school, 20 per cent at jobs, 3 per cent in the armed services, 2 per cent housewives and 6 per cent labeled as "other."

The San Rafael Board Of Education Also:

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION — Authorized the San Rafael High School District to participate in the regional occupational program, sponsored by the Marin County Schools Office, to serve high school students in Marin. The program will be financed by a countywide tax.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of William Dresia, science teacher at San Rafael High School, retiring after 25 years of service, and Margaret Rattray, administrative assistant at Terra Linda High School, after 19 years to become a junior high school principal in Oregon; George Yertson, principal of Santa Venetia School; Marshall Tsurdua, art teacher, San Rafael High School; Janet Dillon, science teacher, Davidson Junior High School, now on leave, and Leonard Dickinson, custodian 1, Terra Linda High School.

LEAVES — Granted leaves of absence for the 1970-71 school year to Alan Hopkins, business education teacher, San Rafael High School, to teach in American Samoa; to Philip Bastian, mathematics teacher, Terra Linda High School, for a Peace Corps assignment, and to Mary Warren, business education teacher, San Rafael High School.

EXCHANGE — Granted Jerry Lloyd, English teacher at Davidson Junior High School leave to teach during the 1970-71 school year at Springfield, Mass., and authorized hiring Irwin Young, English teacher from Springfield to teach at Davidson as his replacement for the year.

STANDING COMMITTEE — Was urged by Donald R. Wellington, chairman of the subcommittee on budget and finance of the Citizens Advisory Committee, to establish a standing citizens committee to bring about greater community participation in school business. Trustees asked Wellington to meet with the staff and bring a committee proposal back to the board.

DATA PROCESSING — Heard a report from Gary Risch, executive secretary of an educational task force on data processing, explain services for schools offered by California Educational Information System, which has a regional center at Sonoma.

WAR TALKS — Received letters from the Marin County Federation of Teachers, the San Rafael Teachers Association and two parents supporting the convocation on the Vietnam war held at Terra Linda High School Friday.

Prisoner In Good Condition After Stabbing

James Lobaugh, a 33-year-old San Quentin Prison inmate, was stabbed twice in the back and twice in the left leg yesterday by an unidentified assailant.

Lobaugh, apparently stabbed while in a classroom, walked across the west housing unit yard to an officer at about 11:30 a.m. and was taken to the prison hospital, where he was reported in good condition.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said no weapon had been discovered and there was no immediate suspect.

Lobaugh, who has an artificial right leg, has been in and out of prison since 1954, Park said. He is serving a five-year-to-life sentence for first degree robbery after conviction in Los Angeles County.

Blast Tears Iowa Police Station, Jail

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The Des Moines police station was heavily damaged early today by an explosion that punched out windows in the three-story building and destroyed several cars onan adjacent parking lot.

Des Moines Police Chief Wendell Nichols said damage would probably run about a half million dollars.

Investigating officers said it was believed dynamite had been placed on an electrical transformer near the southwest corner of the block-long stone structure.

There was only one reported injury. Willie Wells, 63, a janitor who was working in the building, was cut in the back by flying glass. He was treated at a hospital.

Chief Nichols, who declined to speculate on a motive for the bombing, said 16 prisoners inside the building were transferred to the Polk County Jail.

Army demolition experts were called in to aid in the investigation.

Augusta Has Calm Night; Guard Busy

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Racial peace appeared restored today to this city hit by riots Monday night that resulted in the shooting deaths of six men and injuries to 60 others.

Jeeploads of National Guardsmen and occasionally armored cars with mounted machine guns patrolled the streets earlier in the day but were less in evidence as the day wore on. Police, however, remained out in force.

Black leaders credited a sudden change of mood in the Negro community in this city of 70,000 more on the verbal commitment of Mayor Millard Beckum rather than any show of military might. They scheduled an afternoon meeting with city officials to seek amnesty for many of the more than 200 Negroes arrested at the height of the rioting.

Authorities said there were 24 fires reported during the night —only half of the night before— and that attendance at the black schools today had picked up considerably.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Polluted Water Like Weather: Much Talk But Little Action

Everyone talks about polluted water but very little is done to correct it. Perhaps only a severe epidemic will jar our politicians and industrialists, but by them, it may be too late.

Actually, water pollution was more serious a century ago, when lack of sanitation led to continuing outbreaks of typhoid and paratyphoid fever, cholera, and dysentery. Even then, the remedy was known, and in a city such as Chicago, several epidemics occurred before the necessary steps were taken to purify the drinking water.

THE SITUATION is different today but the old methods of treating sewage prevail. We must also blame the increasing urban population and birth rate. Sewers used to contaminate rivers, and now rivers contaminate our lakes and oceans.

Every year Americans produce more than 2 billion tons of agriculturally caused pollution (manure, silt, wastes, and pesticides), 1 billion tons of mining wastes; and 350 billion tons of garbage. Furthermore, the run-off and sediment from these sources finds its way into our water systems. Conditions will not improve until better disposal methods are instituted.

CHEMICALS IN this mess are killing the fish. And in many areas, the microbes in raw sewage have infected oysters and clams. The Cuyahoga river that passes through Cleveland had so much oil on it that it caught fire.

But despite the obvious effects of pollution, very little is known of the possible damage to human health. After all, a variety of unidentified chemical compounds enter our sources of water supply in both treated and untreated municipal and industrial wastes.

PUBLIC, POLITICAL, and industrial apathy stems from the fact that our polluted waters have not caused epidemics. Salmonella infections and dysentery have been reported, but none of these outbreaks have been extensive enough to have had a serious impact.

Perhaps the time has come to tell everyone that in many areas the people are drinking their own and their neighbor's purified urine and other waste products. Purified water only means that it contains fewer disease-producing bacteria.

EXPLORATORY SURGERY

F. J. writes: Is an exploratory laparotomy done more or less for the information or knowledge of the surgeon?

REPLY

Both. When X-rays and usual laboratory tests fail to uncover the cause of abdominal symptoms, a laparotomy (opening the abdomen) is done to determine the origin of the problem. This may be the only solution. As a matter of fact, this has happened to a few patients of mine and unusual causes that could have been serious were uncovered.

Drive Seeks To Preserve Lighthouse

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—The Legislature has been asked to help prevent possible demolition of East Brother Island Lighthouse in San Pablo Bay north of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge.

Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, introduced a resolution asking state parks and recreation officials to assist in listing of the deserted lighthouse and its buildings in the National Register of Historic Places.

Such a move would protect the buildings until a permanent arrangement for their use and preservation could be decided.

The Contra Costa Shoreline Parks Committee has begun a drive to save the white, gingerbread buildings. It notes that while the structures are not in imminent danger, they are faced with possible future destruction.

The lighthouse, which has guided ships off Point San Pablo for nearly 130 years, has been automated and the site abandoned by the Coast Guard.

Abandoned Car Bill To Senate Floor

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A Marin legislator's bill that would speed removal of abandoned vehicles from private property cleared the Senate Local Government Committee without opposition yesterday.

The measure, by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, would eliminate the need for a local governing body to conduct an abatement hearing on an abandoned auto unless the owner of the car sought one. Registered owners would be given 10 days' notice to remove the vehicle.

McCarthy said the bill, which now goes to the Senate floor, was asked by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The supervisors listed the measure (SB 643) as part of their current legislative program after receiving complaints from West Marin residents about a surge in abandoned vehicles.

Personalized Plates May Fight Smog

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — For the motorist who likes the personal touch and at the same time wants to do something about air pollution, courtesy license plates are the answer.

At least that's the plan under a bill which passed the Assembly Ways and Means Committee yesterday by split voice vote.

Assemblyman Robert E. Badham, R-Newport Beach, proposes in his measure (AB 522) to enable the state to sell personalized license plates at $50 a set to car owners who request them, with any income over production expenses going toward air pollution research.

The plates would be renewable each year — for another $50.

Badham told the committee that 21 states now offer courtesy plates for anywhere from $5 to $100 a set and that the money taken in is substantial.

Under the legislation, no plate could contain more than six nor less than two characters, in other words, "RON" or "CALIF 1" would be permitted for Governor Reagan but not "1" or "CHIEF EXECUTIVE."

Senate Hopefuls Slated On KTIM

The six candiates for the Fourth District state Senate seat will appear at 9 a.m. tomorrow on KTIM's Sounding Board program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer.

Candidates include four Republicans, Peter H. Behr, Hugh O. Pessner, Donald Pinkerton and Raymond H. Shone, Esther Anne Smart of the American Independent Party, and Michael R. Peevey, Democrat.

The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Clausen, Collegians Discuss War Issues

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, told a group of college students this week that though he supported the sending of U.S. troops to Cambodia he would have preferred using South Korean or South Vietnamese forces instead.

Speaking informally with 30 students including six from Sonoma State College, Clausen said he supported President Richard M. Nixons' sending of troops to break up sanctuaries there that were prolonging the war in Vietnam.

Clausen told the students he had supported the Findley Amendment to the $20.2 billion weapons procurement allotment bill, defeated last week in the House of Representatives. The amendment called on the president to consult with Congress before sending troops into Cambodia, Laos and Thailand.

Clausen said American troops would be withdrawn from Cambodia by June and that 150,000 troops would be withdrawn from Vietnam over the next year, as the President has promised.

Clausen told the youths American troops should be brought home because the purpose for which the troops were sent in the first place had been accomplished some time ago. That purpose, he told the students, was to enable the people of South Vietnam to stand on their own feet.

Clausen told the students, who favored cutting back the general defense appropriation, that Congress does not approve appropriations on a line-item basis and therefore could not bar the use of funds for specific purposes such as the Cambodian invasion.

Even though he and the students did not always agree on the issues, Clausen said, he welcomed such "rap-sessions" where young dissenters can express their ideas to their representatives.

Four Days' Events Planned For Novato Western Fete

The entertainment schedule for Novato's Western Weekend Country Fair has been set by the fair board, acting secretary Dorothy Merla reported yesterday.

The events will be held at the east end of Rowland Boulevard.

At 7:30 p.m. June 18 the queen and princesses will be crowned at the Novato Community House. The Novato Community Players will present the melodrama and the Golden Gaters barbershop singers will perform.

On June 19 there will be children's games in the afternoon, a puppet show and Novato High School singers concert as well as a concert by the Army Presidio band. At 6:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Thompson Brothers Western Hoedown will be presented with a square dance exhibit from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

Events on June 20 start with the buckaroo breakfast, can-can dancers, Pogo the clown, family bicycle race, the firemen's water ball fight, the Jaycee Chamber of Commerce tug-of-war, and an animal act. In the afternoon there will be the Providence precision drill team, banjo-piano duet, Dixieland band, "Annie Get Your Gun" by the Community Players and Sammy Blanks Candlestick Park band.

At 2 p.m. on June 21 there will be the battle of the bands and a professional rock band. The rodeo will be held at the Novato Horsemen's arena.

Treasurer Casey Van Gronigen reported that the celebration now has $3,936 in funds for this year's event.

San Francisco's Construction Ban May Be Lifted

I-J Special Report.

HAYWARD — The San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board has said it will lift the ban on new construction in downtown San Francisco if it finds the city has lived up to promises of corrective actions.

At a meeting Monday night, the board said it would vote to remove the ban on the issuance of sewer permits for some $60 million in construction if it is convinced the city is taking promised steps to cut down on sewage discharges into the bay.

Fred H. Dierker, executive director of the antipollution agency, said the city had said last month it would update facilities at its North Point and Southeast treatment plants.

The commission will officially consider lifting the ban at its meeting at 11 a.m. Monday at San Mateo City Hall.

Switzerland has not participated in armed conflict since the end of the Napoleonic wars in 1815, National Geographic says.

Police Fray Leads To Jail For Driver

Leslie Randolph Noyles, 38, of 8 Eden Lane, Larkspur, was booked into Marin County Jail today after a wild melee police at 1 a.m., Larkspur police reported.

Noyles was booked on suspicion of drunken driving, resisting arrest, battery on a policeman and disturbing the peace. He was held in lieu of $2,500 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said Noyles was seen driving erratically on Magnolia Avenue at 12:45 a.m. He was pursued by police and stopped on King Street.

When being arrested, police said, Noyles cursed, said he wouldn't be taken alive and grappled with Sgt. Alasdair W. MacDonald and Patrolman Karl Tippets, all three falling to the sidewalk.

Tippets received multiple cuts and scrapes on the hands and MacDonald was hit on the head, according to police. A woman looking on called Corte Madera police, who arrived to help subdue Noyles.

Helper: Plan Of Action For Challenging Times

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Everybody talks about minority group capitalism but a private agency formed by a black dentist and a black stockbroker has been doing something about it for more than six years.

Since December, 1963, when Dr. Henry Lucas Jr. and Everett Brandon started Plan of Action for Challenging Times—or PACT—it has grown from a job placement office for Negroes to a catalyst for small business development and education for all minority group members.

PACT has counseled 2,000 high school students and has placed 190-200 of them in colleges with some kind of financial aid. It has found white collar work for 1,500 persons.

Pact has helped set up 75 minority businesses, including an electronics firm in Oakland, a graphics shop and an office supply store in San Francisco.

It has been able to get $2 million worth of business loans approved, and in September, 1969, alone, secured $146,000 in loans by the government and local banks.

Although its staff still is mainly Negro, PACT has aided people including a middle-aged Nicaraguan immigrant who got a loan to open a small grocery store and a Samoan who wandered into the office one day looking for a job—just any job.

"Our goal is simple," Emory Curtis, director of technical services and planning, said in an interview. "We aim to improve the status of minority people.

"However, funds are quickly drying up to help finance programs in these areas," Curtis said. "The recent cutbacks in education opportunity programs will greatly jeopardize our efforts to get minority students into college."

Likewise, Curtis feels that funds to assist in the development of small businesses are shrinking. "Everybody says business development is a good idea, but not that much money materializes to sponsor such ventures," he said.

"It's pretty simple. If you improve the economic status of the minority community, improvements in other areas will follow."

Over the years, PACT has engineered such programs as small business development centers that provide low-interest business loans and technical assistance.

In addition, it has set up a middle management training and placement program which helps an individual develop white collar skills.

It also sets up job openings with local businesses.

PACT runs an education opportunity clearinghouse which provides tutorial aid, educational counseling services and scholarships and seeks college placement for underprivileged youths.

Grateful For End Of Legislature

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Labor News had this comment in the closing days of the 1970 legislature:

"It will take us all a while to unwind. For a session in the legislature one needs the strength of an ox, the nimble footing of a mountain goat, the wisdom of an owl, the tenacity of a bulldog, the acceleration of a jackrabbit, the perspicacity of a hawk, the persistence of a flea, the ubiquity of an ant, the patience of the tortoise and a temperament ranging from a mourning dove to a spreading adder.

"Since we do not have any of these qualities we sure will be glad when the sessions are over."

Penny Stamp Heavily Insured

NEW YORK (AP) — A one-penny stamp, which recently sold for $280,000, was considered "a steal" by experts who insured the rare 1856 British Guiana issue for a half-million dollars. Because experienced collectors had estimated the bidding for the fabled magenta stamp would end somewhere between $500,000 and $600,000, the insurance was written accordingly. Firemran's Fund American Insurance Companies provided $200,000 of the coverage and the balance was placed with Lloyds of London.

A provision in the policy required that the stamp be guarded by two armed guards on a 24-hour basis and that it be kept in a bulletproof and shatterproof case at all times.

Although two or three syndicates usually are attracted to such an auction, only one syndicate entered the bidding. The winning bid of $280,000 by an eight-man syndicate from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was the highest price ever paid for a single stamp. Bidding started at $100,000 and the sale price was reached in a little more than a minute.

Prison Mint

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (AP) — Police worked diligently for four months to put a gang of coin counterfeiters behind bars only to discover the culprits already were in the local jail. Prisoners had organized a makeshift mint with primitive equipment to make 50-cent coins.

A Show That Gets Audience Involvement

NEW YORK (AP) — In the highly structured world of television, audience reaction is usually limited to applause, laughter or silence. Not so with the live weekly debate called "the Advocates."

On a show devoted to examining the Nixon administration's work and welfare plan, a woman in the audience, apparently a welfare mother, began to protest. She then jumped up, called the testifying witness "a fraud" and stormed out of the studio.

On another Sunday evening "The Advocates" argued from Miami the issue of resuming trade with Castro. Many Cuban nationals in the audience became agitated over the idea of U.S. relations with the Communist island nation.

Moments after the debate concluded, one Cuban man leaped up, confronted the advocate who had argued in favor of trade, and shouted: "You are the intellectual executioner for Fidel Castro!"

Only after it was explained that the advocates take arbitrary sides in the arguments did the Cuban agree to shake the hand of the advocate and calm them down.

And on an edition of the program that examined the U.S. oil import quota—a subject that might not generate soaring emotions—when the advocate charged that the U.S. consumer was paying $5 billion a year in extra bills to support the quota, several members of the audience cheered him with "right on! right on!"

Shortly after that show in early April "The Advocates" was renewed for the 1970-71 season.

Little Chance

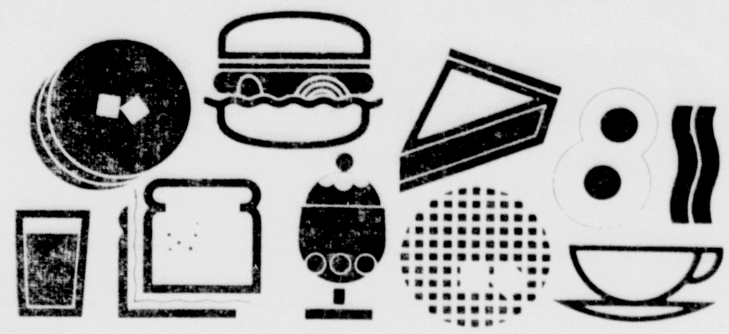

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The loss of a key word from the weather forecast recently in the Louisville Times gave the report the look of an ominous prophecy.

When the word "precipitation" was dropped in a typographical error, the forecast read: "There is less than 5 per cent chance of tonight and tomorrow."

SEA OF FABRICS

Sylvia Melton was transferred to the Corte Madera Center branch of the House of Fabrics a year and a half ago. Before that she worked at the Santa Rosa branch of the fabric store. The friendliness of the shop's employees is reason behind the store's success, Mrs. Melton says.

Leather — It's Really Something

Leather is tactile, tensile and telegraphic, according to the retail advertising department of J.C. Penney's Corte Madera store.

That means leather feels, wears and looks good. Like gold, leather's quality is easily recognizable. And Penney's new line of leather goods is readily recognizable for its quality, fashion¼ originality and low price.

After examining their leather hats, handbags, vests, shifts, skirts and other items, Penney's was impressed by the originality of design, commitment to skilled workmanship and good taste.

Each item is individually made and hand-crafted — an original. And this wide variety of styles from swinging fringe to classic is available at Penney's low prices.

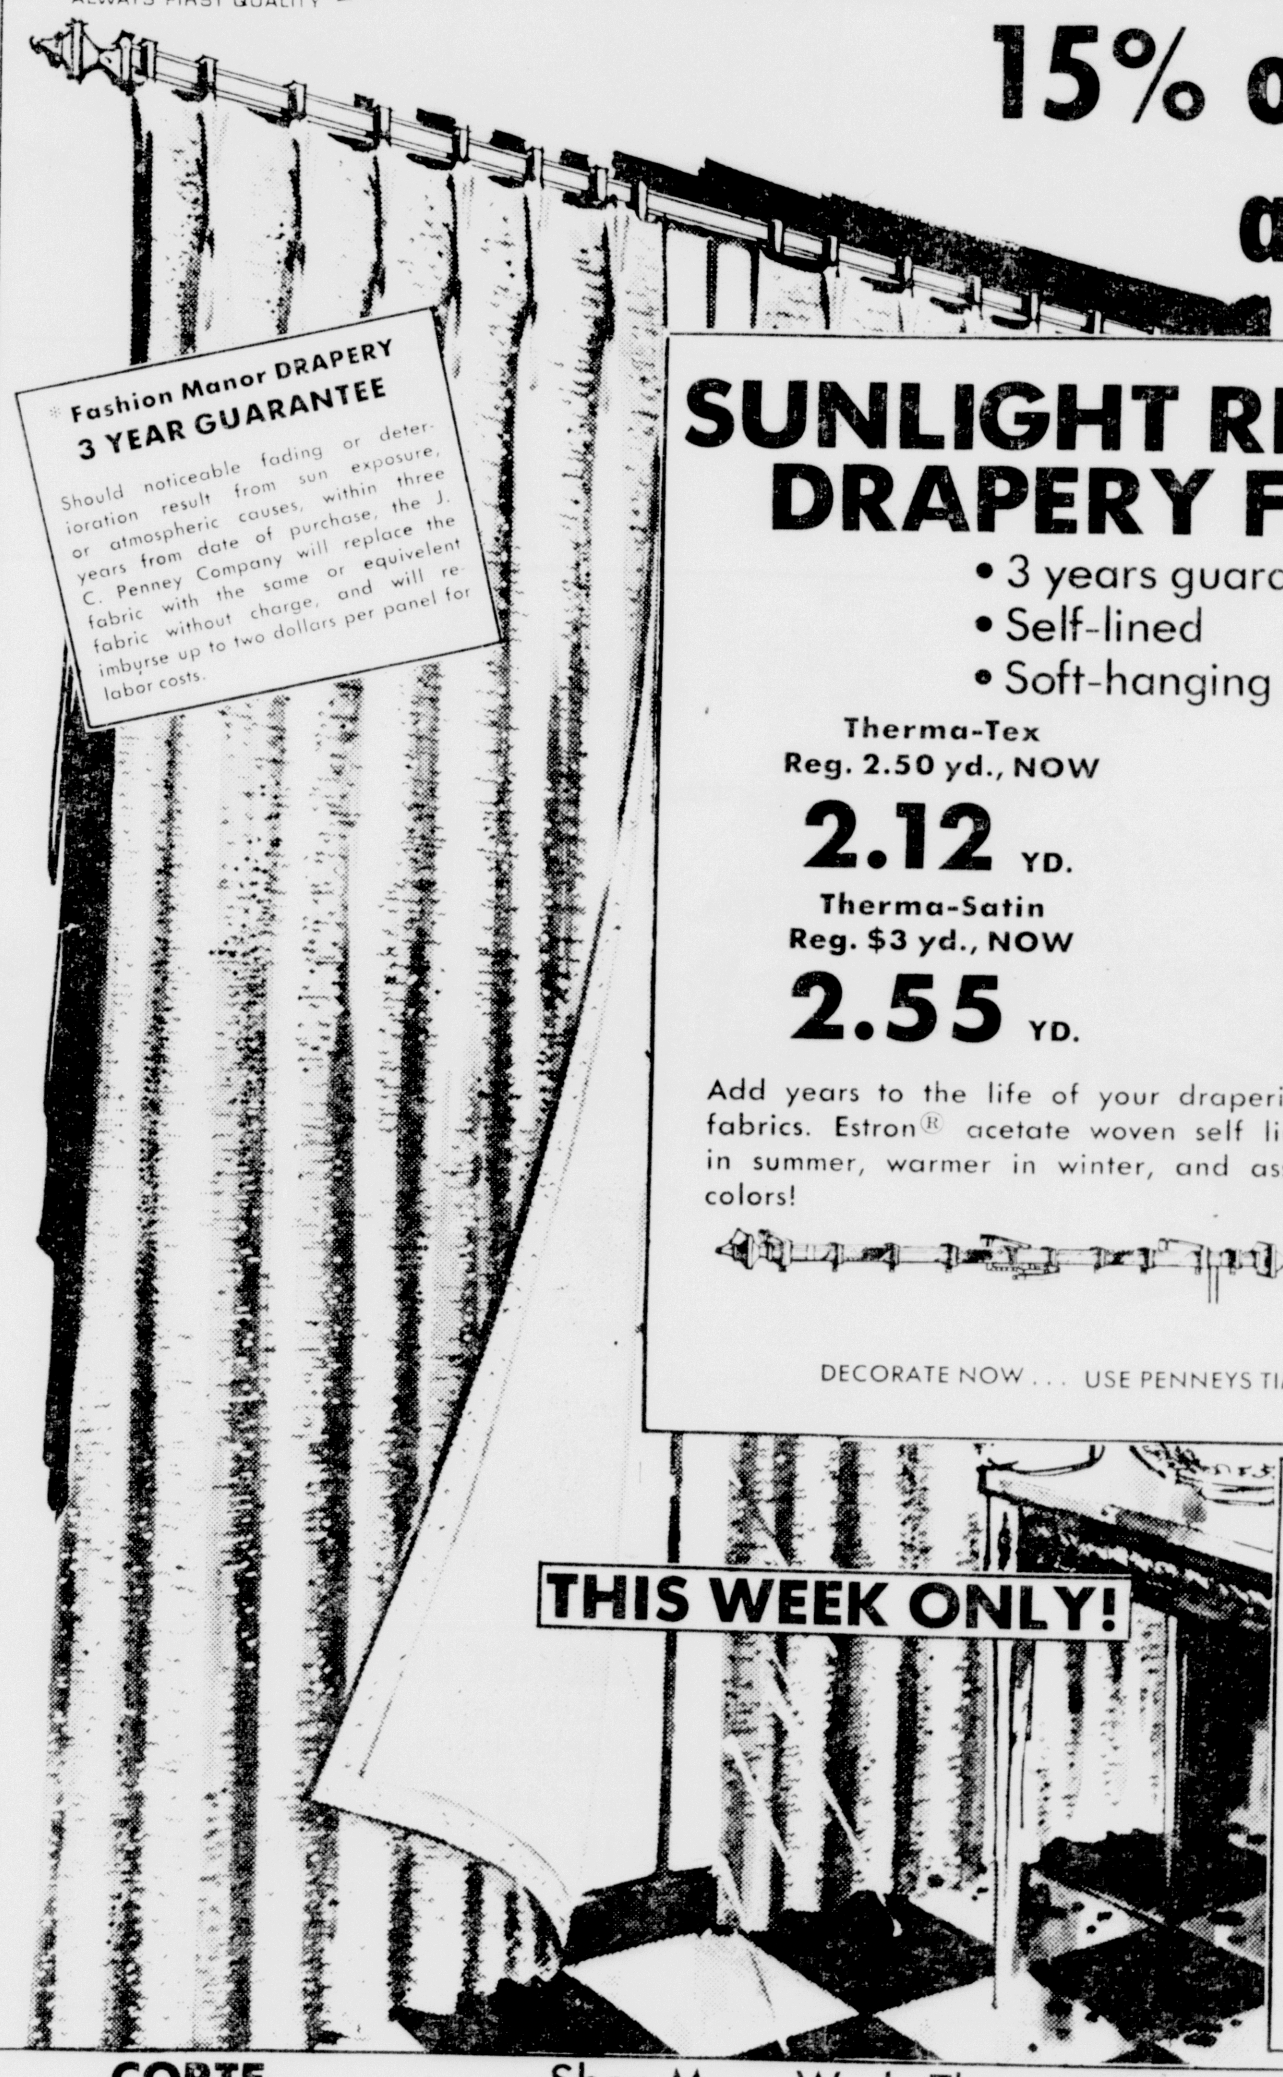

Enough For Drinks

VANDERBIJL PARK, South Africa (AP) — Enough money for a bit of marijuana and a bottle of brandy. That was all crane driver Pieter Bouwer Schutte willed his eldest son John when he died. Schutte stipulated that the remainder of the estate be divided among three other children—apart from $70 which he wanted spent on drinks for every man attending his funeral.

Some Auto Crashes Are Caused By Tires

Some "mystery" auto crashes that occur on rain-swept highways are really not so mysterious, according to Tom Thomas, manager of the tire department at Montgomery Ward's retail store in Corte Madera.

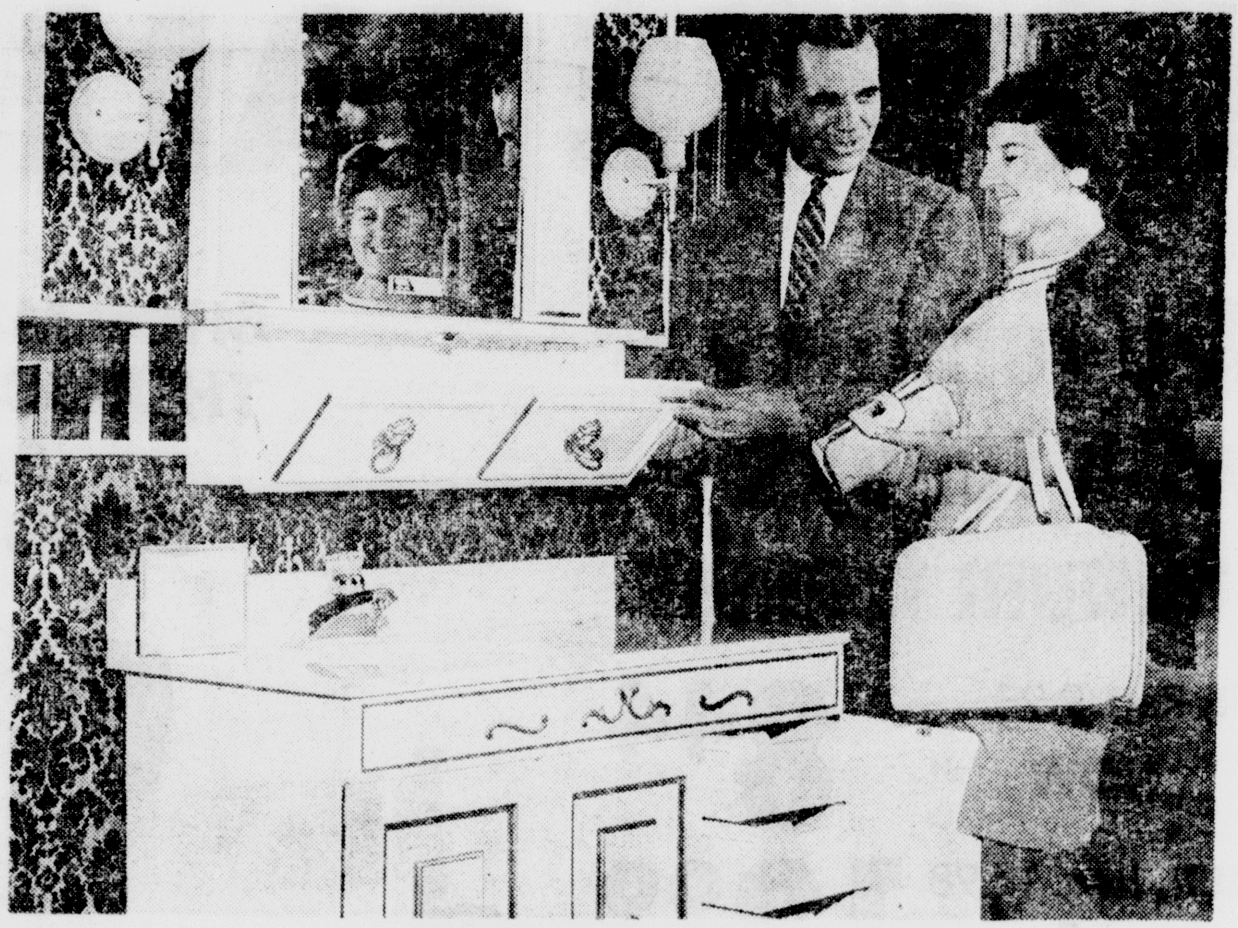

Some are caused by a combination of factors: the condition of the road, the amount of tread on a car's tires and the speed at which the car was traveling, he explained.

"If the water on the road is deeper than the tire grooves and the car's speed is high enough the front tires leave the surface," Thomas said. "That's where the trouble starts."

He continued, "Accidents like this don't have to happen, though. If motorists would replace their worn tires when the non-skid is worn down to the tread-wear indicator and would drive slower in bad weather the danger of sliding would be virtually eliminated."

Tread-depth indicators are built into tires at right angles to the grooves and appear when a sixteenth of an inch of tread is left. When the tread is worn down to this level a motorist knows it is time to replace his tires.

"Perhaps the best way of avoiding a skidout on rainy highways is to keep your driving speed down," Thomas said.
